

STARS OF COMFORT

Conferences of

Father Vincent McNabb, O.P.

This little book has been compiled by Dorothy Finlayson from verbatim notes taken at Fr Vincent's retreats. All the addresses are based on scriptural texts, and the title comes from Fr Vincent's words, 'Sayings of Our Lord must be remembered again and again; and we will find that they will never come into our mind without bringing their attendant stars of comfort with them.'

15s. (postage 7d.)

THE PSALMS ARE OUR PRAYER

Thomas Merton

Why has the Church always considered the Psalms her most perfect book of prayer?

The author here shows us how to use them. Quotations from the Psalms are from the Knox translation.

Paternoster Series. Paper, 2s. (postage 3d.)

BURNS & OATES London and Dublin

Obtainable through any Bookseller or from

BURNS OATES (Retail) Ltd, 129 Victoria Street, London, S.W.1

MY BELOVED

*The Story of a Carmelite Nun
Mother Catherine Thomas. 18s.*

Both Catholic and non-Catholic will be fascinated by this story, and will be moved by the qualities of faith, serenity and human understanding that shine throughout the book.

With the Imprimatur of the Archbishop of Westminster. Illustrated

LOAVES and FISHES

*Rev. Isidore O'Brien, O.F.M.
12s. 6d.*

'... An inspiring little collection of spiritual essays.'

Catholic Herald

THE WORLD'S WORK
KINGSWOOD · SURREY

WHAT ABOUT BECOMING A BROTHER?

With God's help you could do much for souls and bodies by joining the Hospitaller Brothers of St John of God

For full particulars write to:

Very Rev. Bro. Provincial,
St John of God's Hospital,
Scorton, Richmond, Yorks

A MAJOR EVENT IN RELIGIOUS PUBLISHING

CONGAR

LAY PEOPLE IN THE CHURCH

Trans. by Donald Attwater

This subject, which has come very much to the fore in recent years through the development of Catholic Action, has until now scarcely received a theological treatment. In this volume, which is a translation of Jalons pour une théologie du laïcat, the distinguished French theologian has devoted nearly 500 pages to the state of the layman, his place in the Church today and throughout history, the priesthood of the laity, the relationship between the faithful and the hierarchy and such important questions as the relationship between initiative and obedience in the life of the Church. This book is set in the context of man's responsibility for the world and here the conception of catholicity reaches out beyond the simple idea of the Christian destiny of man; it stretches out to include the whole of creation. The Church existed, it is true, before all time in God's mind; but it is also made here and now by us and the theology of the layman involves a new synthesis. The layman has to grasp the divine significance of things and be able to make such decisions and as a Christian he has to do this without being unpleasantly pious; lay people are not pseudo-monks. Lay people have to make decisions not in a spirit of mere complacent obedience to directives but by engaging their own intellects and their own hearts. Père Congar ranges over scripture and tradition, history and the present, councils and decrees, with an ease and harmony which will make of this book a standard text-book for any students of the Church wanting to look beyond mere abstraction or simple description.

27s. 6d.

BLOOMSBURY PUBLISHING Co. Ltd

PRINTED AT THE DITCHLING PRESS, HASSOCKS, SUSSEX, ENGLAND