

People in Political Science

Activities

Patricia S. Atkins, consulting director, Institute for the Regional Community, National Association of Regional Councils.

Daniel Bell, Henry Ford II Professor of Social Science Emeritus, Harvard University, and scholar-in-residence, American Academy of Arts and Sciences, was conferred an honorary degree by Keio University, Japan.

Ralph E. Bunch, Political Science Professor Emeritus, Portland State University, has been appointed lecturer and consultant to the Academy of the National Economy of the Government of the Russian Federation, Moscow, from October 1995 to April 1996. Bunch will assist in development of courseware for the Federal Employment Ministry.

Walter Dean Burnham, Frank C. Erwin Jr. Centennial Chair in Government, University of Texas at Austin, has been named a Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar for 1995–96.

Dan Caldwell, professor of political science, Pepperdine University, participated in the 1995 Nobel Symposium, sponsored by the Norwegian Nobel Institute. The Symposium, which focused on the topic "Intervention in Afghanistan and the Fall of Detente," featured a number of former American and Soviet policymakers, including, Admiral Stansfield Turner, Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, and General William Odom.

Teh-Kuang Chang, professor of political science, Ball State University, recently completed one year of teaching as Fulbright Professor at the American Studies Center of Shanghai International Studies University. Chang lectured at 12 universities and institutions throughout China during 1994–95.

Raymond Duvall, professor, department of political science, University of Minnesota, organized a three-day conference on "Cultures of Insecurity."

James L. Gibson, Distinguished University Professor of Political Science, University of Houston, delivered the keynote address to the South African Political Science Association in September, 1995. The title of the address was "The Paradoxes of Political Tolerance in Processes of Democratization."

The paper on which the address was based will be published in Politikon: South African Journal of Political Science, the journal of the South African Political Science Association.

Gerald L. Houseman, professor of political science, Indiana University at Fort Wayne, is a Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives from the Fourth District of Indiana.

Chun-tu Hsueh, former visiting professor and acting director, Centre for Chinese and East Asian Politics, Free University of Berlin, delivered the inaugural Huang Hsing Foundation (USA) Hsueh Chun-tu Distinguished Lecture on Asian Affairs at the Free University of Berlin. Hsueh is also chief editor, and contributor to, China and Her Neighbors: Prospects for the 21st Century (Current Events Publishing House, Beijing).

Charles O. Jones, Hawkins Professor of Political Science, University of Wisconsin-Madison, delivered the 1995 Julian J. Rothbaum Distinguished Lectures in Representative Government on the theme "A Presidency at Risk" at the University of Oklahoma.

Arlene Macleod, associate professor, department of political science, Bates College, has been named book review editor in Anthropology, Sociology, and Women's Studies by the International Journal of Middle East Studies.

William F.S. Miles, associate professor, department of political science, Northeastern University, had his book Hausaland Divided: Colonialism and Independence in Nigeria and Niger cited in the Encyclopedia Britannica Book of the Year as one of thirty-five books published in 1994 to have made a significant contribution to learning in the History of Mankind field.

Philip Norton, professor of government, University of Hull, UK, has been elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts.

Michael L. Vasu, department of public administration and political science, North Carolina State University, has been elected president of the Southern Association for Public Opinion Research for 1995–96.

Charles Wise, associate dean, School of Public Affairs and Environmental Affairs, Indiana University, has been named president-elect of the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration.

Charles Wise

Judith A. Youngman, associate professor of political science, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, recently was appointed by Secretary of Defense William J. Perry to a three-year term on the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services (DACOWITS).

Administrative Appointments

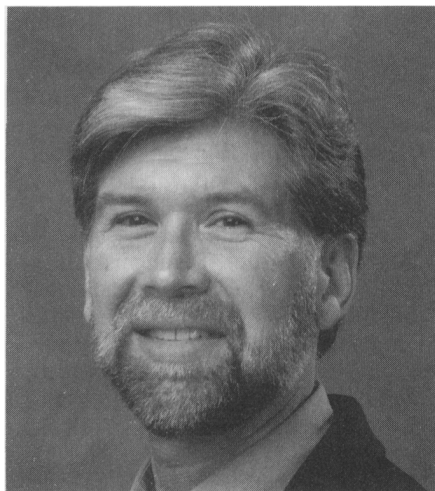

Anthony R. Brunello, associate dean of faculty for general education and chair, Foundations Collegium, Eckerd College.

Terry Christensen, chair, department of political science, San Jose State University.

Stephen E. Frantzich, chair, department of political science, U.S. Naval Academy.

Gary H. Geipel, director of research and programs, Hudson Institute.

Rita Duarte Marinho, assistant dean, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Massachusetts-Dartmouth.

Terry Christensen

William R. Shaffer, associate dean, School of Liberal Arts, Purdue University

Edward I. Sidlow, professor and head, department of political science, Eastern Michigan University; formerly director, academic affairs, Loyola University-Chicago.

W. Rand Smith, associate dean of the faculty, Lake Forest College.

John Sullivan, co-director, Center for Study of Political Psychology, University of Minnesota.

New Appointments

John J. Audley, assistant professor of political science, Purdue University.

Glen Beamer, assistant professor department of government and foreign affairs, University of Virginia.

Tristan Borer, assistant professor, Connecticut College; formerly University of Notre Dame.

Lief Carter, McHugh Distinguished Professor of American Institutions and Leadership, Colorado College; formerly University of Georgia.

Michael Coppedge, associate professor, department of government and international studies, University of Notre Dame; formerly Princeton University.

Debra DeLaet, assistant professor, Drake University; formerly University of Notre Dame.

Nancy Power, assistant professor, Florida State University; formerly University of Notre Dame.

Wendy Rahn, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Minnesota.

Garry Young, assistant professor of political science, University of Missouri-Columbia.

Promotions

Steven E. Finkel, professor, department of government and foreign affairs, University of Virginia. Finkel has also been named director, Ralph Bunche Summer Institute 1996, University of Virginia.

Peter J. Haas, professor, department of political science, San Jose State University.

Cobie (Kwasi) A. Harris, associate professor, department of political science, San Jose State University.

Cobie (Kwasi) A. Harris

Eloise Malone, associate professor, department of political science, U.S. Naval Academy.

Jeffrey J. Mondak, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Pittsburgh.

Kenneth Peter, associate professor, department of political science, San Jose State University.

Benjamin Radcliff, associate professor, department of government and international studies, University of Notre Dame.

L. John Roos, professor, department of government and international studies, University of Notre Dame.

Stephen Wrage, associate professor, department of political science, U.S. Naval Academy.

Retirements

Charles H. Kunsman, professor, department of political science, San Jose State University.

Roy E. Young, professor, department of political science, San Jose State University.

Visiting and Temporary Positions

J. Theodore Anagnoson, policy analyst, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation, Division of Health Policy, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, 1995-97.

Robert Boucher, visiting instructor, department of government and international studies, University of Notre Dame; formerly SUNY-Stony Brook.

Carlos E. Juarez, University of California President's postdoctoral Fellow and visiting scholar, Graduate School of International Relations and Pacific Studies, University of California-San Diego, 1995-96; formerly research fellow, Center for Mexican-US Studies, University of California-San Diego.

Holli A. Semetko, professor and chair of Audience and Public Opinion Research, Faculty of Social Science, University of Amsterdam, 1995-97. Semetko has also been elected chair, Political Communication Research Committee of the International Political Science Association, 1994-97.

Sheldon W. Simon, professor of political science, Arizona State University, spent the Fall 1995 semester conducting seminars and lectures in Asia under the auspices of USIA and research for the U.S. Institute of Peace. For the Spring 1995 semester Simon will hold a visiting research professorship at the Monterey Institute for International Studies.

Igor Zevelev, visiting professor of political science, San Jose State University, 1995-96; formerly Institute of World Economy and International Relations, Moscow.

Awards

USIP Names 1995-96 Senior Fellows and Peace Scholars

The United States Institute of Peace has announced the selection of thirteen Senior Fellows and ten Peace Scholars for the 1995 period. Included among the selectees are eight political sci-