CHINESE PICTURE RECITATION AND ITS INDIAN GENESIS

Victor H. Mair

In this extraordinary work of scholarship, Victor Mair traces the global development over a thousand years of a genre of popular Buddhist folk literature from China known as pien-wen. He points out its origins in India as a form of oral storytelling, using paintings as an aid, and shows how this form influenced performance and literary traditions in India, Indonesia, Japan, Central Asia, the Near East, Italy, France, and Germany. Generously illustrated. $30.00, cloth

The Life and Times of J. R. Jayewardene of Sri Lanka, Vol. 1

K. M. de Silva and W. Howard Wriggins

As a Cabinet Minister and his country's first Executive President, J. R. Jayewardene has helped Sri Lanka move from the status of semi-independent colony through independence to its present position as one of the few surviving third world democracies. His biography helps to illuminate the forces of change and continuity in Sri Lanka. Illustrated. $36.00, cloth

The Break-Up of Sri Lanka

THE SINHALESE-TAMIL CONFLICT

A. Jeyaratnam Wilson

From 1978 to 1983, Wilson was intimately involved in the political affairs of Sri Lanka and successfully negotiated a compromise agreement between President Jayewardene and leaders of the Tamil United Liberation Front. Using inside information and personal experience, Wilson analyses the historic enmity between the Sinhalese and Tamil communities and provides insights into India's stake in the island's affairs. $36.00, cloth

ASPECTS OF JAPANESE LITERATURE AND CULTURE

J. Thomas Rimer

In eight imaginative essays, J. Thomas Rimer describes various aspects of Japanese literature and culture ranging from fine arts to fiction, drama, and poetry. He points out a number of aesthetic assumptions that help link past and present, the traditional and the avant-garde in this complex culture. His thoughtful comparisons with Western art and literature show how Western culture functions in Japan. Color illustrations. $17.00, cloth

JESUIT ACCOMMODATION AND THE ORIGINS OF SINOLOGY

David E. Mungello

When Jesuit missionaries arrived in China in the late 16th century, they discovered a world of advanced culture that challenged European conceptions at nearly every point. Curious Land, originally published in Germany in 1985, describes how the Jesuit accommodation to internal events in China laid the foundation for the modern study of China in the West. "Brilliant conceptualization of the intellectual meeting of China and the West in modern times." Modern Language Review. Now in paperback, $17.00

Policy Making in China

Leaders, Structures, and Processes

Kenneth Lieberthal and Michel Oksenberg

From interviews with over a hundred Chinese bureaucrats and foreign businessmen and from new documentary evidence, Kenneth Lieberthal and Michel Oksenberg present a richly detailed analysis of the Chinese energy industry that speaks to issues well beyond the energy field. Tracing the evolution of post-Mao policy toward three major energy projects (Shanxi coal, South China Sea petroleum, and the Three Gorges dam on the Yangtze), they outline a new theory of the organization of power in contemporary China.

The Poet Shen Yüeh (441–513)

The Reticent Marquis

Richard B. Mather

This book is a literary biography of Shen Yüeh, a statesman, historian, poet, and devout lay defender of both Buddhism and Taoism. The title "Reticent Marquis" (Yin-hou) was awarded him posthumously by the Liang Emperor Wu, who, though owing his own rise to power partly to Shen's bold counsel, had found him less than forthcoming from that point onward. Richard B. Mather provides the first full description in a Western language of Shen's life and thought and supplies numerous translations of his surviving letters, memorials, poems, and essays.

JAPAN, INC.

Introduction to Japanese Economics
(The Comic Book)

SHOTARO ISHINOMORI

With an Introduction by PETER DUUS

Translated by BETSEY SCHEINER

“A pithy summation of trade between Japan and the United States. . . . A triumph over translation and technical problems almost as complicated as U. S.-Japanese trade negotiations.” —San Francisco Chronicle*

“Both entertaining and a splendid introduction to the country’s current economic problems.” —Chalmers Johnson, Far Eastern Economic Review

In this rollicking, yet perceptive introduction to the world economy from the Japanese point of view is an unusual portrait not only of the Japanese economy but of the Japanese themselves and how they see the world. At times scurrilous and outrageous, yet also full of informative charts and facts, Japan, Inc. will appeal to students, scholars, businessmen, and anyone interested in Japanese-American relations and the future of the world economy.

THE POISON IN THE GIFT

Ritual, Prestation, and the Dominant Caste in a North Indian Village

GLORIA GOODWIN RAHEJA

A breakthrough in South Asian studies, this detailed ethnography of gift-giving in a North Indian village sets forth a powerful new theoretical interpretation of caste. Undermining Dumont's argument in Homo Hierarchicus, Raheja shows that patterns of centrality, rather than hierarchy, are the most salient in the ritual and social life of a Hindu village.

THE DYNAMICS OF POLYANDRY

Kinship, Domesticity, and Population on the Tibetan Border

Nancy E. Levine

In the first systematic account of fraternal polyandry, Levine contends that polyandry cannot be explained by economic or demographic reasons alone. Her analysis of this complex and rare social system stresses the importance of notions of ethnic identity, family descent, and social ranking and obligation. The work greatly contributes to knowledge of Himalayan societies and provides rich material for rethinking theories in kinship studies, gender studies, and human behavioral ecology.

NEW AND NOTEWORTHY FROM KODANSHA

BLACK RAIN

MASUJI IBUSE

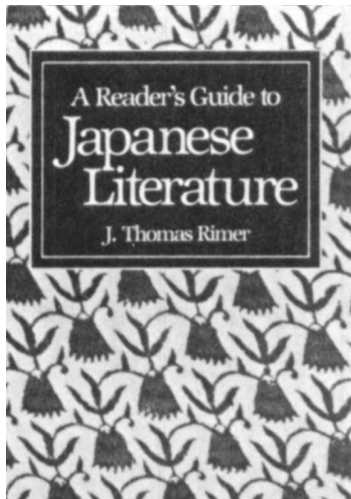

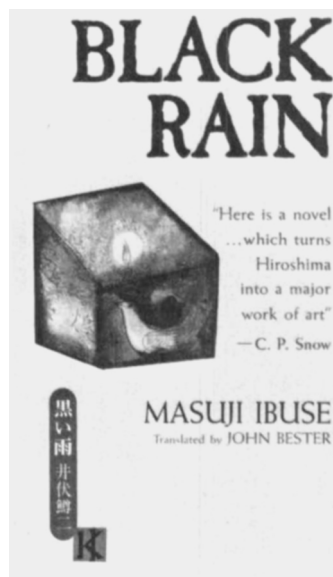

Translated by John Bester

A novel based on actual diaries of and interviews with survivors of Hiroshima, this literary masterpiece probes deeply into the personal and historical implications of nuclear attack. In this long-overdue reissue, Ibuse tells with almost intolerable poignancy the story of a family caught in the nuclear "black rain" whose lives became forever haunted by its physical and emotional effects. Written almost entirely in the epistolary form, BLACK RAIN's literary truthfulness creates a powerful tale free from sentimentalism, yet managing to reveal the magnitude of the human spirit.

"... a book deservedly a world classic for its oddly delicate evocation of the human suffering caused by the atomic bomb."—BOSTON GLOBE

"This painful and very beautiful book gives two powerful messages—of drastic warning, yet also of affirmation of life."—JOHN HERSEY

A READER'S GUIDE TO JAPANESE LITERATURE

J. THOMAS RIMER

Exploring authors, plots, characters, and themes, Thomas Rimer treats 20 classic and 30 modern works, from the classic THE TALE OF GENJI to the experimental WOMAN IN THE DUNES. This guide can open the gateway to these masterpieces and is an excellent road map for the uninitiated. The fifty works represented include fiction, poetry, and dramatic texts and are all available in English translations. Rimer provides helpful hints to bring out the full flavor of the works, places each piece in its historical context, and compares the relative merits of translations. Bibliographical notes at the end of each article point out further recommended readings.

Formerly Chief of the Asian Division of the Library of Congress, Dr. Thomas Rimer is now the head of East Asian Studies at the University of Maryland.

UNEQUAL ALLIANCE

The World Bank, the International Monetary Fund, and the Philippines

ROBIN BROAD

"This is an excellent book. In particular, Broad's access to a range of Philippine and World Bank participants in the late 1970s and early 1980s loan negotiations provides a unique picture of the processes of globalist institution-transformation in a crucial, less developed country. And it does this while avoiding a mechanistic, black-box conspiracy theory without ignoring the sometimes overwhelming impact that international capitalist institutions can have on 'Third World' policy formation."

Introducing
THE JAPANESE FAMILY

The first teaching module in the series,
Japanese Society Through Film
 Created and published by the Japan Society (New York)

The dynamics of the traditional family, the new middle class urban household, commitment to education, intergenerational conflict, and the changing nature of family life—these important aspects of Japanese family life are explored in Japanese Society Through Film: The Japanese Family.

This revolutionary teaching module includes three Japanese films on videocassette: Yasujiro Ozu's Early Summer (Bakushu, 1950), a gentle story of obligation and individualism centering on the marriage of a family's daughter; Mikio Naruse's intriguing Mother (Okaasan, 1952), an intimate rendering of a working-class mother's self-sacrifice for the good of her family; and Yoshimitsu Morita's black comedy Family Game (Kazoku geimu, 1983), a hilarious portrayal of an urban middle class family caught up in a battle of wits against the Japanese educational system. A detailed teaching guide edited by anthropologist Theodore C. Bestor of Columbia University includes analytical essays by Professor Bestor and distinguished critic of Japanese cinema, Donald Richie.

Future modules are: Japanese Literature on Film J. Thomas Rimer, ed.; (available Dec. '88); Japan at War John Dower, ed.; Women in Japanese Society Takie Sugiyama Lebra, ed.; Childhood and Education in Japan, Merry White, ed. All include three outstanding Japanese films in videocassette format—with English subtitles—accompanied by a teaching guide.

Ideal for use in Japanese studies, cinema studies and topical courses in the humanities and social sciences—or as a mini-film series.

The Japanese Family module is funded by a grant from the Matsushita Foundation, Inc.; module two and subsequent modules are made possible in part by a grant from The Hitachi Foundation; modules two, three and four are assisted by a grant from the United States Department of Education. Technical production of Japanese Society Through Film is made possible by Sony Video Software Company.

The Origins of Chinese Communism

ARIF DIRLIK, Duke University

Advance praise: "By far the most detailed, sophisticated, and comprehensive treatment of the origins of the Communist Party of China yet written.... Likely to be the standard work on the [subject] for years to come.... A gold mine of information and insights." —Maurice Meisner, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Based on a wealth of archival material released after Mao's death, this book disputes long-held beliefs about the domestic origins of Chinese communism to argue that communist thought and organization were brought into radical circles by the Comintern. Though Chinese radicals would not have turned to communism unassisted, Dirlik concludes, Marxist ideology took hold easily when introduced from the outside.

New Japanese Literature from North Point

A Zen Harvest

*Japanese Folk Sayings
(Haiku, Dodoitsu, and Waka)
compiled and translated by
Zen priest SŌIKU SHIGEMATSU
Foreword by ROBERT AITKEN*

An English translation of capping-phrases, collected from Japanese literature and used in traditional Japanese Rinzai Zen practice. "Shigematsu manages to capture the brevity and suggestiveness of the koan in an English idiom that is neither archaic nor awkward, and remains true to its source."

Faithful Endurance

An Ethnography of Korean Family Dispersal

Choong Soon Kim

As a result of World War II and the Korean War, an estimated five million Koreans were separated from their families, many with no hope of ever being reunited following the partition of Korea in 1950. This account of the pain of separation—and the joy of reunion, via a 1983 telethon—depicts the lasting impact of war upon the lives of ordinary people in a traditional, family-centered society. $25.95.

"Dr. Kim's account of the Korean tragedy is in the finest tradition of the anthropologist's motto of letting the people speak; it is a superb example of a compassionate ethnographer articulating the story of a people's suffering and endurance. It is an ethnography that perhaps only he, a Korean who has become an American anthropologist, could write. The combined qualities of his upbringing and his training have allowed Dr. Kim to approach his subject with both sensitivity and objectivity, and out of his work has come a moving document."—Miles Richardson

FOR THE LORD OF THE ANIMALS—POEMS FROM THE TELUGU

The Kālahastīśvara Śatakamu of Dhūrjaṭi

Translated with Introduction and Notes by

HANK HEIFETZ and

VELCHERU NARAYANA RAO

The Kālahastīśvara Śatakamu, a 16th-century collection of lyrics in the Telugu language, is one of the most important works of the classical poets of the Andhra region of India. In this first presentation of this literature in English translation, Heifetz and Rao combine informed scholarship and literary skill to present the voice of the poet. The lyrics are charged with deep feelings as Dhurjati deals with such issues as sensuality, death, aesthetics, politics, family life, devotionalism and mysticism. $25.00

THREE NEW BOOKS BY CHÜN-TU HSÜEH 薛君度

MENLIN JI (門林集)

Beijing: China Friendship Publishing Co. January 1989

A collection of 28 articles written by Professor Hsüeh and published in the People's Daily and other leading Chinese newspapers and scholarly journals in the PRC and the US in the 1980s. The book includes accounts of meetings and discussions with Party General Secretary Hu Yaobang and other CCP Political Bureau members, Prince Sihanouk, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Kapitsa and Hong Kong Governor David C Wilson. Of interest as well are the author's reminiscences, travelogues, discussions of Sino-American and Sino-Soviet relations, and of the Hong Kong situation.

HUANG HSING XINLUN 黄兴新论 (Essays on Huang Hsing)

Wuchang, PRC: Wuhan University Press, Fall 1988.

Edited with contributions by Hsüeh and Professor Xiao Zhizhi, the book consists of 20 scholarly articles that have been published in the PRC during the 1980s, presenting new analyses concerning the co-founder of the Republic of China. A 30,000-word commentary on the studies of Huang and related bibliographical works are published for the first time in this collection.

THE CHINESE REVOLUTION OF 1911: NEW PERSPECTIVES

Hong Kong: Joint Publishing Co (9 Victoria Street), 1986. 234 pp. ISBN 962-04-0341-X

A collection of original articles by Hsüeh and other noted Chinese scholars. Published in the PRC in the 1980s, these studies reflect some of the new findings and interpretations of Chinese historiography of the 1911 Revolution that overthrew the Manchu dynasty. It includes photos, calligraphy and an appendix of revolutionary literature consisting of English translation of Huang Hsing's poems and tz'u.

The author/editor is Professor of Government and Politics at the University of Maryland, College Park, and Advisory Professor at Fudan University, Shanghai.

PHILOSOPHY AND TRADITION

THE INTERPRETATION OF
CHINA'S PHILOSOPHIC PAST:

馮 友 蘭

FUNG YU-LAN

1939-1949

MICHEL C. MASSON

Historian of Chinese philosophy, Fung Yu-lan (1895-) has also elaborated a "new system", centered on the question of "Chinese modernity", which refutes revolutionary communist ideology as well as neo-confucian culturalism or anti-traditional liberal positions. For Fung, the question was to determine these universal values which would only be able to ascertain the authentic "Chinese tradition". In so doing in a set of writings, composed in Peking between 1937 and 1949, Fung touched all questions implied by modernisation. These questions remain actual in these present years in China.

Acting as a Way of Salvation

A Study of Raganuga Bhakti Sadhana

DAVID L. HABERMAN, Williams College

"An excellent book. Haberman shows how it is that a certain very influential Vaisnava theologian of the sixteenth century, Rupa Gosvamin, rearranged previously existing categories of aesthetic and to some degree religious analysis to make a case for 'acting as a way of salvation.' The exposition is so clear and interesting that the book will become a basic work in its field."

Dominance and State Power in India

Decline of a Social Order, Volume 1

Edited by FRANCINE R. FRANKEL, University of Pennsylvania, and the late M.S.A. RAO, formerly of Delhi University

The first in a two-volume series, this book analyzes the interactions between caste stratification, class structure, ethnicity, and secular political institutions in India from colonial times through the 1985 presidential election. Using a historical and comparativist perspective, the contributors consider nearly every major area in India—including Bihar, Kerala, and Tamil Nadu—to develop an empirical theory of political and economic change appropriate to the Indian culture.

THE WINKING OWL

Art in the People's Republic of China

ELLEN JOHNSTON LAING

Art in the People's Republic of China is art at the service of politics. With each change in political policy, Chinese artists have been obliged to adopt their artistic production to conform to the prevailing political-artistic dicta, and the resulting interplay between art and politics has been extremely complex. The Winking Owl provides for the first time an objective description of this artistic-political interrelationship. Laing demonstrates beyond a doubt that the bonds between politics and art in the People's Republic of China can no longer be ignored if we seriously wish to understand culture in China today.

DEATH RITUAL IN LATE IMPERIAL AND MODERN CHINA

JAMES L. WATSON and EVELYN S. RAWSKI, Editors

During the late imperial era (1500-1911), China, though divided by ethnic, linguistic, and regional differences at least as great as those prevailing in Europe, enjoyed a remarkable solidarity. What held Chinese society together for so many centuries? Some scholars have pointed to the institutional control over the written word as instrumental in promoting cultural homogenization; others, the manipulation of the performing arts. This volume, comprised of essays by both anthropologists and historians, furthers this important discussion by examining the role of death rituals in the unification of Chinese culture.

A CHINESE BEGGARS' DEN

Poverty and Mobility in an Underclass Community

David C. Schak

Who becomes a beggar and why? What family and social relationships do they develop? Are they locked into a culture of poverty? This fascinating and path-breaking study of a community of Chinese beggars answers these and many other questions about begging and challenges widely held theories of poverty. Schak uncovers the dynamics of a poor population in modern Taiwan as it changes over time, comparing the modern experience of beggars with begging in the Chinese cultural tradition. His is the only anthropological study of Chinese beggars in English and one of the few such studies of beggars anywhere.
