Slavery, Colonialism and Economic Growth in Dahomey, 1640-1960

PATRICK MANNING

Dahomey (now the People's Republic of Bénin) has played an active role in the world economy for virtually the whole era of mercantile and industrial capitalism, beginning as an exporter of slaves and becoming an exporter of palm oil and palm kernels. This book integrates into a single framework its pre-colonial, colonial and post-colonial economic history.

JOHN X. MERRIMAN

Paradoxical South African Statesman

Phyllis Lewsen

Merriman, the most influential liberal English statesman in the Cape Colony and its last prime minister, was active in South African politics for more than half a century before his death in 1926. The first comprehensive biography of this controversial man shows that he was an advocate for civil rights, an orator and parliamentarian, and an incomparable writer of political correspondence. £28.00

Contributions to the Journal are welcomed. They may be submitted in either English or French. They should not exceed about 6000 words (excluding footnotes), except with the prior approval of the Editors. A summary of the contents of the article, not exceeding about 300 words in length, should be attached on a separate sheet. Contributors are asked to observe closely the conventions listed in the Notes for Contributors, Vol. XV, pp. 173-4. It is essential that contributors observe these conventions, as the Journal now goes straight into page proof. This severely limits the number of corrections which are possible.

Page proofs will be sent, if necessary by airmail, to each contributor (or his nominee) provided that the Editors have been given an address through which he can be reached without delay. Corrections should be kept to the minimum, and should be corrections, not new material. If they are to be incorporated in the master proof corrected by the Editors, it is important that the contributor should return the page proofs, by airmail if necessary, to the Editor named when they are sent out (and not to the Cambridge University Press), within ten days of his receipt of them.

Contributors of articles and review articles receive 25 free offprints. Additional offprints may be obtained at reasonable cost, provided that they are ordered before publication on the special form sent out with the page proofs.

All contributions and books for review should be addressed to The Editors, The Journal of African History, School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, London, W.C.1.
