

Stalin's Forgotten Zion

Birobidzhan and the Making of a Soviet Jewish Homeland

An Illustrated History, 1928–1996

Robert Weinberg

Illustrations edited by Bradley Berman

Introduction by Zvi Gitelman

Published in association with The Judah L. Magnes Museum
£45.00 cloth, £19.95 paper, illustrated

This carefully documented and extensively illustrated book explores the Soviet government's failed experiment to create a socialist Jewish homeland. Drawing upon documents from archives in Moscow and Birobidzhan, as well as photograph collections never seen outside Birobidzhan, Weinberg's story of the Soviet Zion sheds new light on a host of important historical and contemporary issues regarding Jewish identity, community, and culture.

Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies (formerly New Community)

EDITOR

Dr Malcolm Cross, ERCOMER, University of Utrecht, The Netherlands

New Community will enter a new phase of its life with the first issue of Volume 24 in January 1998. The journal will be re-titled to become the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies (JEMS). The change has become necessary because many of the journal's readers and potential readers find difficulty in associating the current title with its content. It must be stressed, however, that JEMS is not a new journal; it will incorporate and extend New Community's scope, and build upon its success.

JEMS will continue to publish the results of first class research on all forms of migration and its consequences, together with articles on ethnic conflict, discrimination, racism, nationalism, citizenship and policies of integration. Contributions to the journal, which are all fully refereed, are especially welcome when they are the result of comparative research, particularly within Europe or between one or more European country and the countries of North America and the Asia-Pacific. A wish to promote comparison between advanced industrial countries is one reason that the journal has appointed distinguished associate editors from the United States and Australia.

JEMS publishes the results of research from any branch of the social sciences (including law). The journal has a long-standing interest in policy debates, and in the evaluation of policy initiatives. It will publish special issues on themes of current interest, and will continue to feature biannual reports on developments in migration and on policy issues. The book review section will aim to cover the most important titles, and sections on 'Research Notes' and 'Debates' will be included on a regular basis.

New Political Economy

EDITORS

Alexis de Tocqueville once declared that a new science was needed for a new world. The past decade has seen the emergence of a new world order - a new stage in the development of the world economic and political system. Understanding it will require new modes of analysis and new theories, and a readiness to tear down intellectual barriers, bringing together many approaches, methods, and disciplines which for too long have been separated. In short, what is needed is a new political economy, which combines the breadth of vision which characterised the classical political economy of the nineteenth century with the analytical advances of twentieth century social science.

New Political Economy creates a forum for work which seeks to bridge past empirical and conceptual divides. The emphasis is upon exploratory and innovative work which draws on different disciplines and which addresses core issues in the main constituent elements of its research agenda: namely, comparative political economy, the political economy of the environment, the political economy of development, and international political economy.

Global Society: Journal of Interdisciplinary International Relations covers the new agenda in international relations and encourages innovative approaches to the study of international issues from a range of disciplines. It promotes the analysis of international transactions at multiple levels, and in particular, the way in which these transactions blur the distinction between the sub-national, national and transnational levels.

Social Identities

EDITORS

Abebe Zegeye, University of California, Santa Barbara, USA

David Theo Goldberg, Arizona State University, Tempe, USA

Recent years have witnessed considerable worldwide changes concerning social identities such as race, nation and ethnicity, as well as the emergence of new forms of racism and nationalism as discriminatory exclusions. Focusing on these changes is a new body of academic work appearing in a wide range of journals. The aim of Social Identities is to furnish an interdisciplinary and international focal point for theorizing issues at the interface of social identities. The journal is especially concerned to address these issues in the context of the transforming political economies and cultures of postmodern and postcolonial conditions. Social Identities is intended as a forum for contesting ideas and debates concerning the formations of, and transformations in, socially significant identities, their attendant forms of material exclusion and power, as well as the political and cultural possibilities opened up by these identifications.

ELECTRONIC ACCESS

In 1998 Carfax is making Social Identities available over the Internet at no extra charge; subscribers to the journal in 1998 will be able to access 1998 issues via the Internet using RealPage software with no further payment. This applies to the 1998 volume of the journal only. For further details on how to access the electronic version please visit the Carfax Home Page at <http://www.carfax.co.uk/cfxnews.htm>

Islam and Christian-Muslim Relations

EDITORS

John L. Esposito, Georgetown University, Washington, DC, USA
and Jørgen S. Nielsen, Selly Oak Colleges, Birmingham, UK

Islam and Christian-Muslim Relations (ICMR) was launched in June 1990 and has been hailed by scholars of Islam, Christianity and religion in general, as well as by social scientists, educationists, community and religious leaders.

ICMR provides a forum for all those who wish to enhance their critical appreciation of the two religious traditions on historical, empirical, ideological and theoretical issues. Since its new partnership with the Center for Muslim-Christian Understanding at Georgetown University, Washington DC commenced in 1996, the journal has broadened its scope to encompass issues concerning Christian-Muslim relations in politics and international affairs.

The joint editors welcome scholarly contributions concerning Islam and the West, the past and present, as well as on Christian-Muslim relations worldwide.

The journal publishes articles that deal with the role of Islam and the nature of Christian-Muslim relations, analysis of theological, social and political responses to Muslim interaction with Christian and other societies and cultures, whether as minorities or majorities. The journal contains articles, documentation, reports, review articles and book reviews.

NATIONALITIES PAPERS is the only journal in the world which deals exclusively with all nationalities of the former USSR, and also with national minorities in Eastern and Central European countries. The problems and importance of over 140 million people are treated with the disciplinary and methodological contexts of Post-Soviet and Europe-Asia studies. Of central concern is the fate of the Balts, Ukrainians, Jews and the peoples of Central Asia and the Caucasus. Nationalities Papers is an international and multidisciplinary journal with contributors and readers throughout North America, Western and Eastern Europe, the Far East, Japan and the People's Republic of China. Included in each general issue are in-depth analyses from the historical view, updates on latest developments, some original documents, and book reviews; some issues concentrate on a region or nationality as a special topic, which exclusive focus allows for more extensive and detailed information.

Submission of manuscripts. For information on submitting manuscripts, write to: Professor Henry R. Huttenbach, Editor-in-Chief, Nationalities Papers, Department of History, The City College of New York, 138th Street and Convent Avenue, New York, NY 10031, USA.

Business correspondence, including orders and remittances related to subscriptions, back issues, offprints and advertisements, should be addressed to the publisher: Carfax Publishing Ltd, PO Box 25, Abingdon, Oxfordshire OX14 3UE, UK.

Copyright. It is a condition of publication that authors vest copyright in their articles, including abstracts, in The Association for the Study of Nationalities. This enables us to ensure full copyright protection and to disseminate the article, and the journal, to the widest possible readership in print and electronic formats as appropriate. Authors may, of course, use the article elsewhere after publication without prior permission from Carfax, provided that acknowledgement is given to the journal as the original source of publication, and that Carfax is notified so that our records show that its use is properly authorised.
