The Bases of Political Community in South Vietnam

Allan E. Goodman

Politics in War deals mainly with the years 1967–1970, but bears on the problems South Vietnam faces now that American forces are no longer active. Mr. Goodman has based his analysis of how the Vietnamese saw the period of deepest American involvement on first-hand research, including over three hundred interviews with Vietnamese political leaders and government officials. $12.50

India's Revolution

Gandhi and the Quit India Movement

Francis G. Hutchins

Gandhi's Quit India movement of 1942 climaxed a nationalist revolutionary movement which sought independence on India's own terms. The author maintains that independence was attained through revolution, not through the benevolence of the British Imperial regime, and he uses the Indian case to develop a general theory of the revolutionary nature of colonial nationalism. $14.00

The Internal Organization of Ch'ing Bureaucracy

Legal, Normative, and Communication Aspects

Thomas A. Metzger

Mr. Metzger challenges conventional views of Ch'ing despotism and of the Ch'ing bureaucracy as tradition-bound and rigid. He stresses the flexibility of Ch'ing organizational efforts and provides an understanding of the organizational heritage with which the process of political modernization began in China. $20.00

The Cult of the Dead in a Chinese Village

Emily M. Ahern. "The best study of Chinese ancestor worship yet produced. It will mark a new stage in the study of the subject."—MAURICE FREEDMAN. A complex and all-pervasive form of ancestor worship, the cult of the dead reveals the basic design of society in the Taiwanese village of Ch'inan. The author shows how it reflects personal relationships, geographical, social, and political divisions, and the villager's world view, presenting in the process a wealth of new information on Chinese religious practice. Illustrated. $10.00

Japanese Economic Growth

Trend Acceleration in the Twentieth Century

Kazushi Ohkawa and Henry Rosovsky. This study, which emphasizes the dramatic growth of the Japanese economy since World War II, attempts to fit Japan's experience into a historical growth model of the type familiar to economists. After a brief historical introduction, the authors establish the basic pattern of Japan's 20th-century growth and consider individual aspects of this growth in detail. The work concludes with a look at Japan's economic future. Studies in Economic Growth in Industrialized Countries. $15.00

COMMUNISM IN KOREA

ROBERT A.
SCALAPINO
&
CHONG-SIK LEE

A pioneering work, both in substance and in methodology. It is the first in-depth study of the origins and evolution of Korean Communism down to the present. It is also the first book to combine two basic approaches in its treatment of a Communist movement: an historical, developmental treatment and a topical, social-science-oriented analysis.

The World of the Huns

Studies in Their History and Culture

Otto J. Maenchen-Helfen

Edited by Max Knight

The Huns appeared in Europe at the beginning of the Middle Ages from "somewhere in the East," terrorized the later Roman Empire, caused a great upheaval in the Mediterranean world—and vanished. Illiterate, they left no written records; literary evidence of them is secondary and unreliable. Maenchen-Helfen was fascinated by the mystery of the Huns, and although the book is designed primarily for scholarly readers, it should appeal to others who have an interest in the ancient world or a taste for a good detective story.

The Soviet Union in Asia

Geoffrey Jukes

Jukes examines the Soviet Union's involvement in Asia by delving into the realities of geography, politics and economics rather than revolutionary polemics. An inextricable part of the Asian continent, the U.S.S.R. fulfills a myriad of roles in the military, diplomatic, and economic fields.

Social Relations in a Philippine Market

Self-Interest and Subjectivity

William G. Davis

Mr. Davis describes a local-level marketing system located in a commercially important market-gardening and tourist area of northern Luzon. He depicts the organization of the market network and the connections of the local market with the capital-intensive world of large-scale commerce. Through an analysis of marketplace activity and local-level political processes, the connections between town-based marketeers and rural cultivators emerge.

The Consolidation of the South China Frontier

George V. H. Moseley, III

The presence of large ethnic minorities along the southern Chinese frontier from the Himalayas to the Pacific poses a special problem for Peking. Mr. Moseley examines China's national minority question by limiting his consideration mainly to Yunnan and Kwangsi provinces. His findings, based on firsthand research in the field as well as on obscure published sources, attempt to define an historical continuity in China's minority policy from before the Revolution.

British Factory: Japanese Factory

The Origins of National Diversity in Employment Relations

Ronald P. Dore

In this book, the author of City Life in Japan and Education in Tokugawa Japan questions the theory that all industrial societies inevitably evolve into a common pattern. Dore uses the comparison between the English and Japanese factory systems to prove his point and comes up with some fascinating theories of his own.

Japanese Blue Collar

The Changing Tradition

Robert E. Cole

In this analysis of the interaction between the universal aspects of the industrialization process and the culture and social structure peculiar to Japan, Mr. Cole examines the role of tradition among contemporary blue-collar workers. His observations do much to modify the popular stereotype of the Japanese worker as submissive and loyal to authority.

LC: 77-107656 cloth $9.50 paper $3.45

The Politics of Labor Legislation in Japan

National-International Interaction

Ehud Harari

This first study of the interaction of labor policy at the local, national, and international levels examines a case of freedom of association within the International Labor Organization. Mr. Harari traces the issue against both the prewar and postwar backgrounds, explaining why union leaders appealed for ILO involvement at that particular time, why the ILO responded favorably, how it exerted pressure on the Japanese government, and what considerations affected the government.

FOCUSING ON AFGHANISTAN

Reform and Rebellion in Afghanistan, 1919-1929

King Amanullah's Failure to Modernize a Tribal Society

By LEON B. POUILLADA. This in-depth study of the reign and fall of King Amanullah, one of the first modernizers of present-day Asia, is the result of over fifteen years of personal involvement, study, and research by a career diplomat and scholar. Professor Poullada draws on new, formerly secret primary sources to correct many misconceptions about the King's dethronement—in particular, the widely held belief that the British secretly engineered the rebellion that overthrew him—and reexamines Amanullah's attempt to propel an essentially tribal society into the twentieth century. $14.50

The Politics of Afghanistan

By RICHARD S. NEWELL. "Centrally organized around the theme of political forces at play in the country, Newell successfully weaves the diverse threads of physical, social, and historical settings, governmental structure and functions, economic activities, and contemporary political developments into a coherent and balanced analysis of the political system of the kingdom of Afghanistan. . . . This book is the best single source now available on contemporary developments in Afghanistan." —Journal of Developing Areas (South Asian Political Systems series) $9.50

Afghanistan

Highway of Conquest

By ARNOLD FLETCHER. "This book is an attempt to correct what Fletcher terms 'a distorted picture' of the history of Afghanistan. . . . By including in his researches manuscripts and materials from Afghan archives and museums, the author succeeds in presenting a more balanced view of [its] recent history. . . . An excellent basic introduction to the history of Afghanistan."—Choice $9.50

Vietnam: how and why

"From this country's reluctant venture into imperialism in the Philippines to the Nixon doctrine of the '70s . . . an admirably fair-minded study enriched by Fifield's interviews with several Presidents, ambassadors and State Department figures. Impressive bibliography and index."

—Publishers Weekly

"Fifield draws upon his extensive skills to defend his earlier views against the rising tide of revisionism."

—Library Journal

With emphasis on the crucial period from 1946 to 1954—often ignored in previous studies—Professor Russell H. Fifield demonstrates in political and social terms the how and why of U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia. His volume falls into four major divisions: The Early Period, The Transition, The Watershed of 1954 (the period of basic commitment), and The Aftermath (in which the war experience is elucidated).

Especially fascinating are Dr. Fifield's analyses of what he terms "lost opportunities"—Roosevelt's idea of a trusteeship for Indochina, the concept of Ho Chi Minh as an "Asian Tito," the Bao Dai alternative, and others. Professor Russell H. Fifield teaches at the University of Michigan and is the author of numerous books on Southeast Asia.
