Readings in African Political Thought

Gideon-Cyrus M. Mutiso & S. W. Rohio

This massive and comprehensive book of readings is organised in eight parts. In general the organisation reflects a sequence of historical development in African politics. Starting with cultural and plaintive nationalism, it continues through colonial-imperialism, radical nationalism, pan-African nationalism, neo-colonialism and finishes with ideological and integral nationalism and non-alignment. £16.00 £6.00 paperback

Underdevelopment in Kenya

Colin Leys

"... an interpretation of Kenya's recent history and present economic and social plight that is both plausible and supported by a wealth of experience and research in that country. . . he is concerned to review Kenya's predicament as a poor country in the light of theories of 'underdevelopment' which are not exclusively marxist, but which draw heavily on that school of thought. . . sterling and thought-provoking." New Society

LONRHO: PORTRAIT OF A MULTINATIONAL

Cronje, Ling & Cronje

This is the first book on Lonrho, the London-based multinational company whose boardroom row last year caused so much public interest and led to an investigation by the Department of Trade and Industry. The authors examine the background and history of the company, its expansion in Black Africa, South Africa and Rhodesia, the Boardroom crisis and political reaction to it, and the company's entry into the Arab world. The book, an extraordinary example of investigative journalism into current affairs, provides a detailed insight into the high-level politics between a major multinational company and Third World leaders. £5.00

STRATEGIC HIGHWAYS OF AFRICA Guy Arnold & Ruth Weiss

There are a number of major strategic highways in Africa – existing and projected – whose opening up or destruction will have important political and economic repercussions. Fourteen African countries are landlocked, and rivers, roads and railways are therefore vital economic and political links. Amongst these are the TANZAM railway, and the Trans-Africa Highway. This book provides an overview of Africa's future by examining the significance of its strategic highways. The authors are well-known for their writing on Africa. Guy Arnold was formerly Director of the Africa Bureau and Ruth Weiss was, until recently, Economic Editor of The Times of Zambia. £5.00

THE DYING LION: FEUDALISM AND MODERNIZATION IN ETHIOPIA

Patrick Gilkes

This account of Ethiopia is based on a detailed study of the feudal system which led to the overthrow of Haile Selassie. The author examines this and assesses the failure of modernization. "... a valuable background for understanding the whole changing situation." Commonwealth £4.50

Saints and Politicians

Essays in the Organisation of a Senegalese Peasant Society

DONAL B. CRUISE O'BRIEN

A collection of essays on political life among the Wolof, the largest and most powerful of Senegal's 'tribal' groups. The focus of study is on African political leadership, in towns and villages, from the period of French conquest in Senegal to the present time. The multidisciplinary approach to politics in these essays will interest historians and social anthropologists as well as political scientists.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

A new Oxford Journal

Journal of Southern African Studies

Editors: Anthony Atmore,
Richard Hodder-Williams, J. E. Spence

Journal of Southern African Studies is concerned with all Africa south of Zaire. Its content is mainly in the field of the social sciences, and its approach is both interdisciplinary and objective – providing specialists with studies of high academic quality in areas related to their own work. It also presents a forum for discussion of the methodological framework within which such examination usually occurs. The Journal thus offers a new focus for scholarly attention to the problems of the area.

Published twice yearly, in October and April (starting October 1974), at an annual subscription price of £4 (US $13) post free.

Geneva – Africa

The Journal of the Institut d'Études du Développement

Africa in time past lent the European imagination that touch of exotic adventure which its own milieu did not always provide. That time is no more. Africa today seeks her own way through difficulties and uncertainties to which no one open to her desire to meet on terms of equality can remain indifferent.

It is the wish of Geneva-Africa to be an active partner in this unconditional dialogue and to contribute to a deeper comprehension of the problems and opportunities facing an emergent Africa.

Published twice yearly.

Price per copy: Switzerland Fr. 6;
France NF 7.50; United Kingdom 60p;
United States $1.65; Africa NF 7.50

THE JOURNAL OF MODERN AFRICAN STUDIES

The Journal offers a quarterly survey of politics, economics, and related topics in contemporary Africa.

The main emphasis is upon the peoples and policies, the problems and progress of this dynamic and disparate continent; upon the many societies that are evolving rather than the essential characteristics of the old; upon the present, not on the more distant past. The best current work is sought from specialists in different academic disciplines, whose contributions can illuminate and cross-fertilise one another.

The Journal seeks to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. It is intended for both the political scientist and the practical politician, the administrator and the advocate, the economist and the educator, the banker and the businessman, the diplomat and the technocrat, the civil servant and the nationalist leader. All have something to contribute to these pages and, it is hoped, much to learn from them.

Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, whether imperialism, pan-Africanism, capitalism, socialism, or nationalism. Such concepts, however, have relevance to the modern African situation, and merit serious discussion, often from several different points of view, in order that controversial issues may be fairly examined.
