BOOK REVIEWS

MODERN WAR STUDIES

Blood on the Snow The Carpathian Winter War of 1915

Graydon A. Tunstall

"With bold, powerful brush strokes, Tunstall paints a picture of horrendous death in the Carpathian Mountains. Austria-Hungary and Russia each lost about one million men, making the battle more costly than the better known ones of Verdun and the Somme 1916. Meticulously researched and well written, this is military history at its finest. A must read."

—Holger H. Herwig, author of The Marne, 1914

"Snow falls on the mountains, wolves howl in the distance, and two doomed armies learn the truth of the old adage, 'there is no enemy more formidable than nature.' An essential book for all World War I libraries."—Robert M. Citino, author of The German Way of War

320 pages, 20 photographs, Cloth $29.95

Hitler's Generals on Trial The Last War Crimes Tribunal at Nuremberg

Valerie Geneviève Hébert

"A thoughtful and sobering work. Hébert delivers a complicated story with clarity and balance: a story of noble ideals that fell short in practice, of national self-delusion and political compromise, of revealed truths that took generations to sink in, and of legal innovations that still affect us today."

—Geoffrey P. Megargee, author of Inside Hitler's High Command

"In portraying the tensions that arose between America's role as occupier and ally of Germany, Hébert does a fine job of highlighting the conflict between justice and politics in moments of democratic transition. . . . A sophisticated contribution to the emerging literature about the didactic value of war crimes trials and a cautionary tale of direct relevance to the work of international prosecutors."

—Lawrence Douglas, author of The Memory of Judgment: Making Law and History in the Trials of the Holocaust

368 pages, 7 photographs, Cloth $39.95
