Europe-Asia Studies

formerly Soviet Studies

EDITOR

Roger Clarke, University of Glasgow, UK

Supported by a Board of Management, National Advisory Board and International Editorial Consultants

Following the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991, the Editors took the decision to change the title of the long-established Soviet Studies (published since 1949) to Europe-Asia Studies.

Europe-Asia Studies has maintained its reputation as the principal academic journal in the world devoted to the political, economic and social affairs of what were once the Soviet bloc countries, including their history during the Soviet period. At the same time the focus of the journal has diversified to reflect the way in which the transformation of the former Soviet countries' political and economic systems is affecting their relationship with the rest of Europe, and the growing links between what was Soviet Central Asia and other countries in both Europe and Asia. The comparison with the similar transformation taking place in China is a further addition to the general broadening of the field once known as Soviet Studies.

Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies

EDITOR

Malcolm Cross, Centre for European Migration and Ethnic Studies (CEMES)

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Stephen Castles, University of Wollongong, Australia

Roger Waldinger, University of California at Los Angeles, USA

EDITORIAL MANAGER

Jette Johst

Supported by an International Editorial Board

The Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies (JEMS) is the leading journal in its field with an emphasis on advanced industrial societies. Originally published under its old title New Community since 1971, the journal specialises in research-based articles on all forms of migration and its consequences, together with articles on ethnic conflict, discrimination, nationalism, citizenship and policies of integration.

Contributions to the journal, which are fully refereed by independent scientific specialists, are especially welcome when they report on comparative research. Contributions are invited from any branch of the social sciences, and the results of inter-disciplinary research are of particular interest. JEMS publishes special issues on a regular basis and the editor is always pleased to receive proposals for collections of articles on a relevant theme.

JEMS has a long-standing interest in policy debates and in the evaluation of policy initiatives. Its coverage includes reports on policy initiatives. The book review section aims to cover the most important titles, and sections on 'Research Notes' and 'Debates' are included on a regular basis.

Peace Review

EDITOR

Robert Elias

SENIOR EDITOR

Jennifer Turpin

both at Peace and Justice Studies, University of San Francisco, USA

Supported by Associate Editors and an International Editorial Advisory Board

Peace Review is a quarterly, multidisciplinary, transnational journal of research and analysis, focusing on the current issues and controversies that underlie the promotion of a more peaceful world. Social progress requires, among other things, sustained intellectual work, which should be pragmatic as well as analytical. The results of that work should be ingrained into everyday culture and political discourse. We define peace research very broadly to include peace, human rights, development, ecology, culture and related issues. The task of the journal is to present the results of this research and thinking in short, accessible and substantive essays. Each issue develops a particular theme whilst also including a number of off-theme essays.

Post-Communist Economies

Formerly Communist Economies & Economic Transformation

EDITORIAL BOARD

Professor Morris Bornstein, University of Michigan, USA; Roger Clarke (Editor), University of Glasgow, UK; Professor Philip Hanson, CREES, University of Birmingham, UK; Dr Jacek Rostowski, CEU, Budapest, Hungary; Professor Bruno Schönfelder, Bergakademie Freiberg, Germany and Dr Ljubo Sirc, CRCE, London, UK

Supported by an International Advisory Council

Post-Communist Economies is the new title, from Volume II, 1999, of the journal previously known as Communist Economies and Economic Transformation. After ten years of publication, the title has been changed because of a growing feeling that the major processes into which transformation has generally been divided - stabilisation, liberalisation and privatisation - have in substantial measure been completed in most of the former communist countries, even though this is more true of some than others, and all still have some distance to go to match the long-established market economies in these respects.

Yet despite the dramatic changes that have taken place in the past decade, the post-communist economies nonetheless still form a clearly identifiable group, presenting distinctive problems. The focus may thus have moved on from basic transformation, but the particular problems of the post-communist economies will continue to be an important area of economic and political analysis. Post-Communist Economies will contribute to this analysis by publishing the key research and policy articles in the field.

NATIONALITIES PAPERS is the only journal in the world which deals exclusively with all nationalities of the former USSR, and also with national minorities in Eastern and Central European countries. The problems and importance of over 140 million people are treated with the disciplinary and methodological contexts of Post-Soviet and Europe-Asia studies. Of central concern is the fate of the Balts, Ukrainians, Jews and the peoples of Central Asia and the Caucasus. Nationalities Papers is an international and multidisciplinary journal with contributors and readers throughout North America, Western and Eastern Europe, the Far East, Japan and the People's Republic of China. Included in each general issue are in-depth analyses from the historical view, updates on latest developments, some original documents, and book reviews; some issues concentrate on a region or nationality as a special topic, which exclusive focus allows for more extensive and detailed information.

Submission of manuscripts. Authors should send the final, revised version of their articles in both hard copy paper and electronic disk forms. It is essential that the hard copy (paper) version exactly matches the material on disk. Please print out the hard copy from the disk you are sending. Submit two printed copies of the final version with the disk to Dr Nancy M. Wingfield, Nationalities Papers, Department of History, Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, IL 60115, USA. Save all files on a standard 3.5 inch high-density disk. We prefer to receive disks in Microsoft Word for Windows or WordPerfect, but can translate from most other common word-processing programs. Please specify which program you have used. Do not save your files as "text only" or "read only". For further details on Electronic Submission, please visit the Taylor & Francis Website at: <http://www.tandf.co.uk/journals>
