

Contents

List of Figures	page vii
List of Tables	ix
List of Contributors	xi
Acknowledgments	xv
List of Abbreviations	xvii
1 Introduction Lisa Vanhala and Elisa Calliari	I
2 Theory and Methods Lisa Vanhala and Elisa Calliari	25
3 The Loss and Damage Policy Landscape: Tuvalu as a “Most Likely Case” Elisa Calliari	50
4 Knowledge Politics on the Frontlines: The Problem of Acknowledging Loss and Damage in Antigua and Barbuda Lisa Vanhala and Michai Robertson	70
5 After the Storm: The Institutionally Disruptive Impacts of Climate Change in The Bahamas Lisa Vanhala, Adelle Thomas, and Latonya Williams	91
6 Loss and Damage in a Landlocked State: The Paradox of Ethiopia’s Green Economy Lisa Vanhala, Selam Kidane Abebe, and Asaye Ketema	113
7 Loss and Damage Policy in Bangladesh: From Domestic Challenges to Global Engagements Douwe van Schie, Md Fahad Hossain, and Nusrat Naushin	130

8	“Money for the Poor”: Perceptions of Loss and Damage in Peru’s Emerging Economy Elisa Calliari and Monserrat Madariaga Gómez de Cuenca	160
9	(Non)Governance Evolving: COP25 and Chile’s Growing Engagement with Loss and Damage Monserrat Madariaga Gómez de Cuenca	177
10	Conclusion Lisa Vanhala and Elisa Calliari	199
	Appendix: Table of Interviews	223
	Index	227