 reviews Building Time: Architecture, Event and Experience by David Leatherbarrow. In his latest book on the presence of time in architecture, Leatherbarrow reflects on 'anticipated hindsight' present in Pezo von Ellrichshausen's body of work, informing the design of the Poli House in Coliumo, Chile. See pp. 99–103.

leader	3	Factors influencing form criticism	4	The architect's task: the use of models as structural expressionism Matthew Mindrup explores a difference of opinions that emerged during the 1950s regarding the use of models to generate structural form as the identifying characteristic of an architectural idea.
history	17	Forgoing the architect's vision: American home economists as pioneers of participatory design, 1930–60 Anna Myjak-Pycia discusses domestic projects that American home economists carried out in the years between 1930 and 1960, arguing that the reformers pioneered participatory design.
	31	Demolition traditions: Isozaki and Sakaguchi Simon Richards re-reads the radical, subversive and destructive obsessions of architect Arata Isozaki, viewed through a lens provided by the writer Sakaguchi Anjo.
theory	43	In search of architectural magazines Stephen Parnell and Mark Sawyer assert that architecture simply wouldn't be architecture without the architectural magazine, developing the idea of an 'architectural magazine exceptionalism' to propose a special relationship between architecture and the periodical.
	55	'Excavating' Pruitt-Igoe using space syntax Mark David Major develops an exercise in 'spatial archaeology', identifying vulnerabilities in the layout of the now-notorious Pruitt-Igoe Housing Project, famously demolished in the 1970s, as part of the story.
	69	The parallax landscape and its middle-class spatiality: the case of Julino Brdo housing estate, Čukarica, Belgrade Aleksandar Kušić and Vladan Djokić consider the Julino Brdo housing estate (1966–70), relating middle-class experiences of the estate to the wider dynamics of Belgrade's socialist urbanisation.
experience	83	How do buildings talk? Embodied experience in the Rolex Learning Centre Jing Yang, Jonathan Hale and Toby Blackman illustrate how a 3D film by Wim Wenders of the Rolex Learning Centre design provides a deeper phenomenological reading of SANAA's distinctively minimalist architecture.
reviews	93	Akzeptiere: Das Buch und seine Geschichte [acceptera: The Book and its History] Chiara Monterumisi
