

World Eco-Crisis International Organizations in Response

Edited by David A. Kay and
Eugene B. Skolnikoff

Introduction by Maurice Strong

This is the first book to analyze the impact and implications of the environmental crisis for international organizations. World Eco-Crisis takes up the issues faced at the UN Conference on the Human Environment, often by Conference participants. (Reproduces the Spring 1972 issue of International Organization.)

Man in the Living Environment

A Report on Global
Ecological Problems

Sponsored by the Institute of Ecology

This report, the work of a group of fifty top-ranking scientists, was prepared to transmit the ecologist's view of global ecological problems to the Stockholm Conference. Discussed are issues concerning population and resources management, pollution, chemical and biological pest control, crop and habitat management, land and aquatic food sources, eutrophication of land and water, and the effects of human activity upon element cycles.

Water Resources Law and Policy in the Soviet Union

Edited by Irving K. Fox

The management of water resources has just become a subject of international concern. Until now, a text—in English—delineating Soviet water law and policy has not been available. This volume fills that gap in the literature, and sheds new light on problems relating to U.S. water assets. (University of Wisconsin Water Resources Studies, V. 1)

Soviet Prison Camp Speech

A Survivor's Glossary

Supplemented by terms from the works of A. I. Solzhenitsyn

Compiled by Meyer Galler and Harlan E. Marquess

This glossary, the only one of its kind, will be of significant interest and value to Russian reading historians and political scientists, and to all who read recent Russian literature—especially the underground genre. The more than one thousand words and expressions in the glossary, listed alphabetically in Russian Cyrillic, are defined in both Cyrillic and in English. Also included is an explanation of the glossary's origin and an introduction which places Soviet prison camp speech in historical and linguistic perspective.

Africa and the West Intellectual Responses to European Culture

Edited by Philip D. Curtin

In this new volume, Curtin's latest effort, he presents seven essays which together help to reconstruct Africans' views of the West over the past hundred years. The work is one of intellectual history, approached not only by historians but by anthropologists and literary critics as well. Contributors include James W. Fernandez, Wyatt MacGaffey, Jean Herskovits, G. Wesley Johnson, Jr., Leo Spitzer, Harold Scheub, and Curtin.
