

INFORMATION FOR AUTHORS

MANUSCRIPTS should be typed doublespaced on one side of good quality paper. Contributions should not exceed 25 pages, including notes and references. Please leave wide margins to allow for editorial notes and instructions to the printer. Five high-quality copies should be submitted, and a complete, sixth copy retained by the author. Classical manuscript form is to be used, i.e., having an introduction and sections with headings. An abstract of approximately 150 words accompanied by a few key words should be placed at the beginning of each article. The title page should indicate the author's name, title of the contribution, and, if necessary, a condensed title for use as a 'running head', which should not exceed 45 characters, including spaces. The author's full affiliation should appear at the bottom of the first page of the article. Each page of the manuscript should be consecutively numbered. Indicate italicized words and titles of books and journals by single underlining, bold-face by wavy underlining.

QUOTATION MARKS: Double quotes should be used for short direct quotations. Extensive quotations should be set off in a separate paragraph. When quoting another author, always indicate the corresponding page number of the source. Single quotes should be used for words or phrases set off for emphasis.

NOTES: Do not use footnotes. All notes that do not belong to the head of the article should be numbered consecutively and placed at the end of the article, before the bibliography. A note that refers to the head of the article should be indicated by an asterisk.

TABLES should be consecutively numbered using Roman numerals and referred to as 'Table' in the text. Give a short title to each table. The use of vertical lines in tables is discouraged.

FIGURES should be referred to as 'Fig.' in the captions, but spelled out in the text. They should be numbered consecutively. Give a detailed caption to each figure, refer to the figure in the text and note the approximate location in the margin. The captions should be collected on a separate sheet or sheets. Write your name, the figure number and indicate its top in blue pencil on the back of each figure. Only camera-ready figures are accepted, i.e., original drawings or glossy photos, no photocopies. Figures which are not reproducible may hold up publication until new copies are obtained. Check to see that all lettering will still be legible after the figure is reduced to fit the width of the journal page. Line drawings should be in Indian ink on white or tracing paper.

REFERENCES (BIBLIOGRAPHY): A bibliographical list of all and only those works cited in your contribution must be headed 'References' or 'Bibliography', and placed at the end of the paper after 'Notes'. A journal reference should contain the names of all authors with initials, year of publication, full title of the cited paper within single quotes, full name of journal underlined or in italics, volume number, and first and last page numbers. The bibliography should be an alphabetical and chronological ordering of the internal references. Please refer to issues of The Journal of Medicine and Philosophy for guidance or contact the Managing Editor.

PROOFS: The author will receive two first proofs in page form from the publisher along with an annotated copy of the manuscript, and is requested to return one corrected proof with the manuscript to the publisher without delay. In those cases where proofs are not returned promptly, they will be read by the editor against the second manuscript copy and returned to the publisher without the author's comments. Second proofs will be read only by the publisher to ensure that corrections have been made as noted by the authors. Care should be taken to ensure that all contributions are typographically correct. A few corrections to the text are acceptable, but authors may expect to be charged for the cost of making extensive alterations to the text and/or illustrations once in proof.

OFFPRINTS: The author will receive, without charge, 25 copies of the article. Additional offprints may be ordered when the proofs are returned to the publisher.

NO PAGE CHARGES are levied on authors or their institutions.
