

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Journal of British Studies

Journal of British Studies and Cambridge University Press are delighted to announce a new publishing partnership

Editors

Brian Cowan, McGill University, Canada
Elizabeth Elbourne, McGill University, Canada

From 2013, Journal of British Studies will be published by Cambridge University Press on behalf of the North American Conference on British Studies (NACBS). Subscriptions, including 2013 renewals, and customer service issues will be managed by Cambridge.

Journal of British Studies's transition to Cambridge brings a wealth of benefits to subscribers, including:

- All institutional subscriptions to Journal of British Studies will include online access to current articles via Cambridge Journals Online (CJO)
- Availability of complete online archive: Volumes 1 through 50, plus the complete archive of Albion, a complementary journal formerly published by the NACBS
- Dedicated customer service and sales teams will help you manage the transition of your subscription
- Clear and familiar lines of communication are available for claims and subscription renewal

If you are a current subscriber, you will receive your regular renewal notice. You may return this notice directly to Cambridge or continue to order through your subscription agent. Please note that the journal will no longer be available as part of the JSTOR Current Scholarship Program. If you would like to subscribe, the contact details for our Customer Services Departments are listed in the column to the right.

Continuity and Change

A journal of social structure, law and demography in past societies

Editors

Eilidh Garrett, University of Cambridge, UK

Julie Marfany, University of Oxford, UK

Mary Louise Nagata, Francis Marion University, USA

Continuity and Change aims to define a field of historical sociology concerned with long-term continuities and discontinuities in the structures of past societies. Emphasis is upon studies whose agenda or methodology combines elements from traditional fields such as history, sociology, law, demography, economics or anthropology, or ranges freely between them. There is a strong commitment to comparative studies over a broad range of cultures and time spans.

Urban History

Editors

Simon Gunn, University of Leicester, UK

Robert D. Lewis, University of Toronto, Canada

Rosemary Sweet, University of Leicester, UK

Multimedia Editor

Philip J. Ethington, University of Southern California, USA

Urban History occupies a central place in historical scholarship, with an outstanding record of interdisciplinary contributions, and a broad-based and distinguished panel of referees and international advisors. Each issue features wide-ranging research articles covering social, economic, political and cultural aspects of the history of towns and cities. The journal also includes book reviews, summaries of PhD theses, and surveys of recent articles in academic journals. In addition, Urban History acts as a forum for stimulating debate on historiographical and methodological issues.

International Review of Social History

Published for the Internationaal Instituut voor
Sociale Geschiedenis

Editor

Aad Blok, *Internationaal Instituut voor Sociale Geschiedenis,
The Netherlands*

International Review of Social History is one of the leading journals in its field. Truly global in its scope, it focuses on research in social and labour history from a comparative and transnational perspective, both in the modern and in the early modern period, and across periods. The journal combines quality, depth and originality of its articles with an open eye for theoretical innovation and new insights and methods from within its field and from contiguous disciplines. Besides research articles, it features surveys of new themes and subject fields, a suggestions and debates section, review essays and book reviews. It is esteemed for its annotated bibliography of social history titles, and also publishes an annual supplement of specially commissioned essays on a current theme. The 2011 special issue will examine 'The Joy and Pain of Work: Global Attitudes and Valuations, 1500-1650'.

The Historical Journal

Editors

Julian Hoppit, University College London, UK

Andrew Preston, University of Cambridge, UK

The Historical Journal continues to publish papers on all aspects of British, European, and world history since the fifteenth century. The best contemporary scholarship is represented. Contributions come from all parts of the world. The journal aims to publish some thirty-five articles and communications each year and to review recent historical literature, mainly in the form of historiographical reviews and review articles. The journal provides a forum for younger scholars making a distinguished debut as well as publishing the work of historians of established reputation.

Anglo-Saxon England

Editors

Malcolm R. Godden, University of Oxford, UK

Simon Keynes, University of Cambridge, UK

Anglo-Saxon England is recognised internationally as the foremost regular publication in its field. In fact it is the only one which consistently embraces all the main aspects of study of Anglo-Saxon history and culture - linguistic, literary, textual, palaeographic, religious, intellectual, historical, archaeological and artistic - and which promotes the more unusual interests - in music or medicine or education, for example. Especially it seeks to exploit the advantages of a broadly based interdisciplinary approach. Each volume provides a systematic bibliography of all the works published in every branch of Anglo-Saxon studies during the preceding twelve months.

The journal's editorial board follows a strict policy of reviewing submissions, and invites contributions (in English) from experienced and promising scholars from anywhere in the world.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Articles or other materials for publication may be submitted to any one of the editors, whose addresses are given on the inside front cover. Contributors should submit two copies of articles, in double line spacing with reasonable margins, whether typed on A4 paper or computer printed. Articles should normally be no more than 8,000 words, but longer articles will be considered. An Abstract of about 150 words should also be supplied. When an article has been accepted for publication, the author is strongly encouraged to send a securely packed backup copy of the final version on computer disk (Apple Macintosh or IBM compatible PC) together with hard copy typescript, giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word, Wordstar or Word Perfect). However, the publisher reserves the right to typeset material by conventional means if an author's disk proves unsatisfactory. Alternatively a modem service is available. For fuller details please contact one of the editors.

STYLE

Contributors should aim for a style that is accessible to readers in related disciplines. Masculine forms used as universals, e.g. 'the archaeologist and his aspirations', should be avoided. Articles may be in either English or American spelling.

CITATION

Contributors may follow either of the standard conventions:

(a) in-text citations of sources; (b) citation in footnotes.

(a) In-text citation. Give author's surname, date of publication and page references (if any) in parentheses in the body of the text, e.g. '(Falassi, 1980b: 114)'. Where a second or subsequent work by a particular author in the same year is cited, references should be distinguished by letters (a, b, c, etc.) placed after the date. A complete list of references cited, arranged alphabetically by authors' surname, should be typed double-spaced at the end of the article in the form:

Falassi, A. 1980b. Folklore by the Fireside: Text and Context of the Tuscan Veglia (Austin, Texas).

Give place of publication, but not the publisher. Titles of books, articles and journals should be in the form of the examples in these Notes.

(b) Citation in footnotes. References should be given in notes, numbered consecutively through the typescript with raised numbers. Type the notes double-spaced on separate pages at the end of the article. Full publication details should be given at first mention, a short form thereafter:

John Barrell, The Dark Side of the Landscape: The Rural Poor in English Painting, 1730–1840 (Cambridge, 1980), p. 89.

D. Kramer, ed., Critical Approaches to Hardy's Fiction (London, 1979), pp. 17–18.

B. Reay, 'The Last Rising of the Agricultural Labourers: The Battle in Bossenden Wood, 1838', History Workshop, 26 (1988), 81–2.

Short forms:

Barrell, Dark Side, p. 90.

Kramer (ed.), Hardy's Fiction, pp. 175–6.

Reay, 'The Last Rising', p. 82.

QUOTATIONS

Quotations should be in single inverted commas, with double used only for quotations within quotations. Quotations of more than about five lines should be set off from the text and indented. Type double-spaced.

TABLES AND ILLUSTRATIONS

Tables, graphs, maps and line drawings should be provided on separate sheets. Guidelines on presentation are included in the more detailed Notes for Contributors available from the editors. Contributors should provide full details of the illustration source and obtain permission to reproduce copyright material. Any necessary acknowledgement should be included in the caption.

PROOFS

Contributors will receive a proof of their article for correction of any printer's errors and any essential factual errors.

OFFPRINTS

A pdf will be supplied free to the first named author. Paper offprints may be purchased if ordered at first proof stage. Contributors may also purchase the issue in which their contribution appears at a preferential rate, on application to the publisher.
