

Prodigals and Pilgrims

The American Revolution against Patriarchal Authority,
1750-1800

JAY FLIEGELMAN

This book places the American Revolution in the context of a much broader eighteenth-century revolution: the transformation in the understanding of the nature of authority which affected all aspects of Anglo-American culture. It traces a constellation of related ideas, from their most important English and continental expressions to their reception and modification in America. £20.00 net

Plotting the Golden West

American Literature and the Rhetoric of the California Trail

STEPHEN FENDER

Drawing on a wealth of sources, Stephen Fender discusses the Californian Gold Rush of 1849-50, not in terms of what happened but in terms of how people of various levels of sophistication wrote about it.

Anglo-American Encounters

England and the Rise of American Literature

BENJAMIN LEASE

Between 1850 and 1855 there appeared, in rapid succession, five American books now universally recognised as classics: The Scarlet Letter, Moby-Dick, Uncle Tom's Cabin, Walden, and Leaves of Grass. This study seeks to clarify that extraordinary half decade in the rise of American literature.

America and the Patterns of Chivalry

JOHN FRASER

The USA, founded on rationality, equality and success, has retained a strong attachment to the medieval ideas of nobility and chivalry, and to the high-handed violence that goes with them. John Fraser shows how this paradox has had historical and political consequences, from the Civil War through to modern industrial relations, and how it has flavoured American fiction and permeated popular culture. £15.00 net

AMERICAN LITERATURE IN CONTEXT II

1830-1865

BRIAN HARDING

Focusing on the ways in which conceptions of freedom affected their ideas of human potentiality and views of the American nation, this volume examines the works of twelve major American writers of the three decades before the Civil War. In addition to great literary figures like Hawthorne, Poe, Emerson, Thoreau, Melville and Whitman the work of two historians, a journalist and Abraham Lincoln are discussed.

AMERICAN LITERATURE IN CONTEXT IV

1900-1930

ANN MASSA

Ann Massa shows how American literature confronted the challenges of the period 1900-1930 and threw down challenges of its own in the works of, among others, James, Pound, Stein, O'Neill, Fitzgerald, Jean Toomer and Edith Wharton. While most Americans sought escape, these writers confronted their reality, thus providing an extremely rich and varied literature that reflects these turbulent years in American life.

KURT VONNEGUT Jerome Klinkowitz

Contemporary Writers

In this comprehensive introductory study Jerome Klinkowitz traces Vonnegut's influences within the American middle class, his early efforts as a short story writer for magazines in the 1950's and his startling and unprecedented success as a bestselling experimental novelist with Slaughterhouse-Five. His self-consciously moral posture has led to readers throughout the world accepting him as their spokesman for humane values, a role which Klinkowitz considers within the context of his work.

THOMAS PYNCHON Tony Tanner

Contemporary Writers

Tony Tanner provides a brief, comprehensive introduction to the richly imaginative and amazing erudite work of Thomas Pynchon. Against the background of Pynchon the man, this book examines in detail his early short stories (some of which are not easily accessible) and offers a guide to the reading of his novels, V., The Crying of Lot 49 and Gravity's Rainbow. Finally, Tony Tanner places Pynchon and his work in a broader cultural and literary context.

SAUL BELLOW Malcolm Bradbury

Contemporary Writers

This study of Saul Bellow looks at this Nobel Prize winning author as a leading figure in the development of contemporary fiction, one whose work has, however, been challenged by more experimental, 'post-modern' developments in the novel. Malcolm Bradbury sees Bellow as an author struggling to find a contemporary focus for fiction, whose novels have changed radically during his career.

Fair Representation

Meeting the Ideal of One Man,
One Vote

Michel L. Balinski and H. Peyton Young

Arguing that the method of apportioning seats among the states in the United States House of Representatives is unfair, the authors trace the apportionment debate in American history, analyse the various methods that have been proposed, and urge a return to the Daniel Webster formula used until 1941. £20.00

“The Theatre We Worked For”

The Letters of Eugene O'Neill to Kenneth Macgowan

*edited by Jackson R. Bryer, with introductory essays by Travis
Bogard*

The 157 letters and telegrams collected in this book recount the story of an association that helped reform the American theatre and influenced the writing of many of O'Neill's finest works. Illustrated £17.50

Common Landscape of America, 1580 to 1845

John R. Stilgoe

Between 1580 and 1845, the structures and spaces created by Americans were governed by common design. Stilgoe reveals how common design objectified American cultural traits of that era and influenced contemporary attitudes toward the landscape. Illus. £21.00

The Frederick Douglass Papers

Series One: Speeches, Debates, and Interviews

Volume 2: 1847–54

John W. Blasingame, editor

This second volume in a comprehensive edition of Frederick Douglass's writings includes fifty-nine speeches and debates. The texts vividly trace Douglass's shift from strict Garrisonianism to political abolitionism.

The Presidential Quest

Michael Heale

Based on Primary sources, unpublished manuscripts, newspapers and campaign publications, this book examines the evolution of American presidential elections from the creation of the presidency to the disruption of the American political system in the 1850s. It focuses on the period when the presidential campaign assumed its most popular dimension, the so-called Jacksonian era with its national nominating conventions, flamboyant stump speeches, torchlight processions and fervent mass meetings. Through a detailed analysis of the conduct of presidential candidates, the author explores the nature of American political culture at a formative stage. Students of American history and political history will find The Presidential Quest a highly readable source of valuable information.

The United States Revisited

A Study of a Still Developing Country

Ira Sharkansky

In drawing parallels between the less developed states of the United States and the less developed countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America, Ira Sharkansky explores the changes that have occurred in the last ten years. The book's main theme of the United States as a country still in need of growth and increased production to improve the lot of poor people in many areas is maintained. He observes that the idea that the United States is an economically secure, post-industrial country, is now more misguided than ever. This book provides a controversial insight for anyone interested in American politics and economics.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

- 1 All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of American Studies, School of English and American Studies, University of East Anglia, Norwich NR4 7TJ, England.
- 2 Articles should generally contain about 5,000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editors.
- 3 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
- 4 Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing (including footnotes), preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. Diagrams, maps and illustrations may be included.
- 5 Spelling may conform either to British or American usage, providing it is consistent throughout.
- 6 Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered consecutively, and may most conveniently be placed, in double spacing, at the end of the article.
- 7 For guidance on matters of style, contributors should refer either to the MLA Handbook (1977), or to the Journal of American Studies Style Notes, copies of which may be obtained from the Editors.
- 8 Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
- 9 Notes intended for the Editors or Printer should be on a separate sheet.
- 10 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receiving them.
- 11 Corrections should be kept to an absolute minimum. They should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.
- 12 Contributors of articles and review essays receive 25 free offprints. Extra copies may be ordered according to a scale of charges.
- 13 Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps).
- 14 Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
