MEMORIES OF SILK & STRAW:

A Self-Portrait of Small Town Japan

Dr. Junichi Saga • Translated by Garry O. Evans

"...a book to learn from, a book to savor."

—Ronald Dore, author of British Factory-Japanese Factory

A collective autobiography of a small lakeside town northeast of Tokyo. Based on interviews with over fifty townspeople—from gangsters to hairdressers, hangmen to midwives—this anecdotal, down-to-earth and sometimes heartrending book paints a vivid picture of country life in pre-high-tech Japan.

Voted Best Book of the Year by the Foreign Press in Japan.

260 pages, $10.95 paperback, 90 Illustrations, ISBN 0-87011-988-5

SINGULAR REBELLION

Saiichi Maruya • Translated by Dennis Keene

"Funny, light on its feet, and providing exceptional insight into the ways of the Japanese." —THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW

"A big, gregarious, boisterous book." —THE NEW YORKER

The internationally acclaimed tale of a man who abandons the comforts of middle-aged conventions for life with a sexy, feckless model half his age, and the company of her grandmother, recently out of jail for murder. No other modern Japanese novel provokes or amuses more thoroughly than this comic masterpiece.

420 pages, $6.95 paperback, ISBN 0-87011-989-3

JAPANESE FOR BUSY PEOPLE I & II

HIROHITO AND HIS TIMES

Toshiaki Kawahara • Introduction by W.G. Beasley

The first book in English to present the late Emperor from the Japanese point of view. The book dramatically recounts the political turmoil Hirohito faced during his 64 years as Japan's most revered leader. Filled with reminiscences of his closest associates, this book also examines the unique relationship between the Emperor and his people.

Growing Up Agreeably
Bonerate Childhood Observed

Harald Beyer Broch

On the remote Indonesian island of Bonerate, adults and children expect to do things in the same way as previous generations. Anthropologist Broch spent a year in the tiny village of Miang Tuu documenting the childrearing and childhood experience. The result is a highly readable and fascinating ethnographic study of childhood development from infancy to adolescence.

Orientations

The monthly magazine for collectors and connoisseurs of Asian art

Orientations magazine is dedicated to encouraging the study of the arts of East Asia, the Near East, the Indian Sub-continent and Southeast Asia and to sharing communication among people interested in these arts. The editorial team draws on the knowledge of eminent art experts, many of them authors whose works are generally regarded as definitive in their fields. The beautifully illustrated articles cover the whole spectrum of the arts, from archaic bronzes to contemporary painting and in depth analyses of new archaeological finds and collectors' treasures.

Here are some highlights of recent and forthcoming issues:

Lacquer Painting on a Northern Wei Coffin from Ningxia by Luo Feng.

Paintings by Katsushika Hokusai in The British Museum by Timothy Clark.

Imperial Porcelain of Yongle and Xuan-de Periods Excavated at Jingdezhen by Mary-Ann Rogers.

Fit for an Emperor: Inscribed Works of Decorative Art Acquired by The Great Mughals by Stephen Markel.

Tall Towers of the Han by Candace Lewis.

The Interpenetration of Rimpa Crafts and Painting by Richard L. Wilson.

Porcelain for Palaces: The Japanese Style In Europe 1650-1750 by John Ayers.

Comments from satisfied readers:

"I am finding Orientations to be the most useful of the publications on Asian art. Having a high proportion of your articles written by academics and museum curators not only ensures a very high standard of scholarship, but also acquaints your audience with the major Asian art collections in the world and the people directly responsible for them."

Delores Bremner, California.

"I am impressed with the quality of your articles and your editorial policy has been remarkably successful in the difficult task of responding to the interests of collectors while providing a forum for new research and useful data from the museum and academic worlds."

J. Lally, New York.

"I congratulate you for the very high standards of the articles published. As a collector of Japanese and Chinese art, I have learned a lot since taking out my subscription."

Dr. M. Frank, Switzerland.

The Oriental, the Ancient and the Primitive

Systems of Marriage and the Family in the Pre-industrial Societies of Eurasia
Jack Goody

In this book, Professor Goody looks in depth at kinship practice in Asia. His findings cause him to question many traditional assumptions about the "primitive" East, and he suggests that, in contrast to pre-colonial Africa, kinship practice in Asia has much in common with that prevailing in parts of pre-industrial Europe.

Sherpas

Reflections on Change in Himalayan Nepal

James F. Fisher

Foreword by Sir Edmund Hillary

Beginning with his impressions of Sherpa society in pre-tourist days, Fisher traces the trajectory of contemporary Sherpa society reeling under the impact of modern education and mass tourism. He assesses the Sherpa's concerns for their future and how they believe these problems should be and eventually will be resolved.

$12.95 paper, $35.00 cloth

Heritage of China

Contemporary Perspectives on Chinese Civilization

Paul S. Ropp, Editor

These essays, all by experts in the field of Chinese studies, reflect the diversity of approaches scholars follow in the study of China's past. Together they reveal the depth and vitality of Chinese civilization and demonstrate how an understanding of traditional China can enrich and broaden our own contemporary worldview. $65.00 cloth, $16.95 paper

Rioters and Citizens

Mass Protest in Imperial Japan

Michael Lewis

"An influential contribution to what is now the liveliest area of modern Japanese history—labor and social history of the early twentieth century. . . . [Lewis] gives us an appreciation of the richness and diversity that is lacking in previous accounts. This book significantly enhances our understanding of those crucial events."—William Kelly,

Economic and Social Survey of Asia and the Pacific 1989

The survey provides an annual review of the economic and social trends within the Asian region. It focuses on macroeconomic developments, as well as reporting on the important financial, trade and social trends.

This year's report points to:

- A resilience and adaptability characterized most of the Asian economies in 1989. The global recession left many economies unscathed.
- Average growth rate fell from 9% in 1988 to 6% in 1989. The survey notes that the slow down was in part due to inadequate resources, social conditions or preservation of the environment.
- Unrelenting protectionism and a fiercely competitive world market constitute serious challenges for the 1990's.
- Severe problems are seen in the economic growth of the least developed nations and the island communities.

Statistical Yearbook for Asia and the Pacific 1989

This annual report provides fundamental data on the economic and social status of the region. By compiling national data in a format which allows international comparison, the Yearbook allows quicker and easier access to information.

A wealth of data can be found for each country including:

- Population · Manpower · National Accounts · Agriculture · Forestry and Fishing
- Industry · Energy Supplies · Consumption · Transportation and Communications
- Internal and External Trade · Wages · Banking.

This data is also compiled on both national and regional levels.

PURPOSE AND ORGANIZATION

The Association for Asian Studies is a scholarly, non-political, and non-profit professional association open to all persons interested in Asia and the study of Asia. It seeks through publications, meetings, and seminars to facilitate contact and exchange of information among scholars and to increase understanding of Asia. The Association for Asian Studies is the largest society of its kind in the world. Its 7,000 members include scholars, teachers, business people, diplomats, journalists, and interested laypersons.

Founded in 1941 as the Far Eastern Association, the organization was renamed the Association for Asian Studies in 1957 to reflect the wider geographic interests of its membership. In 1970, four elective area Councils—South Asia, Southeast Asia, China and Inner Asia, and Northeast Asia—were established to guarantee each area constituency its own representation and a proportionate voice on the Board of Directors. In 1977, a Council of Conferences was established as a liaison with eight regional conferences throughout the United States to serve the needs of those interested in Asian studies in different parts of the country. The Association is a member of the American Council of Learned Societies and the National Council of Area Studies Associations, actively participating with its sister societies in a wide range of activities, including joint participation in research and informational exchanges.

Publications of the Association include The Journal of Asian Studies, the Bibliography of Asian Studies, Doctoral Dissertations on Asia, the Asian Studies Newsletter, the Monograph Series, and committee publications. The Association holds a three-day meeting each spring devoted to planned programs of scholarly papers, round table discussions and panel sessions on a wide range of problems in research and teaching, and on Asian affairs in general. From time to time, it sponsors, through its committees, special conferences on research problems and other matters of topical interest.
