

P02-63

PSYCHOPATHOLOGIC DISTURBANCE OF PATIENTS WITH EXCHANGE OBESITY

I. Romanova

Psychotherapy, Kharkov Medical Academy of Postgraduate Education, Kharkov, Ukraine

We investigated clinical phenomenology of psychopathologic disturbance of patients, suffering affliction by an exchange obesity, the differentiated schemes of a psychotherapy are designed and influencing psychotherapeutic tactics on efficiency of complex therapy of this group patients is detected.

92 patients were inspected with an exchange obesity with usage of the clinico-anamnestic data, research of the neurologic and mental statuses, research of a vegetative nervous system, psychological methods, electrophysiological research. In activity the conducted complex examination with usage of psychological methods also is studied influencing psychopathologic changes on a clinical picture of an obesity. The conducted correlation analysis psychopathologic and clinico-encephalographical of changes at exchange obesity. The values of an excess weight in frame of psychosomatic distresses are studied. The efficiency of emotional - stressful therapy is studied at the miscellaneous forms of an excess weight for the inspected patient's category.

As a result of the conducted research the yardsticks of psychological diagnostic of patients exchange obesity are designed, and also complex of therapy with actuation of emotional - stressful psychotherapeutic influencing, which one in practice will increase efficiency of the help of the given category ill. The designed yardsticks of diagnostic and treatment enable to offer a number of the practical guidelines for an intrusion in practical activity of preventive entities.