

CORRIGENDUM

A protocol for managing dissociative symptoms in refugee populations – CORRIGENDUM

Zoe J. Chessell, Francesca Brady, Sameena Akbar, Adele Stevens and Kerry Young

<https://doi.org/10.1017/S1754470X19000114>, Published by Cambridge University Press, 22 Apr 2019.

Keywords: BAME; cross-cultural; dissociation; post-traumatic stress disorder; trauma; corrigendum

In this article Table 1 and Table 2 were missing trigger (7) Touch in the last column. The correct Table 1 and Table 2 are reproduced below.

Table 1. Example of a completed flashback diary

What memory is being triggered?	What were you doing and where were you?	What is the same as the traumatic event (triggers)?
When they poured petrol on me	I was walking down the road going to buy food for my lunch	(1) People present or how they look (2) The place (3) Time of day/year (4) Objects around you (5) Sounds (6) Smells (7) Touch (8) Taste (9) What you can see (10) Feelings/emotions (11) Physical sensations There were lots of men on the street I was outside It was midday I could feel the hot sun on my skin I could smell a chemical smell I could taste a chemical taste in my mouth I was thirsty

Table 2. Example of a completed stimulus discrimination diary

What memory is being triggered?	What were you doing and where were you?	What is the same as the traumatic event?	What is different, in the here and now, to the traumatic event?
		(1) People present (2) The place (3) Time of day/year (4) Objects around you (5) Sounds (6) Smells (7) Touch (8) Taste (9) Sight (10) Feelings/emotions (11) Physical sensations	(1) People present or how they look (2) The place (3) Time of day/year (4) Objects around you (5) Sounds (6) Smells (7) Touch (8) Taste (9) What you can see (10) Feelings/emotions (11) Physical sensations
When they poured petrol on me	I was walking down the road going to buy food for my lunch	There were lots of men on the street I was outside It was midday I could feel the hot sun on my skin I could smell a chemical smell I could taste a chemical taste in my mouth I was thirsty	I am in London, there are London buses I am walking around freely, my hands are not tied behind my back I can see the men, I am not blindfolded – they do not have the same clothes as the guards I can take water out of my bag and drink it The smell is diesel not petrol When I touch my skin it is not oily, there is nothing there There is lots of noise of music and cars and planes I can put a mint in my mouth to take away the taste

Reference

Chessell, Z. J., Brady, F., Akbar, S., Stevens, A., & Young, K. (2019). A protocol for managing dissociative symptoms in refugee populations. The Cognitive Behaviour Therapist, 12, e27, page 1 of 16. <https://doi.org/10.1017/S1754470X19000114>