New Studies In International Affairs

New Era of Ocean Politics

ANN HOLLICK AND ROBERT OSGOOD

Focusing on the allocation and use of ocean space, Hollick and Osgood examine the question of an international regime for the seabed, the breadth of territorial seas, the nature and extent of coastal economic zones, and protection of the maritime environment. They describe these basic issues, relate them to U. S. ocean policymaking, and examine the relation of the prospective law of the sea treaty to U. S. security interests in the control and use of oceans.

$8.00 hardcover, $2.75 paperback

The Political Uses of Sea Power

EDWARD N. LUTTWAK

In the first theoretical analysis of the political application of naval force, Luttwak defines the purposes for which naval power is used by each of the great powers, outlines the distinct modes in which political effects are generated, and produces a framework that takes account of different types of naval and military maneuvers.

$6.50 hardcover, $2.25 paperback

Previous Studies in International Affairs

Survival or Hegemony?

The Foundations of Israeli Foreign Policy

SAMUEL J. ROBERTS

"An essay showing how Israel's foreign policy, from Saul and David to Ben-Gurion and Dayan, has been based on the use of force and on supportive (though often changing) diplomatic alignments . . . as tough and realistic as Israeli policy."—Foreign Affairs

$7.50 hardcover, $2.95 paperback

States in Evolution

Changing Societies and Traditional Systems in World Politics

GEORGE LISKA

"This volume succeeds in synthesizing major 'events' . . . with 'speculation if not theory' and in the posing of problems and prospects in reference to regional and global balances of power in an hierarchical international system. . . ."—Perspective

$8.00 hardcover, $3.45 paperback
