Wittgenstein and Quine

Edited by Robert Arrington, Georgia State University and Hans-Johann Glock, University of Reading

An understanding of the similarities and differences between the philosophies of Wittgenstein and Quine is essential if we are to have a full picture of the landscape of recent and contemporary philosophy.

Formal Ethics

Harry Gensler, University of Scranton

Modelled on formal logic, Formal Ethics was inspired by the ethical theories of Kant and Hare. As an introduction to moral rationality, Formal Ethics also considers non-formal elements, and is applied to areas of practical concern such as racism and moral education.

Dispositions A Debate

D.M. Armstrong, University of Sydney, C.B. Martin, University of Calgary and U.T. Place, University of Leeds and University of Wales, Bangor

Edited by Tim Crane, University College London

Dispositions is an extended dialogue between three distinguished philosophers - D.M. Armstrong,

C.B. Martin and U.T. Place - on the many problems associated with dispositions.

Utilitarianism

Geoffrey Scarre, University of Durham

'An interesting and sympathetic treatment of the utilitarian tradition.'

- Jonathan Riley, Tulane University

Utilitarianism traces the 'doctrine of utility' from the moralists of the ancient world, through the enlightenment and Victorian utilitarianism up to the lively debate of the present day.

Vagueness

Timothy Williamson,
University of Edinburgh

new

'Nothing should henceforth be written on vagueness which fails to learn from this book. It should be read not only for its contribution to vagueness, but also for what it says about knowledge; for the purity of its style ... and as an example of philosophy at its very best.'

Paradoxes

Second Edition

R. M. Sainsbury

Paradoxes are fun. They are also serious: often they reveal hitherto unnoticed flaws in accepted theories, and their discovery can trigger far-reaching theoretical change. The second, revised edition of this intriguing book expands and updates the text.

Interviews, 1976–1993

Jacques Derrida

Translated by Peggy Kamuf and others

Edited by Elisabeth Weber

A collection of twenty-three interviews given over the last two decades, illustrating the extraordinary breadth of Derrida's concerns: the teaching of philosophy, sexual difference and feminine identity, the media, AIDS, language and translation, nationalism, politics, and the history of Derrida's writings.

The Question of Style in Philosophy and the Arts

Edited by Caroline Van Eck, James McAllister and Renée van de Vall

Examines the historical transition in our perception of the arts and philosophy which occurred during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, as the foundationalism of Descartes and Spinoza gave way to the idea that alternative styles of enquiry are possible.

Explaining Attitudes

A Practical Approach to the Mind

Lynne Rudder Baker

Develops a new account of propositional attitudes – Practical Realism. Practical Realism is an antidote to the now-dominant ‘Standard View’, according to which beliefs, if there are any, are identical to or are constituted by brain states. Practical Realism takes beliefs to be states of whole persons, rather like states of health.

Beyond the Limits of Thought

Graham Priest

A philosophical investigation of the nature of the limits of thought. Drawing on recent developments in the field of logic, Graham Priest argues that such limits do indeed exist, and are, by their nature, contradictory.

£35.00 HB 0 521 45420 4 290 pp.

Probability and Conditionals

Belief Revision and Rational Decision

Edited by Ellery Eells and Brian Skyrms

A ‘state of the art’ collection of essays on the relation between probabilities, especially conditional probabilities, and conditionals. It provides new negative results which sharply limit the ways conditionals can be related to conditional probabilities.

£32.50 HB 0 521 45359 3 216 pp.

Cambridge Studies in Probability, Induction and Decision Theory

Substance Among other Categories

Joshua Hoffman and Gary S. Rosenkrantz

Revives a neglected but important topic in philosophy: the nature of substance. The belief that there are individual substances, for example, material objects and persons, is at the core of our common-sense view of the world yet many metaphysicians deny the very coherence of the concept of substance.

The Logic of Provability

George Boolos

Written by one of the most distinguished of contemporary philosophers of mathematics, this is a fully rewritten and updated successor to the author’s earlier The Unprovability of Consistency (1979). Its subject is the relation between provability and modal logic, a branch of logic invented by Aristotle but much disparaged by philosophers and virtually ignored by mathematicians.

Making Sense of Humanity And Other Philosophical Papers 1982–1993

Bernard Williams

This new volume of philosophical papers by Bernard Williams is divided into three sections: the first, 'Action, freedom, responsibility', the second, 'Philosophy, evolution and the human sciences', in which appears the essay which gives the collection its title, and the third, 'Ethics', some of the essays in which are closely related to his 1985 book

Ethics and the limits of philosophy.

Opus Postumum

Immanuel Kant

Edited by Eckart Forster and Michael Rosen

The first ever English translation of Kant's last major work, the so-called Opus Postumum, a work Kant himself described as his 'chef d'oeuvre' and as the keystone of his entire philosophical system. It occupied him for more than the last decade of his life.

The British Moralists and the Internal 'Ought': 1640–1740

Stephen Darwall

A major work in the history of ethics, providing the first study of early modern British philosophy in several decades. It is the first attempt to trace the origins of the 'ought' in British philosophy of this period.

Leibniz and the Rational Order of Nature

Donald Rutherford

Offers the most up-to-date and comprehensive interpretation of the philosophy of Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz (1646–1716). Amongst its other virtues, it makes considerable use of unpublished manuscript sources. This work is a major contribution to Leibniz scholarship that will prove invaluable to historians of philosophy, theology, and science.

Substance and Separation in Aristotle

Lynne Spellman

A study of Aristotle's metaphysics in which the central argument is that Aristotle's views on substance are a direct response to Plato's Theory of Forms. The claim is that Aristotle believes that many of Plato's views are tenable once one has rejected Plato's notion of separation.

MIND

A Quarterly Review of Philosophy

Edited by Mark Sainsbury, Kings College London.

"...if anyone wished to see where the sharpest leading edge of analytical philosophy is doing its slicing, the place to look is the pages of MIND" A.C Grayling, TLS 24 November 1995

MIND has long been a leading journal in philosophy. For well over 100 years it has presented the best of cutting edge thought in most areas of analytic philosophy. MIND continues its tradition of excellence today.

Information for Authors

Prospective authors should send their contributions, typed and double-spaced on quarto or A4 paper, to the Editor, Professor Anthony O'Hear, Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0AG. They should retain a second copy for the purpose of checking proofs. When an article has been accepted for publication, the author is strongly encouraged to send a copy of the final version on computer disk (Apple Macintosh or IBM compatible PC) together with the hard copy typescript, giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word, Word or Word Perfect). However, the publisher reserves the right to typeset material by conventional means if an author's disk proves unsatisfactory. Authors should observe the conventions of the journal. The Editor may alter manuscripts wherever necessary to make them conform to the stylistic and bibliographical conventions of the journal. Single quotation marks should be used except where there is a quotation within another. The titles of books and journals should be underlined (i.e. to be printed in italics), as should foreign words. Titles of articles should be in single quotation marks.

Notes and references will be printed as footnotes and should be typed (double-spacing) on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively. They should be referred to in the text by superscripts. Citations should be as follows:

² R. S. Downie and Elizabeth Telfer, 'Autonomy', Philosophy 46, No. 178 (October 1971), 295.

³ Op. cit. note 1, 101–112.

⁴ W. C. Wimsatt, 'Some Problems with the Concept of Feedback', Boston Studies in the Philosophy of Science, VIII, R. C. Buck and R. S. Cohen (eds.) (Dordrecht: D. Reidel, 1971), 242.

The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless they are accompanied by stamps, or in the case of contributions from abroad, by international coupons, to cover postage. A self-addressed envelope should also be enclosed.

Only corrections of printer's errors can be allowed in proofs. Authors are therefore asked to send any alterations or additions to Professor O'Hear as soon as possible after receiving his letter of acceptance.

Authors of articles, discussion papers and review articles will receive twenty-five offprints free of charge. Additional offprints can be ordered when proofs are returned by arrangement with the Institute.

Books for review should be sent to the Editor at the Institute and not to Cambridge University Press. Publishers are asked to note that non-philosophical works are not reviewed in Philosophy.

Authors' corrected proofs should be sent to Professor O'Hear at Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London, WC1H 0AG. All other correspondence should also be addressed to the Institute.
