Princeton   UNIVERSITY PRESS

Diversification & Integration in American Industry

By MICHAEL GORT

A study which provides the first all-inclusive view of the inter-industry structure of the large diversified enterprise, using unpublished tabulations of the Bureau of the Census. While only a small proportion of companies in the United States are active in more than one industry, those that are diversified constitute an important part of the economy and their activities outside their own industry are large in the aggregate. Published for the National Bureau of Economic Research.

275 pages. Tables & charts. $5.00

The National Wealth of the United States in the Postwar Period

By RAYMOND W. GOLDSMITH

This report contains the only comprehensive, detailed estimates of U. S. national wealth and its components since World War II, showing that our national wealth nearly tripled between 1945 and 1958. The figures expand the author's 1900–1945 estimates, published in his A Study of Saving in the United States, Volume III. This present book also investigates the structure of our national wealth, how it has changed during the postwar period, and how it compares with that of other countries for which similar estimates exist. Published for the National Bureau of Economic Research.

448 pages. Tables & charts. $12.50

Freight Transportation in the Soviet Union

By ERNEST W. WILLIAMS, JR.

What are the principal means of freight transportation in the Soviet Union? How has the Soviet transportation system changed over the years, and how does it compare with that of the U. S.? Ernest W. Williams, Jr. professor of transportation at Columbia University's Graduate School of Business, discusses these and other related questions in this latest publication to emerge from the National Bureau of Economic Research investigations in Soviet economic growth. Published for the National Bureau of Economic Research.

270 pages. Tables & charts. $4.50

Order from your bookstore, or

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS, Princeton, New Jersey