

EDITORIAL

This edition of AR&D is largely devoted to an important piece of research organised under the auspices of the International African Institute (IAI). "The Documentation of African Research" is intended to provide a basis for ongoing investigation into the area of African research, with the possibility of a practical workshop being organised at a future stage. Comments on the work will be welcomed and should be sent to the Hon. Editor of this journal for forwarding to the IAI.