

Fundamental Spoken Chinese

Robert Sanders and Nora Yao

Fundamental Spoken Chinese introduces most of the basic grammatical patterns of modern spoken Mandarin in a carefully planned, graduated fashion. Every chapter follows the same organizational format and includes: key grammar points, new vocabulary items arranged by part of speech, sentence patterns, and four or five short dialogues illustrating contextual use of each new grammar pattern and vocabulary item. Non-technical explanations of grammar are written from the perspective of the English-speaking learner and are illustrated with multiple sentences in simple chart form.

Fundamental Written Chinese Simplified Character Version

Nora Yao, Margaret Lee, and Robert Sanders

Fundamental Written Chinese teaches both mastery of individual characters and reading comprehension. It introduces characters gradually, moving from simple independent characters to more complex compound ones. How characters are organized and constructed is taught through the liberal use of charts that display the structural and organizational regularities of each character, that is, its radical, phonetic component, shared graphic components, stroke order, and principles of proportion.

EARLY KOREA

RECONSIDERING EARLY
KOREAN HISTORY THROUGH ARCHAEOLOGY

Mark E. Byington, Editor

Early Korea, a new publication from the Early Korea Project at the Korea Institute, Harvard University, is a series designed to promote and develop studies of early Korean history and archaeology in the English language. While these fields are active and dynamic in East Asia, they are only beginning to develop in English-language scholarship. Early Korea provides a forum for scholarly articles focused on studies of Korean history, archaeology and art history prior to the tenth century. Each volume features a section dedicated to several articles focused on a selected theme, along with articles on timely issues in the fields of early Korean history and archaeology as well as studies on the academic fields themselves.

The first volume, "Reconsidering Early Korean History Through Archaeology," features three articles by prominent Korean scholars focused on the topic of recent advances in historical archaeology on the Korean peninsula and adjacent regions and how this is changing the ways historians understand the origins and development of the earliest states on the peninsula. Other articles include a survey of the development of Korean ceramic traditions and two studies on the practice of heritage management in Korea.

JAPANSTUDIEN

Journal of the German Institute for Japanese Studies Tokyo

In celebration of the twenty year anniversary of the German Institute for Japanese Studies Tokyo (DIJ), its annual journal gets a facelift. Whereas previous issues of Japanstudien were in German, yet welcomed English language submissions, the journal now is IN ENGLISH (German language submissions are still accepted).

Japanstudien, the annually published PEER-REVIEWED JOURNAL of the German Institute for Japanese Studies Tokyo accepts submissions by scholars of any relevant academic discipline. The topic of volume 22, which is to be published in autumn 2010, is

Mind the Gap: Stratification and Social Inequalities in Japan

Hibiya Park, Tokyo, New Year 2009: Around 500 laid-off temporary workers, who not only became unemployed but also homeless due to the recent financial crisis, spent the New Year's holiday in a temporary tent village, established by volunteer groups and labor unions. This event, highly covered by the media, happened to be right in front of the noble Imperial Hotel – a pure coincidence, yet highly symbolic for the heated debate on growing social disparities in Japan.

Volume 22 of Japanstudien invites research papers from various disciplines, in order to cover diverse facets of the development to a more stratified society. Both empirical and discursive aspects are to be analyzed. What effects does Japan's re-differentiation have on work, society, family, education, the economy, and politics? How is the concern about increasing inequalities to be assessed from a historical perspective, especially as regards the long-held self-perception of an all-middle class society? Which role does the media play in the discourse on kakusa shakai, how is the topic negotiated in art, literature, film, and television? In what ways are power relations between young and old and male and female effected? And how do the drastic demographic changes impact social inequalities?

Manuscripts should be about 5,000 – 8,000 words in length. Please submit an abstract of about 300 words and a brief bio-blurb (up to 100 words) by August 15, 2009 (editors: Barbara Holthus holthus@dijskyo.org and Kristina Iwata-Weickgenannt iwata@dijskyo.org). Accepted manuscripts (in English or German) should be submitted no later than November 30, 2009. Articles previously published or submitted for publication elsewhere cannot be accepted.

Furthermore, we also welcome articles on other topics (5,000 – 8,000 words) and reviews of current Japan-related publications (1,000 – 2,000 words).

Empires of the Silk Road

A History of Central Eurasia from the Bronze Age to the Present

Christopher I. Beckwith

"This is the first book to provide a comprehensive account of the history of Central Eurasia from the Bronze Age to the present. But it is much more than a simple narrative of events in what is arguably the most important region for the development of civilization during the past four or five millennia. . . . Beckwith achieves the radical feat of demonstrating how Central Eurasia is actually key for understanding the dynamics of human history and progress throughout antiquity, the medieval period, and the recent past."

Objects of Translation

Material Culture and Medieval "Hindu-Muslim" Encounter

Finbarr B. Flood

"Complete, intelligent, and original, Objects of Translation is a remarkable achievement. This book is of such importance for the histories of India and the Islamic world, as well as for theories of culture and language, that it will be essential to all those who want to understand how different cultures interact with one another."

One Homeland or Two? The Nationalization and Transnationalization of Mongolia's Kazakhs

ALEXANDER C. DIENER

"While the literature on diaspora, homecoming, and homeland is vast, there is very little discussion of these issues and concepts as they relate to the Kazakhs. This book is of great import to the international migration field."

Immigrant Ambassadors Citizenship and Belonging in the Tibetan Diaspora

"Hess's fieldwork-based conclusions consistently ring true, adding significantly to the literature about Tibetan refugees and contributing an important case study to the documentation of citizenship and immigration in this country."

—Keila Diehl,

University of California, Berkeley

$55.00 cloth

Tough Choices Bearing an Illegitimate Child in Japan

EKATERINA HERTOĞ

"Considering illegitimate children and their mothers as a minority group in Japan provides a most interesting frame in which to portray the choices of women who endure the stigma of single motherhood. Their poignant, emotionally raw stories fill the gaps of understanding usually left empty in renderings of culture and social 'pathologies.'"

—Merry White,
Boston University

$55.00 cloth

Shorelines Space and Rights in South India

AJANTHA SUBRAMANIAN

"This book is more than important: it is unique and path-breaking. Evocative of its place and time, it reveals the coast of India and, by implication, other coastal sites in Asia as a landscape of negotiations for livelihood rights. In avid focus, Subramanian calls attention to a community's capacity to mobilize their in-between positionality for political ends."

—David Ludden,
New York University

$60.00 cloth

Clio/Anthropos Exploring the Boundaries between History and Anthropology

Edited by ANDREW WILLFORD and
ERIC TAGLIACOZZO

"The essays in this thoughtfully conceived collection provide a scholarly and sometimes playful account of the affinities and tensions between historians and anthropologists writing in Europe and America over the last forty years, along with a rich set of case studies by some of the best practitioners operating in this disciplinary border space. The resulting volume is an excellent teaching tool for each of these fields."

The China Quarterly

Editor:
Julia Strauss,
School of Oriental and
African Studies, UK

The China Quarterly is the leading scholarly journal in its field, covering all aspects of contemporary China including Taiwan. Its interdisciplinary approach covers a range of subjects including anthropology/sociology, literature and the arts, business/economics, geography, history, international affairs, law, and politics. Edited to rigorous standards by scholars of the highest repute, the journal publishes high-quality, authoritative research, keeping readers up to date with events in China. International in scholarship, The China Quarterly provides readers with historical perspectives, in-depth analyses, and a deeper understanding of China and Chinese culture. In addition to major articles, each issue contains a comprehensive Book Review section, and also a Quarterly Chronicle, which keeps readers informed of events in and affecting China. Every year there is a special issue. In 2009 it will be on 'China and Africa: Emerging Patterns in Globalization and Development'.

New Research from the AAS

New in 2009

"Tools of Culture" addresses aspects of Japanese human and material interactions in East Asia from the late eleventh through the late sixteenth centuries, a period coincident with Japan's late classical and medieval eras.

Each chapter provides a different perspective on the interactions—travel, trade, texts, religion, poetry, medicine, and art—rippling through Japanese society and across the waters that joined Japan and the continent.

CHINA'S COSMOPOLITAN EMPIRE

The Tang Dynasty

MARK EDWARD LEWIS

GENERAL EDITOR TIMOTHY BROOK

The Tang dynasty is often called China's "golden age." Mark Lewis captures this dynamic era in which the empire reached its greatest geographical extent under Chinese rule, painting and ceramic arts flourished, women played a major role both as rulers and in the economy, and China produced its finest lyric poets.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE IN CHINA

A History

KLAUS MÜHLHAHN

Mühlhahn reveals the broad contours of criminal justice from late imperial China to the Deng reform era and details the underlying values, successes and failures, and ultimate human costs of the system. Based on unprecedented research in Chinese archives and incorporating prisoner testimonies, witness reports, and interviews, this book is essential reading for understanding modern China.

Visiting Fellowships in Washington, D.C.

Southeast Asia, South Asia and Northeast Asia

The East-West Center in Washington is accepting applications from scholars and analysts who wish to undertake policy-relevant research and writing. Three fellowship programs are available: Southeast Asia, South Asia and Northeast Asia. Research topics should focus on international relations of Asia, political change in Asia, U.S.-Asia relations or (for Southeast Asia only) ASEAN integration and community-building efforts. The Southeast Asia program is supported by the Henry Luce Foundation.

Fellowships will start fall 2010 and last 3 months. A monthly stipend of US$2,500 to $4,500 (dependent upon experience) while in residence and round-trip airfare to Washington, D.C. will be provided. A small field research grant may also be available. Applicants with or without a Ph.D. will be considered; those without a Ph.D. will be considered based on their relevant professional experience. Applicants must be nationals of a country in Asia, or the United States, and be eligible to receive a fellowship stipend. Applications should include a cover letter, a full CV, two letters of reference, and a policy-relevant research proposal and are due October 15, 2009. For full fellowship details, see:

EastWestCenter.org/Scholarships-Fellowships

Asia Matters for America

AsiaMattersforAmerica.org is an initiative launched to create a "go-to place" for information, data and analysis of U.S.-Asia interactions. The project provides user-friendly information for political leaders, policymakers, business people, analysts, media and students. This graphical, interactive website currently displays data on trade, employment, ethnicity and students at the level of U.S. states and congressional districts.

For example, did you know:

- 93% of Arkansas's international students come from Asia
- Mississippi's "Asian alone" population grew 87% during 2004-07, fastest in the United States
- Louisiana has exports to Asia of $2,547 per capita, fourth highest in the United States

Please send all books for review to the Association office in Ann Arbor; see Contact Information: Books for Review below.

REQUIREMENTS FOR MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION

When preparing a manuscript, please note that JAS is committed to publishing articles based on in-depth, original research. Authors should also take care to address the interests of our broad, multidisciplinary readership by raising larger questions of interest that reach beyond their precise research specialties. Authors are encouraged to consult recent issues of JAS for guidance on style and formatting.

- Please submit inquiries, manuscripts and images electronically to the Editor at jas@journalofasianstudies.org. Electronic text should use MS Word-compatible software; include a PDF file if using non-standard characters. Low-resolution images and illustrations are acceptable for the review process; all images, tables and figures should include titles or captions. Please note that in the event of publication, the author is responsible for acquiring high-resolution images along with permission to publish them. If electronic submission is not possible, please contact the editorial office at the email address, phone number or fax number listed above.
- Article manuscripts, including notes and references, should range between 8,000 and 10,000 words, or approximately thirty-five pages in length, and must include a 150 word abstract at the beginning of the document.
- Authors' names must be left off of the manuscript, as JAS engages in double-blind reviews.
- Manuscripts must be double-spaced with 12-point type and 1 inch margins including extracts, notes, and references, and formatted for letter-size (8.5 × 11 in.) paper if possible.
- Notes should be as few as possible and appear at the end of the text.
- Use parenthetical in-text citation, and author-date formatting for references per Chicago Manual of Style, 15th edition (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2003), pp. 616–24.
- Please use the following Romanization: Chinese: Pinyin; Japanese: Hepburn; Korean: McCune-Reischauer.
- Paper manuscript submissions are acceptable if electronic submission is not possible. Please include four copies of your document in the submission packet.
- Manuscripts submitted to JAS should not have been published elsewhere and should not be under review for publication elsewhere.

Articles in JAS represent neither the views of the Association for Asian Studies nor those of the JAS editors. The Editor is responsible for the final selection of content of JAS and reserves the right to reject any material deemed inappropriate for publication. Responsibility for opinions expressed and the accuracy of facts published in articles and reviews rests solely with the individual authors.
