ANALYSE & Zeitschrift für Sozialwissenschaften KRITIK

Edited by Michael Baumann,
Anton Leist and Dieter Mans.

Focal Points:

Social Science and Ethics · Modern Political Economy · Problems of Macro-Sociological Theories · Sociological and Analytic Theory of Action · Methods of Empirical Social Research

The programmatic aim of ANALYSE & KRITIK is a renewal of critical social science through the application of analytic philosophy and philosophy of science. The analysis of theories in the social sciences provides the foundation for a rational critique of social institutions. In the interest of a socially and epistemologically critical discussion, ANALYSE & KRITIK strives to integrate two scientific traditions to correct the conceptual and methodological failings of the politically engaged social sciences through analytic methods. The journal's orientation towards theoretical interests and concrete research problems in the social sciences discourages any tendency to isolated theoretical discussion of interest to the philosophy of science alone. To achieve these aims ANALYSE & KRITIK will bring together ideas and arguments from the European and the Anglo-American traditions in the social and political sciences not only to stimulate a more fruitful exchange of ideas but also to undermine culturally embedded dogmas by placing them in a new perspective. A bilingual journal, ANALYSE & KRITIK is published in English or German to enable direct discussion, critique and reply between authors of the two traditions.

ANALYSE & KRITIK is published twice a year. Each copy has about 100 pages. One year subscription DM 48,-; single copy DM 28,-; plus postage.
