Liberalism in South Africa 1948–1963

JANET ROBERTSON

Since the Second World War a minority of South Africans—white as well as black—has actively sought to extend equal rights to non-whites within the parliamentary system. This book describes what happened to liberals working within such groups as the African National Congress, the United Party, the Liberal Party, and the Progressive Party, and tells the story of the dismantling of the liberal state and the failure of the liberal ideal in South Africa. £2.25

Nuer Religion

E. E. EVANS-PRITCHARD

This book was written not only to complete Professor Evans-Pritchard's general ethnographic account of Nuer modes of livelihood, but also as a self-contained study of a primitive religion. First published in 1956, it remains available in hard covers at £2.50. 16 plates, 5 text-figures paper covers £1.25

The Mourides of Senegal

The Political and Economic Organization of an Islamic Brotherhood

DONAL B. CRUISE O'BRIEN

The Mouride brotherhood has been portrayed as a system of pseudo-religious exploitation, in which the 70,000 followers are induced to serve their religious superiors in return for the promise of a heavenly reward. Dr. O'Brien suggests that the material advantages of membership may none the less have been undervalued by previous writers. His study is of wide inter-disciplinary relevance, of interest to political scientists, historians, and sociologists. 8 plates 8 text-figures £3.50
