Breeding Bin Ladens

America, Islam, and the Future of Europe

Zachary Shore

"Zachary Shore realized earlier than most the potentially huge importance of the religious revival among young Muslims in Europe. The interviews and other evidence in his scrupulously researched and lucidly written book constitute powerful evidence of a disturbing trend. It is not simple hatred of the United States so much as ambivalence about Western society as a whole that has driven these teenagers and twenty-somethings into the arms of the extremists."

Journalists under Fire

The Psychological Hazards of Covering War

Anthony Feinstein

foreword by

Chris Hedges

Great Powers and Geopolitical Change

Jakub J. Grygiel

The mountains of Afghanistan and the scorching sand storms of Iraq have provided stark reminders that geographical realities continue to have a profound impact on the success of military campaigns. Jakub J. Grygiel brings to light the importance of incorporating geography into grand strategy. He argues that states can increase and maintain their position of power by pursuing a geostrategy that focuses on control of resources and lines of communication.

Iran's Nuclear Ambitions

Shahram Chubin

September 2006
Paper 0-87003-230-5 $12.95
Cloth 0-87003-231-3 $32.95

"The strategic and political determinants of Iran's nuclear policy are complicated and frequently misunderstood. Chubin's study is the definitive work on the subject and should be required reading for U.S. and European decision makers as they struggle to prevent the Iranian bomb from becoming a reality."

— Geoffrey Kemp, The Nixon Center

"Shahram Chubin's account of Iran's nuclear ambitions is accurate, thorough and thoughtful. Its greatest merit is its emphasis that Iran's aims are above all political. That does not make them any less difficult or dangerous; but understanding this point is a good starting place for tackling the problem."

Informal Institutions and Democracy

Lessons from Latin America

edited by Gretchen Helmke and Steven Levitsky

This volume analyzes the function of informal institutions in Latin America and how they support or weaken democratic governance. Drawing from a wide range of examples—including the Mexican dedazo, clientelism in Brazil, legislative "ghost coalitions" in Ecuador, and elite power-sharing in Chile—the contributors examine how informal rules shape the performance of state and democratic institutions, offering fresh and timely insights into problems of governability, "unrule of law," and the absence of effective representation, participation, and accountability.

RUNAWAY STATE-BUILDING

Patronage Politics and Democratic Development

Conor O'Dwyer

Electoral Systems and Democracy

edited by Larry Diamond and Marc F. Plattner

As the number of democracies has increased around the world, a heated debate has emerged among experts about which system best promotes the consolidation of democracy. Is proportional representation, a majoritarian system, a mixture of the two, or some other system the best for new democracies?

This book compares the experiences of diverse countries, from Latin America to southern Africa, from Uruguay, Japan, and Taiwan to Israel, Afghanistan, and Iraq.

TRAPPED IN THE WAR ON TERROR

Ian S. Lustick

Ian S. Lustick debunks the myths sustaining the War on Terror and demonstrates how, in fighting such a war, we become our own worst enemy.

The first principle of terrorism is to understand that the weak win by exploiting the strength of the powerful. When 9/11 terrorists with box cutters hijacked American airliners, they transformed America's preeminent transportation system into a devastating weapon of attack. They also set a trap with the promise of revenge and security as the bait. The hijackers' biggest victory was to goad our government into taking the bait by unleashing the War on Terror. The worry, witch-hunt, and waste that have ensued are, according to Lustick, destroying American confidence, undermining our economy, warping our political life, and isolating us from our international allies.
