

Neil Riemer, Andrew V. Stout Professor of Political Philosophy, emeritus, department of political science, Drew University, served the spring 1996 semester at the University of Central Florida as the university's Distinguished Visiting Honors Professor. Riemer also delivered the university's annual honors lecture on "The Reconciliation of Excellence and Consent."

Stephen Skowronek, professor of political science, Yale University, will have a visiting appointment at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales, French-American Foundation, as Chair in American Civilization, for the academic year 1996-97.

Norma Thompson, assistant professor of political science, Yale University, will be a John M. Olin Faculty Fellow in History and Political Philosophy at the John M. Olin Foundation, 1996-97.

Ronald Tiersky, department of political science, Amherst College, will serve fall 1996 semester on leave as guest scholar, Woodrow Wilson Center, and guest scholar, Institute for National Strategic Studies, National Defense University. Tiersky has also been named to the Joseph B. Eastman Chair in European Politics at Amherst.

Michael C. Tolley, associate professor, department of political science, Northeastern University, will be Visiting Fellow, Centre for Socio-Legal Studies, University of Oxford, 1996-97.

John J. Weltman, visiting fellow, Hoover Institution, and visiting scholar, Center for International Security and Arms Control, Stanford University; formerly University of Colorado-Boulder.

Awards

AAAS Announces New Fellows

The American Academy of Arts and Sciences announced the election of 159 new Fellows and 26 Foreign Honorary Members, in recognition of their distinguished contributions to science, scholarship, public affairs, and the arts. Among the new members are six political scientists. They are:

Gary Cox, University of California-San Diego

Jean B. Elshtain, University of Chicago

Jennifer Hochschild, Princeton University

Carole Pateman, University of California-Los Angeles

Paul Elliott Peterson, Harvard University

Barry Weingast, Stanford University.

Hoover Foundation Names National Fellows

The Hoover Institution has announced the recipients of the annual post-doctoral National and Peace Fellowships for the 1996-97 academic year. The Fellowships furnish scholars an opportunity to spend one year at the Hoover Institution to conduct independent research on current or historical public policy issues of the twentieth century. Twelve fellows have been named for 1996-97, and they include five political scientists:

Yi Feng, Claremont Graduate School, National Fellow

Masaru Kohno, University of British Columbia, National Fellow

John B. Londregan, Princeton University, National Fellow

Steven L. Solnick, Columbia University, National Fellow

Kurt T. Gaubatz, Stanford University, Peace Fellow

Pi Sigma Alpha Graduate Scholarships Awarded

Pi Sigma Alpha, the National Political Science Honor Society, has announced the winners of the 1996 ΠΣΑ/Howard Penniman Graduate Scholarships. They are:

Erin Bernadette Kaheny

Erin Bernadette Kaheny, New Mexico State University

Marie A. Witting, Purdue University-Calumet

J. Quin Monson, Brigham Young University

The Scholarships are awarded annually to three outstanding members of local chapters of the honor society who are entering graduate programs in political science. This year's committee included Gale Mattox (chair), United States Naval Academy; Maurice Woodard, Howard University; and James I. Lengle, Georgetown University.

Marie A. Witting

J. Quin Monson

Johan Skytte Prize

The Johan Skytte Foundation of Uppsala University, Sweden, has selected Juan Linz as winner of the 1996 Johan Skytte Prize in political science. The Sterling Professor of Political Science at Yale University, Linz was selected "for his global investigation of the fragility of democracy in the face of the authoritarian threat, characterized by methodological versatility and historical and sociological breadth." The prize will be awarded at a ceremony in Uppsala on September 28, 1996.

Gerald R. Ford Foundation Library Travel Grants

Ford Library Travel Grants were awarded to three political scientists during the spring screening. They include:

Rebecca Deen, Ohio State University, for work on "The Context of Choice: Presidential Decision Making in the Ford Administration;"

Charles M. Lamb and Jim Twombly, SUNY-Buffalo, for work on "Presidents, Federalism, and Fair Housing Policy;"

Daniel Skidmore-Hess, Armstrong State College (GA), for work on "Globalization and the Crisis of Liberalism in the United States."

EMGIP Appoints 1996-97 Interns

The Emigré Memorial German Internship Programs (EMGIP) announced intern appointees to German legislative bodies for periods up to three months during May 1996-April 1997.

Serving in the Bundestag (Federal Parliament, Bonn):

David Freudenwald, Georgetown University

Renee B. Kalvestrant, Dartmouth College

Joshua Rauh, Yale University

Andrea Heinmaa, McMaster University

Carol Horn, California State University-Long Beach

Serving in Landtage (State Parliaments):

Sonja Fritzsche, University of Minnesota (Saxony)

Laura Downs, Monterey Institute for International Studies (Thuringia)

Christian Klaiss, University of Kansas (Mecklenburg-Vorpommern)

J. Barrett Graf, University of Wisconsin (Rheinland-Palatinate)

Zeina Mikdashi, Barnard College (Hesse)

Now in their 32nd year, EMGIP programs are directed especially to candidates from North America to enhance training of future specialists on German affairs. Some 400 interns have been named in the history of the Program, directed by George Romoser and a four-member Selection Committee.

Applications for the next competition, 1997-98, are available beginning September 10 from P.O. Box 345, Durham, NH 03824. The deadline is January 10, 1997.

University of Central Arkansas Earns State Award

The political science program at the University of Central Arkansas has received a productivity award of $50,000 from the Arkansas Department of Higher Education, along with a program rating of "excellence." As the only political science program to be designated "excellent" following the ADHE's rolling review of such programs at all Arkansas public universities during AY 1994-95, the UCA program effectively ranks as the best undergraduate political science degree program available in Arkansas public higher education.

Political Film Society Names Best Films of 1995

Members of the Political Film Society, a Related Group of the APSA, selected films in six categories that best raised political consciousness during 1995:

Democracy

Beyond Rangoon, for portraying the bankruptcy of opponents of democracy in Burma.

Peace

Beyond Rangoon, by showing the superiority of peaceful methods for resolving conflicts.

Exposé

Nixon garnered another award for Oliver Stone, whose film outshined Beyond Rangoon and Panther.

Human Rights

Murder in the First, which portrayed a young lawyer who ended the barbarity of Alcatraz prison, outpolled the other nominees—Beyond Rangoon, Picture Bride, and The Scarlet Letter.

Hawai'i

Picture Bride became the first film ever to win an award for raising political consciousness about Hawai'i by focusing on its racist plantation past.

Hawai'i International Film Festival

Bombay, which depicted how Hindu-Muslim prejudice destroyed the lives of a couple whose love overcame their religious differences, won over Father, Son, and Holy War, Islands on the Edge of Time, Once Upon a Time When We Were Colored, and Picture Bride.

Pi Sigma Alpha Names Chapter Awards

Pi Sigma Alpha (ΠΣΑ), the National Political Science Honor Society, is proud to announce the winners of its 1996 Best Chapter and Best Chapter Advisor awards.

Best Chapter Award Winners

Schools with enrollment under 6,000:

Omicron Lambda Chapter, Illinois Wesleyan University, Dr. James Simeone, Advisor

Tau Upsilon Chapter, Mississippi Valley State University, Dr. Elen Singh, Advisor

Schools with enrollment of 6,000 to 15,000:

Tau Psi Chapter, Purdue University Calumet, Dr. Maurice Eisenstein, Advisor

Epsilon Omega, Chapter, Villanova University, Dr. Robert Langran, Advisor

Schools with enrollment over 15,000:

Eta Eta Chapter, New Mexico State University, Dr. Gregory Butler, Advisor

Alpha Chapter, University of Texas at Austin, Dr. Gary Freeman, Advisor

Best Chapter Advisor Award Winners

William Furlong, Alpha Iota Chapter, Utah State University

Anne Hildreth, Epsilon Gamma Chapter, SUNY at Albany

Robert Widell, Epsilon Nu Chapter, Auburn University

Other Awards

Stephen D. Ansolabehere, professor, department of political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Shanto Iyengar, professor, department of political science, University of California, Los Angeles, have been awarded the 1996 Goldsmith Book Prize for their book, Going Negative: How Political Advertisements Shrink and Polarize the Electorate. The prize is awarded annually to an outstanding book that aims at improving the quality of government or politics by examining media and government or the intersection of press and politics in the formation of public policy.

Peri Arnold, professor of government and international studies, and director, the Hesburgh Program in Public Service, University of Notre Dame, has been awarded Public Administration Review's Marshall Dimock Award for volume year 1995. The Dimock Award is given for the best lead article in a volume year and was presented for "Reform's Changing Role," published in the September/October 1995 issue of PAR.

Roger Boesche, chair, department of politics, Occidental College, was named The Arthur G. Coons Professor of History of Ideas.

Roger Boesche

Larry T. Caldwell

Larry T. Caldwell, Cecil H. and Louise Gamble Professor of Politics, Occidental College, was the 1995–96 recipient of the Robert S. Janosik Award for Outstanding Service, Occidental College.

Andrew Gould, department of government and international studies, University of Notre Dame, has received a research fellowship from the Kellogg Institute for International Affairs for 1996–97.

Michael Gunter, professor of political science, Tennessee Technological University, was awarded the 1995 Caplenor Faculty Research Award, the university's highest recognition of excellence in faculty research.

Joe D. Hagan, professor of political science, West Virginia University, was awarded the Benedum Distinguished Scholar Award for 1995–96, the University's highest award for research. Hagan previously received the WVU Foundation Award for Outstanding Teaching, the University's highest award for teaching.

Harlan Hahn, professor, department of political science, University of Southern California, was a 1995 Ed Roberts Post-Doctoral Fellow in Rehabilitation Research.

Eric B. Herzik, chair, department of political science, University of Nevada–Reno, was awarded the

Joe D. Hagan

Senator Alan S. Bible Prize for Teaching Excellence in the College of Arts and Science.

Chun-tu Hsueh, president of the Huang Hsing Foundation (USA), will be conferred the "Landmark Award" by the University of Maryland in recognition of his contributions to Chinese Studies at the University of Maryland and abroad.

Jane Jaquette, professor of politics, Occidental College, was named to the Bertha Harton Orr Professorship in Liberal Arts.

Donald R. Kommers, department of government and international studies, University of Notre Dame, has received Fulbright, Humbolt, and German Marshall Fund fellowships to be used for research in Germany over the next two years.

Jane Jaquette

David H. Lempert, was awarded a 1996 honorary degree from the International Academy of the Authorized Education (Moscow External University of the Humanities) for innovation in social science theory, education, law and development.

David Leuthold, professor emeritus of political science, University of Missouri-Columbia, has been awarded the University of Missouri System's 1996 Thomas Jefferson Award. The Jefferson Award is presented to a faculty member who "through personal influence and performance of duty in teaching, writing, and scholarship, character and influence, devotion and loyalty to the University best exemplifies the principles and ideals of Thomas Jefferson."

Michael S. Lewis-Beck, professor, department of political science, University of Iowa, has been selected as the University's F. Wendall Miller Distinguished Professor of Political Science.

A. James McAdams, department of government and international studies, University of Notre Dame, has received a MacArthur Foundation research fellowship in international security for 1996-97. McAdams also received the Sheedy Award for the outstanding teacher in the College of Arts and Letters for 1995-96.

Burt Monroe, assistant professor, department of political science, Indiana University, has received a Harvard/MIT Research Training Group in Positive Political Economy Postdoctoral Fellowship.

Daniel O'Connell, professor of political science, Palm Beach Community College, has been named a recipient of an endowed teaching chair.

Thomas L. Pangle, professor of political science, University of Toronto, has been elected a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada by the members of the Academy of Humanities and Social Sciences.

Jean Robinson, associate professor, department of political science, Indiana University, has received the President's Teaching Award.

Richard J. Samuels, professor and chair, department of political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, won the 1996 John Whitney Hall Book Prize, awarded by the Association of Asian Studies for an outstanding book on Japan or Korea on any topic in humanities or social sciences. The book has also won the 1996 Arisawa Memorial Prize of the Association of American University Presses.

Richard J. Samuels

Charles R. Shipan, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Iowa, has been awarded a Collegiate Teaching Award in recognition of his exemplary performance as a classroom teacher.

Etel Solingen, associate professor, department of politics and society, University of California-Irvine, was awarded a Fellowship on Peace and International Cooperation from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation.

James Thurber, director, Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, American University, has been named the 1996 American University scholar/teacher of the year.

Richard M. Valelly, associate professor of political science, Swarthmore College, received a Fellowship for College Teachers and Independent Scholars from the National Endowment for the Humanities to provide release time in 1997 for work on his new book project, "Simple Democracy: Political Parties, Suffrage, and the Making of Modern America."

Sharon D. Wright, assistant professor of political science and black studies, University of Missouri-Columbia was awarded the Rodney Higgins Best Paper Award from the National Conference of Black Political Scientists at the 1996 NCOBPS Annual Meeting. Her paper was entitled, "A Case Study in Intra-Racial Divisions: The 1994 Shelby County, Tennessee, Mayoral Election."

Birol Yesilada, associate professor and chair, department of political science, University of Missouri-Columbia, received the 1996 William T. Kemper Fellowship for Teaching Excellence.

In Memoriam

J. Cudd Brown

Born May 5, 1923 in Gaffney, South Carolina, J. Cudd Brown died at home in State College on April 12, 1996. He was Professor of Political Science at the Pennsylvania State University from 1968-1985, and had lived in State College since his retirement.

Brown was educated at Georgetown University (B.S., 1952), the American University (M.A., 1952), and the University of Oregon (Ph.D., 1956).

After serving in the Army Air Forces during World War II, he joined the Foreign Service. During a seven-year stint he became one of the three youngest officers in charge of a foreign post, and at the age of 27 won the Secretary of State's Honor Award for Outstanding Service. Turning to an aca-demical career, he began a life-long effort to stimulate interest in foreign affairs among young people.

Brown served on the faculties of three colleges of the California State University system and became Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences at Sonoma State. There he was named "AAUP Lecturer of the Year" by the faculty, and he was to become a much travelled guest lecturer at universities from Alaska and Denver to Arkansas and Virginia, as well as the military academies and numerous Air Force bases.

Brown came to Penn State as professor of political science and director of international program development in the College of Liberal Arts from 1968 to 1974. His skills as a teacher and communicator with the young were richly evident in his highly popular classrooms until the day of his retirement.

Cudd Brown also contributed throughout his career to government as well as academia. Thus at various times he served in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Office of Personnel Management, and the staff of the United States Senate. Following his retirement from Penn State he taught at The Federal Executive Institute in Charlottesville, Virginia, where he developed a constitutional literacy program and was coordinator of programs and leadership development.

As a colleague Cudd was a concerned and dedicated colleague who never lost his passion for the importance of international studies and the vital necessity of conveying it to younger generations. He did so with a flair for history and a gift for the well-turned phrase. He was a Wilsonian Democrat, a champion of global understanding, and a true gentleman of the South. He is survived by his wife, Kathryn Work, of State College, and his children Alison Buck of San Antonio, Steven of State College, and Gregory of San Antonio.

John D. Martz
David J. Myers
The Pennsylvania State University

Donald T. Campbell

Donald T. Campbell, whose contributions to social science methodology and knowledge creation set the context for the modern study and practice of applied social policy and program evaluation, died on May 6, 1996, in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania from complications following surgery for colon cancer. He was 79. Campbell's major work was carried out during his 26-year tenure at Northwestern University. He finished his career at Lehigh University, retiring in 1994, but working until his death. His wife, Barbara Frankel, recently retired as professor of anthropology at Lehigh.

Campbell was one of the few synthesizers of the twentieth century, who throughout his career emphasized the importance of inter-relationships and demonstrated how the acquisition of knowledge comes through combining information from a variety of sources, discipline, and perspectives. He talked, listened to, and learned from people from all disciplines and theoretical approaches. Campbell himself worked, published, and demonstrated leadership in many different fields including psychology, sociology, anthropology, education, social sciences methodology, program evaluation, biology, epistemology, sociology of science, and philosophy.

Campbell was a strong advocate for the application of social science methodology, and in particular of the use of the experimental design, in the study of social programs, policies and phenomena. In one of his most influential papers, "Reforms as Experiments," he advocated for an "experimenting society," one in which social reforms would be posited and tested through the use of experimental techniques. But he was not a utopian dreamer. He acknowledged the practical limitations of his dream of an experimenting society, nevertheless arguing that it represents an important ideal worth striving towards.

Campbell's recognition of the difficulties in implementing experimental designs in the real world of