SUPPLEMENTUM EPIGRAPHICUM GRAECUM

THE TWELFTH and subsequent volumes of S.E.G. will take the form of an annual review of Greek Epigraphy. As far as possible, it will give references to work done during each year on or relating to Greek inscriptions, and will reprint new or emended texts. The arrangement of the contents will be by geographical areas, on the general pattern of the early volumes of S.E.G. The editor and publishers are confident that this will be a service which epigraphists, and classical scholars generally, will appreciate and find helpful.

The editor would, therefore, be grateful if scholars who publish studies on Greek Epigraphy, or substantially using epigraphic material, would send him a notice (or if possible a reprint) of their work. Their co-operation in this way would be much appreciated, and would greatly aid him and the publishers in making S.E.G. as complete as possible.

All communications should be addressed to

A. G. WOODHEAD, ESQ.
CORPUS CHRISTI COLLEGE
CAMBRIDGE : ENGLAND

Part II of Volume XI, which was left unfinished at the death of the previous editor, Dr. J. J. E. Hondius, will be published as soon as possible.

The Greek Bucolic Poets
TRANSLATED BY A. S. F. GOW

These translations are intended for the student who needs the guidance of an experienced scholar in understanding the text and for the Greekless reader in search of a plain, accurate, but graceful English version. The text translated is that edited by Mr Gow for the Oxford Classical Texts.

Theocritus
EDITED BY A. S. F. GOW

'Mr Gow has kept the small world of scholarship waiting a long time for his Theocritus; but now that it has come its amplitude and quality show the unreasonableness of our impatience.' CLASSICAL REVIEW.

Second edition 1952.

Two volumes, complete, £5 5s. net

Nicander
EDITED BY A. S. F. GOW
& A. F. SCHOLFIELD

This new edition makes the text of Nicander's two poems available and provides a tentative translation which should save much recourse to lexicons. The editors have not attempted a full commentary, but have added fifty pages of notes.

HERODOTUS

Father of History

By SIR JOHN MYRES

30s. net

This book is neither a biography nor a commentary. It presents results of many years of study of the reasons why Herodotus may be regarded as the Father of History in the light of his aims and methods and his literary style. His reputed garrulity and digressions are shown to be deliberate, and subsidiary to his constant aim—to discover 'the reason why'.

Special attention is called to the larger structure of his narrative, in balanced episodes which display causes and consequences of crucial incidents; and to the frequent speeches which accentuate these symmetries. The result is to deepen the tragic intensity of his discovery 'what they fought each other for'.

New light is thrown also on economic and military considerations, which Herodotus has been accused of ignoring.

GEOGRAPHICAL HISTORY IN GREEK LANDS

By SIR JOHN MYRES

35s. net

Geographical History is a less familiar notion than Historical Geography, but not less illuminating and suggestive. This book collects together some of the stimulating things written on it by a notable scholar, and is now issued with a bibliography of his published works as a tribute to mark his eighty-second birthday. Besides general studies of Greek lands and the Greek people, the position of Greece in the Mediterranean World, Greek Colonization and the distribution of Greek City States, the Population of the Ancient World, and the place of Ancient Geography and History in modern Education, there are separate essays dealing with the Marmara Region, and the Greek Islands, especially the Dodecanese, with which the author has been particularly concerned.

GREEK PROSE STYLE

By the late J. D. DENNISTON

15s. net

Dr. Denniston achieved international renown as a Greek scholar with the publication of his Greek Particles which has become a standard work on the subject. Before his sudden death in 1949 he was at work on this book on Greek Prose Style, which was designed for the needs of upper forms of schools (including their masters) and of university students and teachers. At the time of his death nearly all the material for this was found among his papers and it has been assembled and seen through the press by MR. HUGH LLOYD-JONES (Fellow of Jesus College, Cambridge) who was a pupil of Dr. Denniston.

CONTENTS: The Development of Greek Prose; Abstract Expression; The Order of Words; Sentence-Structure and Antithesis; Repetition; Asyndeton; Assonance. Each topic is discussed concisely but with many illustrative quotations from Greek authors.
