9 The first issue of the Journal of Women's History, a forum for new historical research on women, will appear in February. The journal will be published three times a year by Indiana University Press; the editors welcome submissions as well as copies of recent publications for review consideration. Send inquiries and manuscripts, in triplicate or on disk, to the Journal of Women's History, Dept. of Afro-American Studies, Indiana Univ., Bloomington 47405. For ordering information write to the journal's manager, Kathryn Caras, Indiana Univ. Press, 10th and Morton Sts., Bloomington 47405.

10 The American Journal of Germanic Linguistics and Literatures seeks original articles on all aspects of the Germanic languages, including English and Scandinavian, from the earliest phases to the present, as well as on the linguistic facets of literary works written before the eighteenth century. The journal appears biannually, in January and July, and includes articles, reviews, notices, and occasional review articles. Potential submitters should read the instructions for authors and reviewers that appear in the first issue of every odd-numbered volume; a copy of the instructions also may be obtained from the editor, Richard K. Seymour. Authors should state in their cover letters that submitted manuscripts are not under review by other journals. Unsolicited reviews are not accepted. A subscription to the journal accompanies membership in the Society for Germanic Philology; annual dues are $25 ($15 for students). Libraries and other institutions may receive the journal without joining the society; these subscriptions, which may be placed through agents, are $40 per volume. Applications for membership and subscription orders should be sent to the society, PO Box 020225, Brooklyn, NY 11202-0005. Address submissions to Seymour, American Journal of Germanic Linguistics and Literatures, Webster 202, 2528 The Mall, Univ. of Hawaii, Honolulu 96822.

WRITE THINKING

Writing Under Pressure The Quick Writing Process

SANFORD KAYE

An executive has to produce a three-page position paper within 24 hours. A graduate student has a 20-page research paper due in a week. A sophomore has to answer four essay questions for a three-hour exam. Indeed, most students and professionals write under pressure—limited time, limited space, a supervisor or instructor to please—yet few approach the task systematically. In this book Sanford Kaye provides a system—the Quick Writing Process—that focuses on real-world writing tasks and shows how to produce the clearest, most honest, most powerful work possible under the constraints of time and space. 224 pp., $15.95.

THE NEW OXFORD GUIDE TO WRITING

THOMAS S. KANE

The New Oxford Guide to Writing

THOMAS S. KANE

Many books on writing describe how to think more creatively, how to conjure up an idea from scratch. Many others show how to express an idea clearly and elegantly. And many books offer reliable advice on the use of commas, semicolons, and so forth. The New Oxford Guide to Writing does all three. Whatever the stage in the writing process—from the daunting look of a blank page, to the rough draft that needs shaping, to the small but important questions of punctuation—this handy, all-inclusive volume offers expert guidance. 327 pp., $19.95.

Collected Poems of Thomas Parnell

Edited by
Claude Rawson and F. P. Lock

This edition is the first to establish a reliable text of the poems of Thomas Parnell (1679–1718). Based on a study of all the available manuscripts, including an extensive collection in the poet's family, and on authoritative prior editions, it more than doubles the Parnell canon and represents the first publication of many of his poems.

Selected Letters of Eugene O'Neill

edited by Travis Bogard and Jackson R. Bryer

Published on the centenary of Eugene O'Neill's birth, this important work contains the only comprehensive collection of the great playwright's letters. Providing a representative selection of his voluminous correspondence written over a fifty-year period to intimate friends and family as well as to literary and theatrical personalities, the distinguished O'Neill scholars Travis Bogard and Jackson R. Bryer offer new and revealing insights into the highly private life and thoughts of one of the greatest creative geniuses of our century.

Eugene O'Neill.

"The letters abound in observation, irony, vitality, and insights into the mind and heart of America's premier playwright." —Publishers Weekly 32 illus. $35.00

The Unknown O'Neill

Unpublished or Unfamiliar Writings by Eugene O'Neill
edited with commentaries by Travis Bogard

An offering of little-known works by O'Neill, most of which have not hitherto been published—among them a four-act tragedy, "The Personal Equation;" the original version of Marco Millions; and a dramatic adaptation of Coleridge's "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner."

"An important work about an unknown O'Neill that will reveal this fascinating personality to the general public." —Paul Shyre $40.00

The Woman Detective

Gender and Genre

Kathleen Gregory Klein

"A provocative look at women's mysteries that goes beyond the details of who wrote what when: Klein breaks new ground in considering the social and psychological causes of the image of women in twentieth-century crime fiction." — Sara Paretsky, author of Blood Shot. $24.95.

The Crisis of Political Modernism

Criticism and Ideology in Contemporary Film Theory

D. N. Rodowick

"The Crisis of Political Modernism gives a superb critical and polemical overview of '70s film theory. Providing a focus on the totality of discursive and institutional forces at work in the cinema, Rodowick shows how the theoretical problems of the 1970s are still manifest in more recent theories of film." — Constance Penley, editor of Camera Obscura. $29.95.

Edited by Ann Lowry Weir

With an introduction by George Core

A compendium of the series, and an appetizer for those who wish to sample the hundreds of stories in the fifty-two collections by individual writers. "The editors of this series can feel proud of their part in the preservation of the strength of the genre." — Alan Cheuse, Los Angeles Times Book Review. $8.95 (cloth, $19.95).

Fables, Foibles, and Foobles

Carl Sandburg

Edited and with an introduction by

George Hendrick

Illustrated by Robert C. Harvey

Believing that silliness and fun helped preserve sanity and balance, Sandburg put together a collection of fanciful anecdotes—alive with alliteration—for his own amusement. Now, more than twenty years after his death, the publication of Fables, Foibles, and Foobles truly reveals, for perhaps the first time, the playful spirit of this great American poet. $9.95.

Microfiche Collections for the Serious Scholar

Shakespeariana

UMI's Shakespeariana microfiche collection is a compilation of four centuries of documents on William Shakespeare and his work. Uniquely tailored to meet the needs of the scholar, it comprises the largest body of material ever assembled into a single published collection, totaling over one million pages, organized into thirty carefully structured units. Included is research material on Shakespearian literature and scholarship as well as the institutions and outside influences which shaped the Elizabethan world view.

The thirty units of Shakespeariana cover a variety of aspects and include facts and fictions about William Shakespeare; institutions, trade, commerce and educational practices of the day; early texts of poems and sonnets; literature which influenced Shakespeare's writing; Shakespearian theater; criticism; biographical data; and Shakespeare's editors.

The Crown

A Tale of Sir Gawain and King Arthur's Court

By Heinrich von dem Türlin
Translated by J. W. Thomas

“One of the major works of late medieval German literature. A very important repository of Arthurian lore.” – Thomas L. Keller.
“Gives a deeper understanding of early 13th-century attitudes toward chivalric figures and ideas.” – James E. Engel. In his crowning adventure Sir Gawain undergoes dramatic tests of his courage and chastity while pursuing the Holy Grail. Now the only German romance to center on the popular Gawain is available to general readers and scholars with this first translation of The Crown into English, or any modern language. Available in March. $25.00

Vilain and Courtois

Transgressive Parody in French Literature of the 12th and 13th Centuries

By Kathryn Gravdal

“Original, challenging, well-conceived, and well-written.” – R. Howard Bloch. When the earthy trickster and the bumbling knight meet and mingle, the supposed gloom of the Middle Ages is rent with laughter. Amid the solemn sermonizing there is playfulness and parody aplenty in the literature of 12th- and 13th-century France.

Kathryn Gravdal demonstrates this and more in Vilain and Courtois, advancing a new theory of parody drawing on semiotics, showing the way literature shapes as well as reflects history, and raising questions about sexual and language taboos in medieval culture. Available in April. $22.50

HAMLET'S CHOICE

Hamlet — A Reformation Allegory

Linda Kay Hoff

Although it may no longer be fashionable to view Hamlet as a "problem play," the problems of this most mysterious of plays remain. Basing her conclusions on research into the university-centered defense of sixteenth-century English translations of the Bible, Mariology and Marian propaganda, and historiographical interpretation of Revelation, Hoff offers a comprehensive answer to the questions raised by such perennial issues as the following:

- why Hamlet had it in it "to please the wiser sort" at Oxford and Cambridge
- the names Claudius, Polonius, Laertes, Ophelia, Rosencrantz, Guildestern, and Fortinbras
- the relation of the Pyrrhus speech and the Gonzago playlet to the whole
- the presence of a character named Polonius in a play featuring a war against "the Polack"
- the "superfluous scenes"
- Hamlet's age as 30 in Q2 and F
- the cause of Ophelia's insanity
- the "time" that is "out of joint"
- Ophelia's closet narrative
- Hamlet's "Oedipus complex"
- the import of her mad songs
- Gertrude's carousing "health"
- the Paris-Wittenberg contrast
- the undersong of original sin
- the din of trumpet and cannon
- Hamlet's choice of Fortinbras

For those who, with Waldock, have asked themselves what Hamlet is "really about."

Authority, Autonomy, and Representation in American Literature, 1776–1865

Mark R. Patterson

From the Revolutionary War to the Civil War, a familiar scene appears and reappears in American literature: a speaker stands before a crowd of men and women, attempting to mitigate their natural suspicions in order to form a body of federated wills.

In this important study of the relationship of literature and politics, Mark Patterson argues that this scene restates political issues in literary terms and embodies the essential problems of American democracy facing both politicians and writers: What is autonomy? How does representation work? Where does true authority lie? Beginning with the debate over ratification of the United States Constitution, Patterson follows out the complex literary consequences of these questions. Cloth: $35.00 ISBN 0-691-06743-0

Poetry, Word-Play, and Word-War in Wallace Stevens

Eleanor Cook

In the first full-length study of Wallace Stevens's word-play, Eleanor Cook focuses on Stevens's skillful play with grammar, etymology, allusion, and other elements of poetry, and suggests ways in which this play offers a method of approaching his work. At the same time, this book is a general study of Stevens's poetry, moving from his earliest to his latest work, and includes close readings of three of his remarkable long poems—Esthétique du Mal, Notes toward a Supreme Fiction, and An Ordinary Evening in New Haven.

Cambridge Presents a New Series...

Cambridge Studies in Eighteenth-Century English Literature and Thought

Howard Erskine-Hill and John Richetti, General Editors

Cambridge is pleased to announce this new series of monographs and critical studies on authors, works, genres, and other aspects of literary culture from the 18th century. The series titles will reflect the cultural context of literature or its relation to contemporary art, music, philosophy, historiography, religion, politics, and social affairs.

First title...

The Transformation of The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire

David Womersley

This is the first look at Edward Gibbon's work as having both historical and literary value. The book examines The Decline's style and irony, tracing its classical and French sources, and highlights the importance of its composition in three fragments over a twenty-year period. $49.50 hardcover

Eighteenth-Century Satire

Essays on Text and Context from Dryden to Peter Pindar

Howard D. Weinbrot

This book collects thirteen of Weinbrot's most important essays (some of them new) on Restoration and eighteenth-century British satire. $39.50 hardcover

Oscar Wilde

Peter Raby

This new introductory study judges Wilde's work as a developing and unified whole, and argues that the element that most contributes to this unity is the dramatic nature of his writing.

$12.95 paper $34.50 hardcover

Reauthorizing Joyce

Vicki Mahaffey

This study presents new readings of Joyce's major works, but its most significant contribution is an increased awareness of the politics of style.

$37.50 hardcover

Alfred Tennyson

Elaine Jordan

This valuable introduction to Tennyson's poetry provides a challenging new account of his major themes and concerns. Jordan's close and persuasive analysis of the poetry reveals the questioning of social life that underlies Tennyson's art.

$11.95 paper $34.50 hardcover

Now in paperback...

The Common Writer

Life in Nineteenth-Century Grub Street

Nigel Cross

"... a fascinating book, important as social and cultural history, a stimulus to those curious about literary treasures" — The Antioch Review

$15.95 paper $42.50 hardcover

The Enduring Legacy

Alexander Pope Tercentenary Essays

G.S. Rousseau and Pat Rogers, Editors

1988 is the three-hundredth anniversary of Pope's birth, and this volume collects essays written by the best British and American scholars in celebration of the event. This is the fullest survey available of the poet's life and work. $44.50 hardcover

T.S. Eliot: The Poems

Martin Scofield

The poems, poetic drama and relevant prose criticism are discussed in detail and placed in relation to the development of Eliot's oeuvre, to his life, and to a wider context of philosophical and religious enquiry.

$10.95 paper $34.50 hardcover

Wordsworth's Revisionary Aesthetics

Theresa M. Kelley

Kelley offers a new understanding of the role of aesthetics in Wordsworth's major poetry and prose. She argues that a contest between the sublime and the beautiful characterizes Wordsworth's poetic achievement.

Short-Title Catalogue of Books
Printed in England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, and British America and of English Books Printed in Other Countries, 1641–1700

Volume III: P to Z
Second edition, revised and enlarged
Compiled by Donald Wing
Edited by John J. Morrison, Carolyn W. Nelson, et al.

Few reference tools have proved so useful to scholars, librarians, and students of the later seventeenth century as Donald Wing's Short-Title Catalogue. These three volumes enable researchers from all disciplines to discover and locate the original printed works of seventeenth-century people whose ideas and achievements shaped the foundations of the modern English-speaking world.

The three volumes together list all the known printed materials in English from 1641 to 1700, except serials, by author, title, or corporate heading.

Each entry provides the imprint, bibliographical format, and references for the item and gives a list of symbols for selected libraries and other institutions that hold a copy.

1988. xxvii & 766 pages. Clothbound, $350.00 (MLA members $280.00)

British Newspapers and Periodicals,
1641–1700

A Short-Title Catalogue of Serials Printed in England, Scotland, Ireland, and British America

Edited by Carolyn W. Nelson and Matthew Seccombe

This book provides the first comprehensive issue-by-issue union list of all known British serials of the period, including many never before cataloged. Of particular interest to historians is a month-by-month chronological index.

The first entry gives a uniform title with inclusive dates, followed by a headnote listing format, average length, periodicity, editor/author if known, and bibliographical references. Subsequent entries are issue-by-issue, giving title, number, inclusive dates, place, imprint, year, and a list of libraries holding that issue. Six indexes, covering period, editor/author, publisher/printer, place, language, and subject, and two major appendixes complete the volume.

1988. xx & 724 pages. Clothbound, $250.00 (MLA members $200.00)

Melodious Guile

Fictive Pattern in Poetic Language
John Hollander

Demonstrating a poet's imaginative ear and a critic's range of concern, John Hollander here writes about the "melodious guile" with which poetry speaks to us. Through analysis of formal and rhetorical patterns in examples chosen from the whole spectrum of English and American poetry, Hollander describes how poems frame self-reflexive parables in order to represent realms beyond themselves.

"An incisive display of beautifully integrated erudition. John Hollander demonstrates, just as post-structuralism is waning, that there are other, more cogent theoretical terms for thinking about poetry and for a return to the reading of poetry."

—Robert Alter $28.50

Five Plays

Heinrich von Kleist
translated from the German, with an introduction,
by Martin Greenberg

A superb new translation of the most important poetic dramas of one of Germany's greatest writers.

"These are the best English translations ever done of Kleist's plays. In addition, the introduction is wonderfully realized and will very much help to make Kleist's drama available to English-speaking readers in a way that is immediately comprehensible and effective." —Cyrus Hamlin Illus. $29.95

Between Heaven and Charing Cross

The Life of Francis Thompson
Brigid Boardman

Francis Thompson (1859–1907), Catholic poet and inspirational writer, wrote not for his own time but for future generations. This biographical reappraisal—based on his private notebooks and widespread new manuscript evidence—assesses his life and the continuing relevance of the work of a poet whose best-known piece, The Hound of Heaven, is a landmark in modern English religious literature. 16 illus. $37.50

European Revolutions and the American Literary Renaissance

Larry J. Reynolds

In this pioneering study, Larry J. Reynolds argues that the European revolutions of 1848–49 shaped the characters, plots, and themes of the American renaissance. Tracing the revolutions' impact on Emerson, Hawthorne, Melville, and others, Reynolds shows how the upheavals abroad both inspired and disturbed American writers.

"A readable, informed study that makes genuinely fresh and significant contributions to literary scholarship. A trail-blazing work." —Lawrence Buell 30 illus. $25.00

The Book of God

A Response to the Bible
Gabriel Jospovici

Building on the recently renewed interest in biblical narrative associated with Auerbach, Frye, and Alter, and drawing on his deep knowledge and appreciation of medieval and modern literature and art as well as on his personal understanding of the possibilities of narrative, Gabriel Jospovici here offers a beautifully written study of the Bible as a work of literature.

"As 'A Response to the Bible,' The Book of God is fresh and energetic, scattering insights in all directions, making original and unexpected connections between the Bible and such modern authors as Proust, casting new light upon . . . the Bible's place in Western culture." —Northrop Frye $29.95

Félix Fénéon

Aesthete and Anarchist in Fin-de-Siècle Paris
Joan Ungersma Halperin

Félix Fénéon was a man of many faces: an editor and publisher of the new symbolist writing; an important art critic; and a secret anarchist. In this compelling and handsomely illustrated book—the first major biography of Fénéon in any language—Joan Ungersma Halperin does a masterly feat of detective work to piece together the private and public lives of this enigmatic man.

"A brilliant biography." —Robert L. Herbert 140 b/w + 20 color illus. $35.00

William Plomer

A Biography

PETER F. ALEXANDER, University of New South Wales

Dealing frankly with all areas of William Plomer's private and professional life and the central role his homosexuality played in them, this book looks at his success at bringing such authors as Vladimir Nabokov and Ian Fleming to prominence, his work as editor of the Francis Kilvert's diaries, his librettos for several of Britten's operas including Gloriana, and his other literary works, which include five novels and ten volumes of verse.

Hardy the Creator

A Textual Biography

SIMON GATRELL, University of Georgia

This study gives the first detailed account of how Hardy came to terms with writing to please his publisher and make a living on the one hand, and writing what he thought was the truth about the world as he saw it on the other. It integrates a study of his work on the texts of his novels from first draft to final revised edition with a description of his dealings with magazine editors, publishers, and printers, and their effect upon his writing.

Two Edg'd Weapons

Style and Ideology in the Comedies of Etherege, Wycherley, and Congreve

ROBERT MARKLEY, University of Washington

This book provides an important rereading of dramatic language in the comedies of Etherege, Wycherley, and Congreve. Demonstrating that comic wit of the late 1600s was a complex means by which these playwrights questioned orthodox political, social, and sexual values, this is the first work to draw significantly on postmodern theories to discuss the historical problems posed by late 17th-century dramatic style.

High Resolution

Critical Theory and the Problem of Literacy

HENRY SUSSMAN, State University of New York, Buffalo

"This book confronts an important and timely subject from a unique point of view... The special point of view is the question of the relation of critical theory, more particularly 'rhetorical reading' or 'deconstruction' to the problem of literacy. The argument is that 'critical theory' has a fundamental and irreplaceable pedagogical contribution to make to the enhancement of literacy. Sussman's book makes a brilliant contribution to the thinking through of the question it poses."—J. Hillis Miller, University of California, Irvine.

1988 288 pp. $29.95

Sacred Biography

Saints and Their Biographers in the Middle Ages

THOMAS J. HEFFERNAN, University of Tennessee

Concentrating on texts from medieval England, this book examines sacred biography in relation to the community for which it was written, achieving a more contextually accurate understanding of the medieval saints' lives and detailing an important new critical method.

The Works of George Farquhar

2 Volumes

GEORGE FARQUHAR; Edited by SHIRLEY STRUM KENNY, President, Queens College of the City University of New York

In this first scholarly edition since 1730 of the works of George Farquhar (1678-1707), who is often considered the best, and certainly the most popular, playwright to appear at the turn of the 18th century, Kenny has added to the canon materials not printed since the early 1700's—some of which have never been identified as Farquhar's—and provided an introduction to each work.

Coming this Fall...

Bas-Relief with Heroes: Selected Poems, 1960-1982

by Nichita Stanescu

translated by Thomas C. Carlson and Vasile Poenaru

illustrated by Benedict Ganescu

A superb sampling of the work of the major Romanian poet of the postwar generation, this long overdue translation embraces selections from all Stanescu's major cycles, including his final decade of work. These translations capture the ideas, imagery, phrasing, and tone of their originals and will form an indispensable addition to the libraries of those who follow the progress of Romanian literature and arts, or East European culture generally. They are illustrated by 32 line drawings by one of Romania's foremost illustrators.

CONTINGENCIES OF VALUE

Alternative Perspectives for Critical Theory
BARBARA HERRNSTEIN SMITH

"This remarkable work... must be read in order to initiate a critical evaluation of aesthetic evaluation and to show—in opposition to those who defend absolutism in matters of cultural value—that one can deny objective value without falling into nihilistic relativism."—Pierre Bourdieu

RUIN THE SACRED TRUTHS

Poetry and Belief from the Bible to the Present
HAROLD BLOOM

In his first book in five years, Bloom surveys with majestic view the literature of the West from the Old Testament to Samuel Beckett. He urges a return to the aesthetic criteria of the High Sublime, arguing that there is no literary distinction between sacred and secular literature. True poetry, Bloom maintains, cannot be judged by any socially constructed criteria because it subsumes all criteria. Charles Eliot Norton Lectures

REVIVING LIBERTY

Radical Christian Humanism in Milton's Great Poems

JOAN S. BENNETT

Milton's great poems—Paradise Lost, Paradise Regained, and Samson Agonistes—are here examined in the light of his lifelong commitment to the English revolutionary cause. The poems, Bennett shows, reflect the issues Milton had dealt with in theological and public policy debate, foreign diplomacy, and propaganda.
