REVOLUTIONARY WAR: Western Response

DAVID S. SULLIVAN AND MARTIN J. SATTLER, EDITORS

An anthology of five articles prepared for a special issue of the Journal of International Affairs devoted to the question of U.S. foreign policy in its relation to peasant movements and revolutionary wars in various countries. cloth $8.00 paper $2.25

CHANGE IN THE INTERNATIONAL SYSTEM

DAVID S. SULLIVAN AND MARTIN J. SATTLER, EDITORS

In this book six noted experts examine the future of the international system as it may be affected by technological developments in the 1970's and 1980's. The overall view is less dramatic technological development, and more concern with ecology and population control. Cloth $8.00 Paper $2.95

CHINA AND RUSSIA: The "Great Game"

O. EDMUND CLUBB

A detailed and uniquely informed survey of three centuries of dealings between these neighboring superpowers who somehow never went to war with each other. Particular emphasis is placed on events since 1850, and the book presents Clubb's masterful and authoritative exposition of the significance of this long history for the world today. Cloth, $12.50; Paper $3.95

Transnational Relations and World Politics

Robert O. Keohane and Joseph S. Nye, Jr., editors

Rejecting the traditional view of world politics as simply interstate politics, the editors argue for an examination of transnational processes and their role in international affairs. In this volume of essays political scientists, economists, historians, and sociologists look at aspects of world politics in which states are not utterly dominant—that is, at transnational relations. The essays cover several types of transnational actors: (1) multinational enterprise, the Ford Foundation, racial minorities; (2) different fields in which transnational processes occur; and (3) the effects of these relations on peace, American foreign policy and international organizations. Cloth: $12.50. Paper: $4.95.

"The author provides an excellent setting for the [Stockholm] conference, tracing in a well-documented form the evolution of the environmental crisis. A major work on the basis of its synthesis of an extensive literature alone, the book provides an analysis of environmental administration which is not elsewhere available." — Library Journal

304 pages $8.50

To call Professor Caldwell's book timely would be underestimating. It is nothing less than crucial in that it takes up where most ecology books leave off. Rather than offer a treatise on what the problem is the book concerns itself with solution, presenting a practical and concrete program for safeguarding the biosphere. Moreover, In Defense of Earth is international in scope, for it looks forward to the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment to be held in Stockholm in June, 1972. Provided are full reading lists on almost every ecological topic, making this an indispensable source book. All persons concerned about public policy toward the environment will find the book impelling, hopeful, and rewarding.
