The final volume—

TIME AND NARRATIVE

Volume 3

PAUL RICOEUR

Translated by Kathleen Blamey and David Pellauer

Reexamining and synthesizing his ideas about the relations between time and narrative in historical writing, fiction, and theories of literature, Ricoeur presents a complete and satisfying statement of his own philosophy, "the best kind of philosophy." (Eugen Weber, New York Times Book Review)

SOWING THE BODY

Psychoanalysis and Ancient Representations of Women

PAGE DUBOIS

Foreword by Catharine R. Stimpson

DuBois' radically new examination of women in classical Greece both draws on and challenges the traditions of psychoanalysis and classical studies and those of feminist, literary, and Marxist theory to imagine new ways of thinking about the place of the female in ancient culture.

THE ASCETIC IMPERATIVE IN CULTURE AND CRITICISM

GEOFFREY GALT HARPAM

"An extraordinary text, interweaving its passionate learning between the church fathers and contemporary thought with equal relevance."—Mary Ann Caws, City University of New York

Cloth $29.95 336 pages 27 halftones

THE SURPRISING EFFECTS OF SYMPATHY

*Marivaux, Diderot,
Rousseau, and Mary Shelley*
DAVID MARSHALL

"An impressive achievement. In a series of acute readings, Marshall reveals the centrality of the notion of sympathy for major eighteenth-century texts. He locates the ways in which accounts of sympathy as a natural tendency innate to humans quickly become involved with a fear that sympathy may not be natural enough."—Frances Ferguson, University of California, Berkeley

ILLUMINATING LITERARY STUDIES

TIMELY READING

Between Exegesis and Interpretation

By SUSAN NOAKES. Noakes challenges the notion of "timeless" works of literature and a historically unchanging reading process. "Offers illuminating, often brilliant readings of key texts about reading from turning points in the fourteenth and nineteenth centuries."—William J. Kennedy, Cornell University. Ready in July. $29.95

LITERARY KNOWLEDGE

Humanistic Inquiry and the Philosophy of Science

By PAISLEY LIVINGSTON. In a world where the model of knowledge is generally drawn from the natural sciences, what does "literary knowledge" mean? Responding to this question, Livingston addresses the science/humanities dichotomy that is such a central concern of teaching and research today. $9.95 paper; $29.95 cloth

SOCIAL SEMIOTICS

By ROBERT HODGE and GUNTHER KRESS. The authors show how semiotics may be integrated into the analysis of power, ideology, class and gender. "A splendid introduction to the study of signs and signification."—Graham McCann, King's College, Cambridge University. Illustrations. $14.95 paper; $47.50 cloth

FICTIONS OF THE FEMININE

Puritan Doctrine and the Representation of Women

By MARGARET OLOFSON THICKSTUN. Thickstun explores the influence of Puritan theology and domestic theory on the representation of women in English literature, focusing on Spenser's Faerie Queene, Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, Milton's Paradise Lost, and two later novels, Richardson's Clarissa and Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter. $19.95

NAMING THE ROSE

Eco, Medieval Signs, and Modern Theory

By THERESA COLETTI. "Naming the Rose identifies and examines the current theoretical issues embodied by Eco in his novel, clarifying at the same time these issues and Eco's book."—Larry S. Crist, Vanderbilt University. $19.95. Ready in June.

PROPHESYING TRAGEDY

Sign and Voice in Sophocles' Theban Plays

By REBECCA W. BUSHNELL. Bushnell asserts that an understanding of tragic fate, as represented in prophecy, can be achieved through an awareness of the historical relationship of tragedy to culture and politics. $18.95

FOXES AND LIONS

Machiavelli's Confidence Men

By WAYNE A. REBHORN. This book connects Machiavelli's literary works with his political and historical writings, and relates all of them to his life history, his concerns with power and powerlessness, and his characteristic modes of self-representation. $24.95

RHETORICS OF REASON AND DESIRE

Vergil, Augustine, and the Troubadours

By SARAH SPENCE. "[Spence's] analysis of Vergilian, Augustinian, and troubadour rhetoric—and of the relative authority of reason and will implicit in each—sheds important new light on the evolution of language theory and its social context during a crucial millennium of European civilization."—Robert W. Hanning, Columbia University. $22.50

TO MAKE A POET BLACK

By J. SAUNDERS REDDING. With a new introductory essay by Henry Louis Gates, Jr. First issued in 1939, this work is a classic study of Black American poetry from the late eighteenth century to the Harlem Renaissance by a scholar who has been a major figure in Black Studies for two generations. $22.50 cloth; $6.95 paper
