

NEWS AND NOTES

PERSONAL AND MISCELLANEOUS

Compiled by the Managing Editor

Forty-second Annual Meeting of the American Political Science Association. The forty-second annual meeting of the American Political Science Association will be held at Cleveland on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday morning, December 27-29, with the Hotel Statler as headquarters. In view of the decision of the American Society for Public Administration to hold its annual meeting in the spring, a joint meeting with this Society will not be held this year. Breakfast meetings, however, have been scheduled for the Managerial Committee of the Mid-West Conference of Political Scientists, the Executive Council of the Southern Political Science Association, and Pi Sigma Alpha, national honorary political science fraternity. A joint breakfast meeting and a joint round table on "Education for Democratic Citizenship" will be held in collaboration with the National Council for the Social Studies. A dinner meeting of the Pennsylvania Political Science and Public Administration Association will be held also. The program has been built around the general theme, "The Problems of Government in the Post-War World." These problems may be viewed as essentially domestic, foreign, or international in character. With this point of view in mind, the program committee has attempted to emphasize those major governmental problems that must be faced today or in the immediate future. In elaboration of the general theme, round tables and section meetings have been scheduled on the following subjects: The Need for Constitutional Reform; Representative Assemblies in a Technological Age; Post-War Government Personnel Problems; Post-War Problems of Local Government; Federal Administration: Transition from War to Peace; Government and Business in the Post-War Period; Political Parties; Judicial Organization and Administration; Metropolitan Government; Pressure Groups; Developments in Administrative Law; Government Planning; The Political Pathology of the South; Civil Liberties; Public Opinion and Political Communications; University Bureaus of Public Administration; Intergovernmental Fiscal Relations; Problems of Teaching in Political Science; Education for Democratic Citizenship; Labor and Politics; Militarism and Politics; Technology and Politics; The Trial of War Criminals; American Foreign Policy: The Pacific and Far East; American Foreign Policy: Europe and the Near East; American Foreign Policy: Latin America; Constitutional Problems in European Countries; The British Commonwealth of Nations; International Organization; and Beyond Relativism in Political Theory. Of the thirty round tables and section meetings scheduled, fifteen will hold two sessions each. On Saturday afternoon, prior to the annual business meeting of the Association, a series of panel meetings conducted by the panel chairmen of the Association's Committee on Research will be held. Panels scheduled to meet include State and Local Governments and Comparative Government. Three luncheon programs and two general evening sessions have been planned. The evening of the presidential address will be devoted to a consideration of judicial problems, with President Walter F. Dodd and other persons distinguished in the judicial field as speakers. At other general sessions, it is planned to have major addresses by prominent officials on the United Nations, the peace treaties and American foreign policy, and some aspects of government and our national economy. A Preliminary Program outlining in greater detail the structure of the program will be printed within the near future and distributed to the members of the Association. The officers and program committee urge all members to make plans to attend this first December meeting of the Association since 1941.—J. ALTON BURDINE, CHAIRMAN, PROGRAM COMMITTEE.

Professor Eric C. Bellquist, who has been serving as acting chief, European Division, Office of International Information and Cultural Affairs, Department of State, has returned to the University of California.

Miss Ellen Deborah Ellis, whose work at Mt. Holyoke College has been taken over by Miss Ruth C. Lawson, will spend the coming year teaching at the Istanbul Woman's College, Istanbul, Turkey.

Professor Denna F. Fleming, of Vanderbilt University, spent the past summer in the Department of State, as an adviser to Mr. Bernard M. Baruch, United States member of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

At Cornell University, Professor Herbert W. Briggs has assumed the chairmanship of the department of government; Dr. Elias Huzar has been promoted to an associate professorship; and Dr. Clinton L. Rossiter, III, has been appointed instructor.

Effective October 1, Dr. Walter H. C. Laves has resigned his post as associate professor of political science and chairman of the social sciences in the College at the University of Chicago, to remain with the U. S. Bureau of the Budget as consultant on international affairs.

Professor Edson R. Sunderland, of the University of Michigan Law School, has been added to the American Political Science Association's recently appointed committee on judicial organization and procedure.

Dr. Harlow J. Heneman, who recently resigned his position at the University of Michigan, is now a special assistant to General John H. Hilldring, Assistant Secretary of State for Occupied Areas Affairs and chairman of the State-War-Navy Coördinating Committee.

After an absence of more than three years in the Marine Corps, with rank of Major, Professor H. Arthur Steiner has returned to the University of California at Los Angeles and has been redesignated as chairman of the department of political science.

After teaching during portions of the past summer at the University of Alabama and Cornell University, Professor W. Brooke Graves has taken up residence in Washington as chief of the State Law Section of the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress.

Between the spring and summer quarters, Professor Graham H. Stuart, of Stanford University, lectured at the Northwest Institute of International Relations at Reed College. He has received special commendation from the Department of State for his services at Tangier in preparatory work on a new statute for that city.

Professor James K. Pollock resumed teaching at the University of Michigan at the opening of the fall semester. On leave of absence from the University for the academic year 1945-46, Professor Pollock served as political adviser to General Clay and senior representative to the Deputy Military Governor in Germany.

At the University of Michigan, Dr. Lawrence Preuss has been advanced to the rank of professor. Prior to his return to the University at the beginning of the last academic year, Professor Preuss served for three years as an officer of the Department of State, during which period he participated in the work of the United Nations War Crimes Commission at London, the Dumbarton Oaks Conversations, the United Nations Committee of Jurists, and the San Francisco Conference. At the time of his retirement from the Department of State, he was an associate chief of the Division of International Organization Affairs.

At the University of Wisconsin, Dr. James L. McCamy, who formerly taught at Bennington College and more recently has been chief of the Division of World Trade in the U. S. Department of Commerce, has been appointed professor of political science and will assume his new duties in January. Dr. William S. Stokes, formerly of Northwestern University, has been appointed associate professor, and Dr. Robert G. Neumann, who taught last year at Oshkosh Teachers College, has been appointed lecturer.

Professor Lin Tung-chi, of the National Fudan University, Shanghai, is a visiting lecturer at Stanford University during the autumn quarter and is offering a course for advanced students in the government and politics of China, as well as a course on Chinese civilization, in the program of Pacific-Asiatic-Russian Studies. While in this country on invitation from the Department of State, under the cultural coöperation program, Dr. Lin is engaged also in preliminary work in connection with a projected library of Western thought, to be located in Shanghai.

At the University of Maryland, the department of political science has become the department of government and politics, and has been transferred from the arts college to the College of Business and Public Administration. In addition to Professor Franklin L. Burdette, of Butler University, as associate professor, the department was joined this fall by Professor Clifford R. Rader, of the University of Kentucky, as assistant professor, and Messrs. Robert G. Dixon, of Syracuse University, Edmund C. Gass, of the University of North Carolina, William N. Rairigh, of the University of Maryland, and Peter J. Turano, of the University of New Mexico, as instructors.

At the University of Pennsylvania, Drs. Robert Strausz-Hupé and John P. Horlacher have been promoted to the rank of associate professor; Professor Edgar B. Cale has been made director of the Summer School and of College Collateral Courses; Professor Bradford W. West has been named director of student personnel in the Wharton School; and Messrs. Cecil J. Burnett and George M. Hougham and Miss Ava Clark have been appointed instructors.

Professor Boyd A. Martin, of the University of Idaho, gave courses at Stanford University during the summer quarter.

Professor John Brown Mason, formerly of Fresno Junior College, California, is now a lecturer in political science at Oberlin College.

Dr. Robert H. Connery, at the Catholic University of America before the war, is now on the staff at Stanford University.

Dr. J. M. Hagopian, formerly instructor in economics at Oregon State College, has accepted an instructorship in political science at the University of California at Los Angeles.

After service with the U. S. Army in New Guinea, Leyte, Manila, and Tokyo, Dr. Dale Pontius has been appointed to an assistant professorship at Tulane University. Mr. Warren Roberts, Jr., has been appointed to an instructorship.

Dr. Arnaud B. Leavelle has resigned his post at Swarthmore College to accept a position at Stanford University, where he will handle work in political theory. Dr. Morgan Thomas, who completed his work for the doctorate at Harvard University last June, has accepted an instructorship at Swarthmore.

Dr. E. Grant Youmans has resigned as management analyst with the War Assets Administration to accept an instructorship in social science at Michigan State College.

Professor W. V. Holloway, formerly of Tulane University and the New Orleans city civil service department, has accepted an associate professorship at Tulsa University, and will offer courses in American government, public administration, political parties, and municipal government and administration.

Dr. Ralph F. Bischoff has resigned his associate professorship of government at Wesleyan University to accept a position as law librarian and associate professor of law at the New York University School of Law.

Dr. Oliver Garceau, formerly assistant professor at Harvard University, has accepted an associate professorship at the University of Maine.

Professor Stuart A. MacCorkle, of the University of Texas, served as visiting professor at the University of Illinois during the 1946 summer session.

Dr. Andrew Gyorgy, formerly of the University of New Hampshire, has accepted an assistant professorship at Yale University, where he will assist in several phases of the international relations program offered by the department of political science.

Dr. Richard C. Spencer, government organization specialist in the Governments Division of the U. S. Bureau of the Census, has been appointed professorial lecturer at the George Washington University and will teach municipal government in the fall term and political parties in the winter term.

At the New Mexico State Teachers College, Professor Arthur L. Bach has been appointed dean of the college.

Dr. Stephen K. Bailey, who since his release from the Navy in December, 1945, has been doing research on Capitol Hill under a SSRC Demobilization Award, has been appointed assistant professor at Wesleyan University. He taught government at Hiram College before the war, and during the war served as assistant to Professor William P. Maddox in O.S.S. Mediterranean operations.

Professor John T. Salter, on leave from the University of Wisconsin, and recently engaged in writing history for the AAF in the War Department, has taken a new post with the War Assets Administration.

Dr. Paul M. Zeis, whose appointment at Miami University was announced in the last issue of the REVIEW, subsequently resigned because of inability to secure suitable housing for his family.

Dr. Harold Winkler, recently instructor at Harvard University, has accepted an assistant professorship at the University of California; Captain George A. Lipsky has resigned his commission at the U. S. Military Academy to accept appointment as lecturer; and Dr. Dwight Waldo, recently with the Bureau of the Budget, has been appointed assistant professor.

At the University of Minnesota, Dr. Willmoore Kendall has been given leave of absence for 1946-47 to serve as head of the Latin American Research Division of the Central Intelligence Group of the National Intelligence Authority.

After four years of service with O.P.A., Dr. Conley H. Dillon has returned to his post as head of the department of political science at Marshall College.

Professor Maurice G. Burnside, of Marshall College, was nominated in August as Democratic candidate for Congress in the Fourth District of West Virginia.

At Marshall College, Dr. A. E. Harris has been appointed chairman of the graduate division, and Mr. Leo Oxley has been appointed instructor for the fall term.

At Pomona College, Mr. John F. Golay, former Rhodes scholar and ex-RAF navigator, has been appointed to an instructorship, and Dr. Allan B. Cole has been made associate professor of Oriental affairs.

After two and one-half years as director of research for the Committee on Legislative Research of the Missouri General Assembly, Dr. Charlton F. Chute has returned to his former position as director of the Governmental Research Institute of St. Louis.

Dr. Lincoln Smith, recently at the University of Pennsylvania, has been appointed visiting assistant professor at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Lester H. Phillips, of the University of Michigan, has accepted a position as professor of political science in the Colorado State College of Education at Greeley.

Professor Linden Mander, of the University of Washington, is on leave from teaching duties until January. He has been in Australia and New Zealand since early summer investigating certain problems pertaining to that general area.

Dr. Walter Riley, formerly of Whitman College, has been appointed assistant professor at the University of Washington, and Mr. Gene Setzer, formerly of the University of Wichita, has been made an associate.

Dr. Henry Janzen, formerly of Hamilton College, has joined the political science staff at Pennsylvania State College.

Commander Robert R. Robbins, USNR, a member of the department of political science at Tufts College prior to his entrance into the U. S. Navy in 1942, has accepted an assistant professorship at Ohio State University.

Dr. Carroll Hawkins, who received his doctorate this year at the University of Minnesota, has been appointed assistant professor at Michigan State College.

Mr. Claude B. Stephenson, Jr., and Mr. Donald Hester have been named instructors at the University of Tennessee for the current academic year.

Dr. Paul Kelso, who returned to the University of California at Los Angeles last March after three years in the Air Forces, has accepted an assistant professorship at the University of Arizona.

At Mount Holyoke College, Dr. Donald M. Morgan and Miss Ruth C. Lawson have been promoted to the rank of assistant professor.

At the University of Michigan, Dr. Clark F. Norton has been promoted to the rank of assistant professor and Dr. Ferrell Heady, who served part of last year as visiting lecturer at the University of Kansas City, has been appointed instructor.

Professors Philip E. Jacob and Donald Harter, of the University of Pennsylvania, are doing part time teaching this year at Swarthmore College.

Dr. Hilton P. Goss, formerly of the State College of Washington, has accepted a position with the Historical Research Staff of the Army Air Forces' newly established Air University at Maxwell Field, Alabama. He will be in charge of certain phases of research relating to instruction and planning for selected Air Forces officers enrolled in the five post-graduate colleges of the Air University.

At Bucknell University, Dr. Ralph E. Page, dean of men and professor of political science, has resigned to become director of the New York Maritime Academy with the rank of Captain; Dr. Ernest W. Meyer has been granted leave for the spring semester to enable him to accept an invitation to teach political science at the Universities of Frankfurt and Marburg; and Dr. Roger J. Hargrave, of the Duluth State Teachers College, has been appointed assistant professor and Mr. Walter G. Held instructor.

At the Illinois Institute of Technology, Professor Herbert A. Simon has been made chairman of the department of political and social science, and Mr. Donald W. Smithburg has been appointed instructor in political science.

Dr. Claude E. Hawley has resigned his professorship at the University of Florida to accept an associate professorship at the University of Southern California. In the summer of 1946, he served as visiting professor at Northwestern University.

Professor Charles P. Schleicher has resumed his teaching duties at the University of Utah after a leave of absence of three and a half years. From February, 1943, to June, 1945, Dr. Schleicher worked with the Civilian Personnel Division, Office of the Secretary of War, serving as chief of the Reports Development and Review Section during the latter part of the period. In June, 1945, he transferred to the Department of State, where he served as chief of the Committee Coördinating Section of the Central Secretariat until September, 1945.

Professor Eugene P. Chase has returned to Lafayette College from the Department of State. During his three years with the Department, he was occupied with various projects in preparation for the postwar settlements, serving as head of the British Commonwealth unit of the Division of Territorial Studies, and later as assistant chief of the Division of Dependent Area Affairs. He attended the San Francisco Conference in 1945 as secretary of Committee II/4, the committee on trusteeship, and in the same year served also as secretary of the committee on political and constitutional problems at the first conference of the Food and Agricultural Organization at Quebec.

At Duke University, Professor Robert R. Wilson has returned from the Department of State to resume his teaching duties and department chairmanship; Dr. John H. Hallowell has been advanced to the rank of associate professor; Dr. C. H. Richards, formerly of Texas Christian University, has accepted an assistant professorship; and Mr. Earl Hanson, formerly of the University of Illinois, an instructorship.

The University of Detroit is building up its new department of political science, recently transferred from the College of Commerce and Finance to the College of Arts and Sciences. Rev. Robert C. Hartnett, S.J., director of the department, announces the addition of Dr. Tibor Payzs, formerly of Loyola University, Chicago, as assistant professor in the field of international relations.

Dr. John J. George has been promoted to a full professorship at Rutgers University. During the summer, he taught at the University of Caliifornia, and in June he received the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fifth District of New Jersey.

Lieutenant Commander George Lee Millikan, USNR, has been released to inactive duty and has accepted an assistant professorship at Louisiana State University. He formerly was assistant professor and chairman of the department of political science at the University of Delaware. On his last tour of duty in the Navy, Lieutenant Commander Millikan served as assistant deputy secretary of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington.

Mr. Milton R. Konvitz, for the past eight years on the law and public administration faculties of New York University and a member of the faculty of the New School for Social Research, has become director of research and associate professor at the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Cornell University. This fall, the Cornell University Press will publish his The Alien and the Asiatic in American Law, and the Columbia University Press will publish his The Constitution and Civil Rights, both written on a Rockefeller Foundation grant.

The twenty-sixth annual meeting of the National Council for the Social Studies will be held at Boston, November 28-30, with the Hotel Statler as headquarters. For final program, available about November 5, apply to Merrill F. Hartshorn, 1201 Sixteenth St., N.W., Washington, D. C.

Mr. E. L. Woodward, Montague Burton professor of international relations at Oxford University, Professor Denna F. Fleming of Vanderbilt University, and Professor William B. Willcox of the University of Michigan, are among the members of a seminar on international affairs which is being conducted at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton during the current academic year.

Dr. Bernard Brodie has been granted leave of absence from the Institute of International Studies at Yale University to serve on the faculty of the new National War College during the autumn semester. The National War College, located in Washington, was opened on September 3 for the purpose of providing on the highest echelons in the State, War, and Navy departments intensive training in international relations as well as military strategy.

Professor John B. Whitton has returned to Princeton University after a year's service in Europe with the American Army, first as head of the department of political science at Biarritz American University and then as lecturer in geopolitics at the U. S. Constabulary School in Sonthofen, Bavaria. While at Biarritz, Professor Whitton was granted the degree of doctor honoris causa by the University of Bordeaux. Last spring he gave a series of lectures on American foreign policy at the École des Sciences Politiques in Paris.

At the University of Kansas, Professor Ethan P. Allen has succeeded Professor Walter Sandelius as chairman of the department of political science. Dr. Hilden Gibson has been granted a year's leave of absence to accept a post-doctoral fellowship at Harvard University, School of Business Administration. Dr. Eldon Fields, formerly of the University of Chicago, has accepted an assistant professorship and will devote his time to Social Science Survey and courses in theory. Mr. Thomas Page has accepted a position as research associate in the Bureau of Government Research, and will devote his time to a study of the assessment system in Kansas, also teaching one course in the department of political science.

Lieutenant Commander James T. Watkins, IV, USNR, has been appointed to the faculty of Stanford University to offer courses in international relations and the governments of the Far East. Upon completing the course at the Naval School of Military Government and Administration at Columbia University, Commander Watkins joined the faculty and staff of that school, and later was assigned to the military government headquarters, Tenth Army, in Hawaii. He then took part in the invasion of Okinawa and remained as postal and communications officer in the military government. Later he was appointed Government Officer for the Ryukus, and Director of the Department of General Affairs. Drawing upon the experience gained as a teacher in Japan and China, and his special knowledge of Oriental conditions, he developed a native administrative organization for the islands of Okinawa Gunto and thus supported the mission assigned to the military government of the Ryukus. He left Okinawa when responsibility was transferred to the Army, and is now on terminal leave.

The Institute of Public Administration, in New York, has announced for the year beginning this fall a program of graduate instruction designed to afford intensive training for a very limited number of college graduates of high rank in scholarship and in campus or job leadership.

Aided by a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, the Social Science Research Council has undertaken to place gift sets of two hundred and fifty American social science books and monographs published since 1939 in forty university libraries in European countries occupied by Germany during the war. The first shipment left New York early in July, and all selected libraries are expected to have received their sets before the end of the year. The project has been under the direction of Dr. Thorsten Sellin, of the University of Pennsylvania.

The private papers of Frank O. Lowden, governor of Illinois during the first World War and member of Congress from Illinois between 1906 and 1911, have been presented to the University of Chicago by Mrs. Florence Lowden Miller, a daughter of the late Governor Lowden, and wife of Dr. C. Phillip Miller, professor of medicine at the University. Governor Lowden was a trustee of the University of Chicago from 1905 to 1912 and was chairman of the board of trustees of the Public Administration Clearing House from its organization and affiliation with the University of Chicago in 1931 until his death in 1943.

A workshop in State and Local Government for teachers and prospective teachers of high school civics and social studies was held on the campus of Michigan State College, July 8-26. The project was sponsored by the Institute of Local Government, the Michigan Municipal League, the State Department of Public Instruction, the State College, the University of Michigan, Wayne University, and the state colleges of education; and the instructional staff was chosen from state, county, and city officials and from teachers of political science in the sponsoring institutions named. The object was to afford students opportunity to learn first hand from practitioners about the perplexing problems of government, while also giving them contact with academic people familiar with the theory and fundamental principles of the subject.