THE FLOATING WORLD IN JAPANESE FICTION

Tales of the UKIYO and their Background

By HOWARD HIBBETT. Sharp satire, wit and sophistication characterize these "tales of the floating world." These gay stories, together with the familiar ukiyo-e woodcuts with which they are illustrated, offer a glittering picture of city life in the brilliant Genroku era, 1680-1740. 24 woodcuts. $6.50

EASTERN RELIGIONS AND WESTERN THOUGHT

By S. RADHAKRISHNAN. "An important and beautiful book written with earnest conviction and conspicuous ability . . . The author makes his main point that we . . . have much to learn, and more to unlearn, from India."—Philosophy.

Galaxy paperbound edition $2.25

THREE JAPANESE PLAYS

From the Traditional Theatre

Edited, with Introductions, by EARLE ERNST. Three Japanese plays never before published in English translation—each representative of its particular kind of Japanese theatre—No, the Doll Theatre, and Kabuki. Illustrated. $6.00

SANDALS AT THE MOSQUE

Christian Presence Amid Islam

By KENNETH CRAGG. This first volume in the Christian Presence series shows the depth of Muslim religious thought and experience, considers the relationship between Christianity and Islam, and suggests what the modern Christian's attitude towards Islam should be. $2.75
