about the things you say*

Metaphors We Live By

George Lakoff and Mark Johnson

Metaphors, Lakoff and Johnson hold, are not mere poetical or rhetorical embellishments but part of everyday language that affects the ways in which we perceive, think, and act. The authors show how reality is defined by metaphor and how, as metaphors vary from culture to culture, so do the realities they define.

“The book is the most original and valuable thing I’ve seen on the much-discussed topic of metaphor... I found the book extremely readable and well-argued. It maintains a high standard of precision despite the authors’ avoidance of formalism and their great restraint in introducing technical terms.”—James D. McCawley, University of Chicago

“A well-written and entertaining book and a gold mine of examples and ideas to researchers outside of linguistics... A door has been opened to a new aspect of human language.”—Jaime G. Carbonell, Carnegie-Mellon University

"It is a treat and a treasure to have Morris Bishop's poems back in print. If light verse were to revive, it would have to begin where Bishop left off."

-JOHN UPDIKE

The Best of Bishop

Light Verse from The New Yorker and Elsewhere

"Morris Bishop is one of the few grandmasters of English and American whimsy. I had not known how much I missed his exquisite touch until this retrospective collection came along."

-JOHN CIARDI

"It is not easy to be ordinary and brilliant at once; that is why poets like Morris Bishop are so rare, and why it is so happy a thing to see him back in print."

Essays on Renaissance Poetry

By JAMES HUTTON. Edited by RITA GUERLAC, with a Foreword by D.P. WALKER. James Hutton is, as D.P. Walker remarks in his foreword, "a scholar of a kind that has always been rare and is likely soon to be rarer still: a thoroughly trained classicist who has spent most of his life studying Renaissance literature, both vernacular and Latin." This new volume collects twenty of his pieces (sixteen essays and four reviews), three of them are appearing in print for the first time. $35.00

Turgenev's Russia

From Notes of a Hunter to Fathers and Sons

By VICTOR RIPP. "A superb piece of work and, beyond any doubt, a significant and original contribution to Turgenev scholarship. Ripp achieves his success by studying Turgenev's major works as inseparable from the rapidly changing cultural milieu out of which they sprang."—Richard Sheldon, Dartmouth College. Concentrating on five of Turgenev's important works—Notes of a Hunter, Rudin, Nest of the Nobility, On the Eve, and Fathers and Sons—Victor Ripp examines Turgenev's literary career in relation to its social and political context. $14.50
