RILM Abstracts is the world's most complete continuously updated bibliography of music literature. Through its printed, CD-ROM, and online formats, RILM provides general readers and scholars with easy access to all significant music literature—a service supplied nowhere else. RILM Abstracts is more than a mere index: it provides detailed summaries of many references, and every RILM entry itself is indexed in detail.

Anyone who needs quick access to recent music literature, from reviews of blues recordings to the origins of Byzantine church music will find it in RILM. Students, performers, and music historians in all areas benefit from RILM's in-depth coverage.

Using information compiled in its member countries, RILM's staff of professional editors, musicologists, and indexers produces three major research tools:

RILM Abstracts: A cornerstone of every music reference collection. Each volume of this fully annotated bibliography contains references to virtually all serious writing on music within a given year. Its references form the most complete guide available to current publications worldwide, and its abstracts provide summaries of the most significant books and articles of the year.

RILM Cumulative Index: Three separate index volumes, each covering a full five years of the RILM Abstracts annual volumes.

RILM Music Thesauruses: A standard vocabulary for music terminology and place names. The RILM Thesaurus enables the serious researcher to use the indexes most thoroughly and efficiently.

Verdi - A Biography

MARY JANE PHILLIPS-MATZ

With a foreword by ANDREW PORTER

- First new biography for a generation
- Written with exclusive and unprecedented access to original Verdi family documents
- Explores the facts behind the myths surrounding the life of this extraordinary and controversial figure
- Discusses the documentary evidence detailing previously unknown aspects of Verdi's life

Verdi was one of the greatest, the most successful, and the longest-lived of all composers. Nearly a century after his death, many of his operas remain in the standard repertory, and some, such as Rigoletto, La traviata, and Aida, are among the most popular of all operas.

Written with the full collaboration of the Verdi family and drawing on a wide range of sources, this is an authoritative re-examination of a long, vigorous, and varied life.

The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless return postage is provided.

Manuscripts should be double spaced throughout (including footnotes, etc.) and should be typed on one side of the paper with ample margins. Contributors with word processors are requested to underline rather than use an italic font, and to avoid justification of right margins, automatic hyphenation and bold face type.

Footnotes should be numbered consecutively and be typed, double spaced, on separate pages at the end. Musical examples, figures, tables, etc. should also be supplied on separate sheets.

Contributors who wish to reproduce photographs should provide good black and white prints, full details of the source and the full address of the copyright holder if this differs. Photographs will not normally be considered unless they are an intrinsic part of the contribution, and their inclusion will always be at the discretion of the editors. The full address of the copyright holder should also be provided for any material used in which the contributor does not hold copyright.

Punctuation should follow standard British practice. Single quotation marks should be used with double reserved for quotations within quotations. Punctuation that is not part of the quoted material should be outside closing quotation marks, as should footnote indicators. Longer quotations should be indented left without quotation marks and double spaced. Prose citations should be in English unless the original is of particular importance, unpublished or inaccessible, in which case the original should be followed by a translation in square brackets. Verse citations should be in the original language followed by a prose translation in square brackets.

Dates should be on the following model: c. 1740, 1840s, 5 February 1943. References should be to: Act I scene 2, op. 1 no. 2 in E major, Ex. 12 and Exx. 12–14, Fig. 3 and Figs. 6–9, motif(s) and leitmotif(s). For precise identification of pitch, use this system:

Sample footnotes (do not abbreviate journal titles):

- ⁹ Whenham (see n. 1), 57.

First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editors an address through which they can be reached without delay and are able to return the corrected proofs, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receipt.

DANCE RESEARCH

Edited by Dr Richard Ralph, London Contemporary Dance School

"Wide-ranging and scholarly, Dance Research is a journal that no one with a serious interest in dance can afford to ignore. From the workers dance movement in the United States to the aesthetics of critics past, Dance Research has published some of the more thoughtful articles of recent years elucidating the dance past."

Lynn Garafola, Editor, Studies in Dance History

Dance Research has won widespread acclaim for the interest and diversity of its contents: for its mixture of the scholarly and the informal, technical and journalistic. Many of the articles break new ground whilst covering the broad spectrum of dance topics, ranging from the history of European theatre to dance anthropology and Renaissance spectacle. Attractively produced, the journal is fully illustrated with fascinating archive material.
