

various mental handicap units within that Area. Within the medical school, close links will be established with the departments of Psychiatry, Child Health, Epidemiology and Community Medicine. Non-medical members of this department will be appointed, representing the various therapeutic professions making a contribution to mental handicap. Teaching commitments are expected to be extensive, involving medical students from St George's and post-graduate students in psychiatry and mental handicap throughout the Region. As the name of this new department implies, there will be an emphasis in the research projects undertaken to learn more of the psychiatric disorders that affect the mentally handicapped and their families. It is hoped that a special interest in communication disorders in mental handicap will evolve, and some of the beds will be available for the mentally handicapped with severe behavioural problems perhaps requiring security.

The aims, therefore, of this new department are threefold: firstly to develop an effective teaching programme for undergraduates, postgraduates and non-medical personnel, secondly to undertake research that will throw further light on the inter-relationship between psychiatry and mental handicap, and thirdly to develop a dynamic and progressive service for the care of the mentally handicapped. It will be the long-term aim of the work of this department to attract and train postgraduate students in psychiatry of the highest calibre to meet the service needs of this branch.

Teaching is in English and there is a possibility of some financial support from the Inter-University Council.
