

TWO NEW HUMAN RIGHTS JOURNALS from KLUWER

International Journal on Group Rights

Editor-in-Chief: Yonah Alexander, The George Washington University
Volume 1, 1993 (4 issues) ISSN 0927-5908 $160.00

The study of group rights is regarded as one of the most important and fast-growing areas within the field of human rights. Interest in this topic has gained considerable impetus as a result of recent developments in many parts of the world, but most noticeably in Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union.

The International Journal on Group Rights is devoted to legal, political and social problems associated with the existence of groups within society, particularly those defined by relatively constant factors such as race, religion, language or culture. No other journal currently available deals solely with these issues.

Each issue contains incisive editorial comment, in-depth articles by specialists from different disciplines and regions of the world, book reviews, and a current issues section including relevant national and international documents, case studies and new developments in the field.

International Journal of Children's Rights

Editors-in-Chief: Michael Freeman, University College, London and Geraldine Van Bueren, Queen Mary and Westfield College, University of London
Volume 1, 1993 (4 issues) ISSN 0927-5560 $153.00

Public interest in the subject of children's rights has grown rapidly in recent years. The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child and the World Summit for Children have caused a great increase in public awareness of children's rights and needs. This unprecedented activity has led to a call from distinguished scholars and practitioners worldwide for an interdisciplinary journal to address the complex and sensitive issues relating to children and the development of children's rights throughout the world.

The journal will contain scholarly articles and a topical practice and implementation section, as well as detailed book reviews across the range of children's issues. Topics covered in early issues will include the African Charter, the regulation of transnational adoption, street children, freedom of expression and the rights of artificially-procreated children.

The journal's chief aim is to further children's rights worldwide, drawing on the insights and methodologies of all relevant disciplines including law, legal and political theory, psychology, psychiatry, educational theory, sociology, social administration and social work, health, social anthropology, economics, theology and history. It is targeted at all those working with or for children's rights, both academics and practitioners.

MANUAL OF EUROPEAN ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

Professor Alexandre Kiss and Professor Dinah Shelton

This manual provides a detailed overview of the complex and distinct body of European environmental law.

Each chapter contains an introductory section in which the major elements of the relevant subjects are analyzed. For the teacher and student there are case studies, problems, questions and bibliographies, whilst practitioners, researchers and general readers will find useful the many basic texts of European environmental law that are reproduced in the manual, including treaties, Community documents and national legislation. The book thus uniquely and valuably combines in a single volume the fundamental materials of a treatise, a case book and a documentary compilation.

Comprehensive in its coverage, the book is an excellent source of reference for practitioners and policy-makers, as well as a fundamental resource for courses on environmental law, policy or science. Teachers and students of international law, Community law and comparative law will also find it of particular value.

THE EFFECTIVENESS OF INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL AGREEMENTS

A CO-PUBLICATION WITH U.N.C.E.D. — EARTH SUMMIT '92

This is the only work to bring together the final versions of the thirteen major research papers, commissioned for the U.N. Earth Summit, providing a detailed survey and analysis of the effectiveness of 124 existing international agreements and instruments to protect the environment. The material is presented in a clear open style and will prove a fundamental resource to all interested in the environment.

In addition the book contains the report by the Secretary-General of the Conference which sets the entire survey in context and summarizes the findings of the individual research papers. This section also contains the recommendations for future action to be agreed at the Conference.

The book concludes with a reference section containing an annotated list of existing environmental agreements and instruments within each area of research, including current membership, source references and secretariat addresses.

INTERNATIONAL LAW AND THE ANTARCTIC TREATY SYSTEM

Sir Arthur Watts, KCMG, QC

formerly The Legal Adviser, Foreign and Commonwealth Office, London

- An invaluable up-to-date survey of the legal framework for Antarctic activities, written by an author with direct practical experience of the Antarctic Treaty system.
- Essential for practitioners working within the system and for all interested in Antarctica's ever-growing significance in world affairs, especially the environment.

The author demonstrates how the Antarctic Treaty system makes an important contribution to international law generally notwithstanding the unique characteristics that set Antarctica apart. After a general introduction the book deals with the constitutional evolution of the Antarctic Treaty system, dispute settlement, territorial questions, the Antarctic seas, jurisdiction, enforcement and liability, non-militarisation and non-nuclearisation, resources, protection of the environment and the legal status of the Antarctic Treaty system.

A particularly useful feature of the book is the inclusion of the full texts of the five basic treaties of the Antarctic legal system.

THE IRAN-IRAQ WAR (1980-1988) AND THE LAW OF NAVAL WARFARE

Edited by Professor Andrea de Guttry and Professor Natalino Ronzitti

This is the first comprehensive collection of materials, many previously unpublished, on the wider naval aspects of the Iran-Iraq conflict and the dispatch of Western fleets to the Gulf.

A valuable central feature of the work is formed by eight detailed commentaries written by leading scholars from the countries whose State practice is considered. The commentaries describe the legal position adopted by Iran and Iraq, that of the Western States whose navies were present in the Gulf and the role played by the various international organizations.

The work contains an Introduction by the editors presenting an overview which serves to place the materials in context. An analytical index is also provided.

THE ABOLITION OF THE DEATH PENALTY IN INTERNATIONAL LAW

Professor William A. Schabas

The first step towards the creation of an international human rights norm abolishing the death penalty was taken in 1948 with the recognition of the "right to life" in Article 3 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

This book traces the emergence and progressive evolution of this international legal norm through an examination of the relevant conventions and case law of both regional and universal application as well as the specific humanitarian agreements.

The work explores the different limitations that international law has placed on the imposition of the death penalty and examines the procedural safeguards required by international law when capital punishment is being considered. The eventual emergence of a customary norm completely abolishing the death penalty is also discussed.

A significant work for all involved in international human rights law and the protection of the individual.

HUMAN RIGHTS AND EUROPE

3rd EDITION

Dr Ralph Beddard

An updated and significantly expanded edition of a work which has, for over twenty years, provided a detailed introduction to the mechanisms and case-law operating within the Council of Europe which seek to protect the rights of the individual.

The book considers in some detail the impact which the European Convention on Human Rights has had on the lives of those within the twenty-six Member States of the Council of Europe by selectively analysing those parts of its large and complex case law which give an insight into the development of European human rights.

Since the Convention entered into force in 1953 amazing changes have occurred in Europe. The E.C. has brought new dimensions into legal debate while the more recent break-up of the Soviet Union and democratisation of much of central Europe may both encourage and challenge the "common heritage of like-mindedness" which the Council of Europe has sought to exploit.

This new edition brings the discussion of all these matters up-to-date whilst retaining the author's clear and straightforward style thus providing a valuable and accessible guide for students and practitioners wishing to gain an insight into European human rights law.

IRAQ AND KUWAIT: THE HOSTILITIES AND THEIR AFTERMATH

This volume covers the period from the initiation of hostilities for the liberation of Kuwait to the armed actions in January 1993 undertaken to enforce the aerial exclusion zone in southern Iraq.

The book reproduces detailed reports on the outbreak and conduct of hostilities including the Security Council resolutions and extensive extracts from the debates.

Materials covering the response of the UN Commission on Human Rights, the General Assembly, UNHCR, the ICRC and other international bodies to the subsequent humanitarian and environmental emergency in the region are also reproduced. Particular emphasis is placed on the treatment of the Kurds and the Shiites.

The implementation of the cease-fire terms is also covered comprehensively. The latest documents on the work of the boundary demarcation commission, the UN Iraq-Kuwait observer mission, the repatriation of prisoners of war and civilians, the control of Iraqi weaponry and the work of the compensation commission are also included.

New Journals from Kluwer

European Review of Private Law

Editors: E.H. Hondius, University of Utrecht, The Netherlands
and M.E. Storme, University of Ghent, Belgium

The European Review of Private Law stresses the strong practical as well as academic importance of national private laws in an integrating Europe in the face of the current overwhelming emphasis placed on European Community Law. Cross-border research will become increasingly important as cross-border legal work develops. By providing accessible and comparative surveys of legal developments in a number of countries, with summaries of articles and case notes in English, French and German, the Review will provide a valuable source of information for lawyers wishing to look for new ideas with which to tempt their courts to innovate in the area of private law.

European Journal of Health Law

Editors-in-Chief: J.K.M. Gevers, University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands and H.D.C. Roscam Abbing, University of Utrecht, The Netherlands

The development of national, comparative and international health law in Europe is the focus of this new journal. The European Journal of Health Law will publish information about activities of European and other international organizations in the field of health law. Discussions about ethical questions with legal implications and the exchange of views between health lawyers in Europe will be encouraged. The journal will also follow national legislation, court decisions and other relevant national materials with international implications. Each issue contains articles (with abstracts), selected legislation, judicial decisions, chronicle of events, and book reviews.

Legal Aspects of Paperless Communication

Editors-in-Chief: Rob van Esch, Rabobank Nederland & University of Utrecht, The Netherlands and Corien Prins, University of Leiden, The Netherlands

Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) has become an important tool in facilitating commercial partners to communicate standardized messages instantly instead of transmitting trade documents in paper form. EDI includes electronic contracting across both enterprise and organization boundaries. The quickening pace of the use of EDI is having important and unexpected legal consequences. The task of keeping abreast of new EDI developments has to be combined with attempts to adapt tried and tested methods of legal analysis in solving the unfamiliar problems that arise in the field of EDI. EDI Law Review comprises editorials, articles (with abstracts), case reviews, legal analyses of (changes in) legislation, book reviews and documents.

Transboundary Movements and Disposal of Hazardous Wastes in International Law

Basic Documents

edited by Barbara Kwiatkowska, Netherlands Institute for the Law of the Sea (NILOS) and Alfred H.A. Soons, NILOS and University of Utrecht, The Netherlands
International Environmental Law & Policy Series

This book is the first collection of international legal documents related to the new, highly controversial and politically sensitive issue of transboundary movements of hazardous wastes and their disposal. This timely work aims to clarify and aid the increasingly intricate international debate on hazardous waste production and disposal, and reduce the conflict between North and South on the export of such waste to Third World countries.

The global instruments cover the basic system of the UNEP Basel Convention/ IAEA Code and the documents of various U.N. organizations, whose interest with hazardous waste movements has increased considerably due to the preparations for the 1992 United Nations Conference on Environment and Development (UNCED). Numerous regional instruments included are: those of the UN ECE, OECD, EEC and other organizations of the industrialized states; instruments related to Antarctica; and to the major developing state regions (Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, South Atlantic Zone, Asia and the Pacific), including the 1989 ACP-EEC Lomé IV Convention and the 1991 OAU Bamako Convention. Two US treaties on hazardous waste export controls with Mexico and Canada form notable instances of bilateral measures. Some documents of Greenpeace and other non-governmental organizations are also added.

An incisive Editors' Introduction and a comprehensive general index provide the reader with easy access to these vital instruments. The preface is provided by the honorable Dr. Mostafa K. Tolba, UN Under-Secretary-General and Executive Director of UNEP.

Richard S. Keirstead

Increasing contact between Japan and the West has created the need for a specialized dictionary covering the legal sector. Answering that need is the Tuttle Dictionary of Legal Terms, a compendium of words and expressions taken from criminal law, business law, diplomacy, etc. In a handy, pocket-size volume, more than 6,000 entries are presented in English, romanized Japanese, and Japanese characters. Useful appendixes include a discussion of legal-education systems, translations of the constitutions of the US and Japan, and a directory of legal service organizations.

ASIL 1993 PROCEEDINGS—A TOUR D'HORIZON OF ISSUES OF CURRENT INTEREST TO ACADEMICS, PRACTITIONERS AND OFFICIALS! Are you interested in

- the future of the UN's burgeoning efforts to cope with the multiple military conflicts and humanitarian crises of the post-Cold War world?
- the dominant trends in international trade and investment dispute settlement—and whether individuals and corporations will have greater rights of participation?
- the practical, legal and political problems being grappled with in carrying out the UN Security Council's decision to create a War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia?
- the emerging new international legal order in the Western Pacific, and the important political, legal and economic trends and issues that accompany it?

You'll find it all—and much more—in a single volume: the 1993 Proceedings!

1991. 541 pages. $95.00/hardcover. ISBN 0-941320-67-7.

INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL LAW:

Basic Instruments and References

By Edith Brown Weiss, Daniel B. Magraw, and Paul C. Szasz

"An extremely useful research tool which provides the user with multiple references to the sources of the texts of the instruments produced, or listed in it . . . easily the best collection of such reference material under one cover."

Andronico O. Adede, Deputy Director Codification, Office of Legal Affairs, United Nations

1991. 750 pages. $95.00/hardcover. ISBN 0-941320-68-5.

INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL LAW AND POLICY

By Ved P. Nanda and John A. Carver, Jr.

An analysis of international and global aspects of a broad range of issues effecting environmental law, including air and water quality, marine pollution, climate change, ozone depletion, deforestation, traffic in hazardous wastes and loss of biological diversity.

Early 1994. Approx. 450 pages. $95.00/hardcover. ISBN 0-941320-59-6.

IN FAIRNESS TO FUTURE GENERATIONS:

International Law, Common Patrimony, and Intergenerational Equity

By Edith Brown Weiss

Professor Weiss combines thorough research and careful analysis to show how rules of international law can be applied in an intertemporal dimension and provide new standards for human behavior.

1989. 385 pages. $65.00/hardcover. ISBN 0-941320-54-5.
