The Journal of Agricultural Science publishes research in both pure and applied sciences relating to agricultural problems. The range of topics embraces soil sciences, research on crops and agricultural animals, including husbandry, nutrition, physiology, genetics and breeding; papers on broader ecological and environmental subjects are considered provided they have a direct bearing upon agricultural practice. The journal receives contributions from all parts of the world.

Journal of Tropical Ecology

. . . caters for a growing interest in tropical ecosystems at a time of spreading desertification at low latitudes and rapid conversion of tropical forests to other uses. It publishes original research, book reviews and short communications encouraging informal and lively debate.

Volume 3 (1987) Quarterly £19.50 for individuals, £9.50 for individuals from Less Developed Countries, £49 for institutions.

“ . . . the Journal is already well on the way to becoming a major forum for interchange of ideas about tropical ecology, and all researchers working in the tropics, or who attempt to follow the tropical literature will find it essential reading.”
