

Editorial Note

The Society for the Study of Early China has ceased publication of its printed newsletter Early China News. The valuable functions served by the newsletter will be maintained electronically on the Early China Website:

<http://humanities.uchicago.edu/easian/earlychina>

The website is currently undergoing expansion to provide scholars in the early China field with a variety of resources. To give one example, in conjunction with the review article by Enno Giele in this issue of Early China the website provides a database of excavated early Chinese documents which will be periodically updated to include new discoveries and publications.
