This issue of the African Studies Review was edited by the Center for African Studies, University of Florida. All editorial correspondence regarding future issues should be sent to: Carol B. Thompson, Dept. of Political Science, University of Southern California, VKC 327, Los Angeles, CA 90089-0044.

All manuscripts should be submitted in triplicate. Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced (notes, excerpts, and references should also be double-spaced) and should be clear and dark. Please do not use erasable or onionskin paper. Maps, tables, charts, graphs, and other illustrations must be camera-ready. Manuscripts should conform to the recommendations of the latest edition of A Manual of Style (University of Chicago Press). Footnotes and references should appear at the end of the manuscript. Manuscripts will be submitted without the name of the author to outside readers; please include a removable cover page giving title, authorship, affiliation, and address; the article itself should carry only the title. The Review will only consider manuscripts that have not been published elsewhere and are not being considered by other journals.

CALL FOR PAPERS:
SPECIAL ISSUE ON LITERACY IN AFRICA

In commemoration of United Nations' Declaration of the year 1990 as the International Literacy Year, the African Studies Review will publish a special issue on literacy in Africa where over 165 million adults have still to acquire literacy—representing 54 per cent of its total adult population living in poverty and disadvantage. This interdisciplinary issue will be edited at Indiana University by guest editors H.S. Bhola (Professor of Education), Charles S. Bird (Professor of Linguistics), and Martha B. Kendall (Professor of Anthropology).

We invite Africanists from around the world to submit papers on various aspects of literacy in Africa including, but not limited to, the following:

- a) historical processes of dissemination of literacy in Africa in various languages;
- b) cultural perspectives on changes in the past and the present as symbioses have developed between oracy and literacy;
- c) political economy of literacy/illiteracy in the English, French, and Portuguese-speaking countries, including case studies on the role of literacy in socio-economic development;
- d) problems of selecting languages in which literacy is taught;
- e) reading habits of Africans and the availability of literature in Africa;
- f) the future of literacy in Africa as it encounters the new information technology.

Papers submitted should include original material and make substantial contributions to the interdisciplinary study of literacy in Africa. Manuscripts should be no larger than 30 standard pages and prepared according to the "Instruction to Contributors" printed on the inside front cover of the ASR. Contributions submitted for the special issue will be subject to normal formal review procedures. Authors should send four copies of their work by March 31, 1989 to:

Professor H.S. Bhola, W.W. Wright Education Building, #203

NEW FROM INDIANA

The Green and the Black

Qadhafi's Policies in Africa

Edited by René Lemarchand

In an effort to move beyond the "mad-dog" syndrome as an explanation of Qadhafi's foreign policy, leading specialists examine the historical forces, attitudes, interests, and priorities that have shaped Qadhafi's behavior in Africa.

Indiana Series in Arab and Islamic Studies

Not Either an Experimental Doll

The Separate Worlds of Three South African Women

Edited by Shula Marks

The roots of modern Apartheid are exposed through the painful and revealing correspondence of three very different South African women—two black and one "liberal" white—from 1949 to 1951. Although the letters speak for themselves, the editor has written an introduction and epilogue which tell of the tragic ending to this riveting story.

cloth $38.50 paper $14.50

The Dialectics of Oppression in Zaire

By Michael G. Schatzberg

Focusing on what the Zairian state is and does, Schatzberg examines how scarcity and insecurity have become twin motors of a dialectic of oppression, resulting in coercion, corruption, exploitation, and fear.

Revolutionary Ethiopia

From Empire to People's Republic

By Edmond J. Keller

The first comprehensive survey and analysis of the historical roots, development, and results of the Ethiopian revolution of 1974, which ended the 44-year rule of Emperor Haile Selassie. Invaluable for understanding recent events in famine-plagued Ethiopia.
