THE CONTRIBUTORS

C. A. W. MANNING has held the Chair of International Relations at the London School of Economics since 1930 and was formerly a member of the League of Nations Secretariat. His report, The University Teaching of Social Sciences: International Relations, was published by UNESCO in 1954.

KARL DE SCHWEINITZ, JR., Associate Professor of Economics at Northwestern University, is co-author, with Kenneth W. Thompson, of Man and Modern Society (1953). He continues to work on a comparative study of industrial revolution.

NATHAN LEITES is Visiting Lecturer in the Department of Political Science at Yale and a member of the Social Science Division of The RAND Corporation. Among his publications are A Study of Bolshevism (1953) and, with Elsa Bernaut, Ritual of Liquidation: The Case of the Moscow Trials (1954).

CHRISTIAN DE LA MALÈNE is Secretary of the Groupe des Républicains Sociaux in the Council of the Republic of France.

RICHARD H. ULLMAN, in his second year at Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar, is a member of New College and the holder of a Studentship at Nuffield College. He is engaged in a study of Anglo-Soviet relations in the period 1917-1924.

CHARLES E. LINDBLOM, Associate Professor of Economics at Yale University, published Politics, Economics and Welfare with Robert A. Dahl in 1953. He is currently employing the professional tools and insights of economists in an analysis of political bargaining among government officials and other political leaders.

TIBOR SCITOVSKY is Professor of Economics at Stanford University. He is preparing a volume of essays dealing with Western economic integration.

E. HARRIS HARBISON is Henry Charles Lea Professor of History at Princeton University. His field is sixteenth-century European history and his most recent book, The Christian Scholar in the Age of the Reformation, appeared in the fall of 1956.

BERT F. HOSELITZ, Professor of the Social Sciences at the University of Chicago, is editor of the quarterly journal Economic Development and Cultural Change. One of the contributors to The Progress of Underdeveloped Areas (1952), he is at work on a book with the tentative title, Economic Growth and Social Structure.

BRIGADIER GENERAL S. F. GIFFIN, USAF, has been Vice Commandant of the Air War College at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., since 1954. His former assignments include service with the Tactical Air Command in the China Theater during World War II and several subsequent years at headquarters of the US European Command.

LLOYD A. FALLERS is Director of the East African Institute of Social Research in Kampala, Uganda. The author of Bantu Bureaucracy (1956), he is collaborating with other members of the Institute on a study of patterns of emerging African leadership in Buganda and in Nyanza Province of Kenya.

KURT L. SHELL is Assistant Professor of Political Science at Harpur College of the State University of New York. He completed his doctoral dissertation in 1955 at Columbia University, where he was an instructor in the Department of Government.
