In Figure 1, one of the interventions (EASE) was misplaced under 'prevention', instead of 'treatment'. The labels of universal prevention and promotion were inverted. Please see the below corrected figure 1 for reference:

Fig. 1. Mental health interventions continuum with a selection of psychosocial evidence-based interventions (Institute of Medicine Committee on Prevention of Mental Disorders, 1994). SEHER, strengthening the evidence base on school-based interventions for promoting adolescent health programme; CBI, classroom-based intervention; EASE, Early Adolescent Skills for Emotions; CCDT, Community Case Detection Tool; CIDT, Community Informant Detection Tool; YRI, Youth Readiness Intervention; CETA, Common Elements Treatment Approach; CSI, Caregiver Support Intervention; SH+, Self Help Plus; PM+, Problem Management Plus.
