Attitudes and Interactions from Alexander to Justinian
Louis H. Feldman

Relations between Jews and non-Jews in the Hellenistic-Roman period were marked by suspicion and hate, maintain most studies of that topic. But if such conjectures are true, asks Louis Feldman, how did Jews succeed in winning so many adherents?

Systematically evaluating attitudes toward Jews from the time of Alexander the Great to the fifth century A.D., Feldman finds that Judaism elicited strongly positive responses from the non-Jewish population. Jews were a vigorous presence in the ancient world, and Judaism was strengthened substantially by the development of the Talmud. Although Jews in the Diaspora were deeply Hellenized, those who remained in the Land of Israel were able to resist the cultural inroads of Hellenism and even to initiate intellectual counterattacks.

Feldman draws on a wide variety of material. What emerges is a foil to the conception of Jewish history as years of uninterrupted weakness and suffering.

PROSPECTS · FOR · A COMMON · MORALITY

Edited by Gene Outka and John P. Reeder, Jr.

This volume centers on debates about how far moral judgments bind across traditions and epochs. The contributors hope to advance the substance of the debates without prejudging the outcome. In addition to the editors, the contributors include Robert Merrihew Adams, Annette C. Baier, Alan Donagan, Margaret A. Farley, Alan Gewirth, David Little, Richard Rorty, Jeffrey Stout, and Lee H. Yearley.

HISTORY of RELIGION

A Sensitive Independence
Canadian Methodist Women
Missionaries in Canada and the Orient,
1881-1925

Rosemary R. Gagan

"Based on careful and extensive archival research... this book is an essential foundation for... a better understanding of the specific function of women within mission history, and the missionary role itself within the context of women's history and changing gender roles." - Margo Gewurtz, Dept of History, York University
320 pages, 23 illustr., £33.95 cloth

The Contribution of Methodism to Atlantic Canada

Edited by Charles H. H. Scobie and John Webster Grant

"an impressive investigation of the main ways in which Methodism affected life in Atlantic Canada ... Brings together 'state of the art' knowledge of scholars in the field and will be a major reference tool." - Naomi Griffiths, Dept of History, Carleton University
296 pages, £29.95 cloth

Two Worlds
The Protestant Culture of Nineteenth-Century Ontario
William Westfall

"... an excellent socio-historical study, sensitively written and well developed. It is of considerable value to historians, not only in Canada, but also in Britain." - British Journal of Canadian Studies
288 pages, 21 illustr., £31.30 cloth

A World Mission
Canadian Protestantism and the Quest for a New International Order,
1918-1939

Robert Wright

Robert Wright shows how the mainline Protestant denominations in Canada were engaged in a sustained effort to formulate and apply a form of Christian internationalism that would be relevant to the needs of a rapidly changing world.
432 pages, £38.95 cloth

The Evangelical Century
College and Creed in English Canada
from the Great Revival to the Great Depression

Michael Gauvreau

"Gauvreau has produced a scholarly study, one which challenges and reassesses the historical analyses of Canadian cultural life. Northrop Frye once defined religion as "the major cultural force in Canada"; Gauvreau's The Evangelical Century is one of the most important evaluations of that force to have appeared in the past 20 years." - The Higher
416 pages, 17 illustr., £37.95 cloth

Serving the Present Age
Revivalism, Progressivism, and the Methodist Tradition in Canada
Phyllis D. Airhart

Airhart considers the key role of Methodism played in the collapse of the nineteenth-century evangelical consensus and discusses the way in which the changes in Methodism decisively shaped twentieth-century mainstream Protestantism in Canada.
232 pages, £29.95 cloth

The German Peasants' War and the Anabaptist Community of Goods
James M. Stayer

"Stayer's vigorous documentation of the divergence of views within Anabaptism on the question of personal possessions is greatly to be welcomed."
- Journal of Theological Studies
256 pages, £26.95 cloth

The Dévotes
Women and the Church in Seventeenth-Century France
Elizabeth Rapley

"Students of the religious life will find [Rapley's] text intriguing for the history of religious founders and foundresses." - Catholic Herald

Religion and the Individual

A Jewish Perspective

LOUIS JACOBS

In this first book in an important new series, Dr Jacobs demonstrates that the role of the individual in Judaism is a significant one, and that in most versions of the faith the ultimate aim of the individual is to inherit eternal life.

The Body Divine

The Symbol of the Body in the Works of Teilhard de Chardin and Ramanuja

ANNE HUNT OVERZEE

This study explores the ways in which two spiritual teachers, one Christian (Teilhard de Chardin) and one Hindu (Ramanuja) have seen the world as inherently divine, and have presented this insight theologically through their use of a symbol, the 'body of the divine'.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions in duplicate and books for review should be sent to Mr Peter Byrne at Department of Theology and Religious Studies, King's College London, Strand, London WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
8. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
9. All contributors of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviewers will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
10. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
