Aims & Scope

Diogenes is a double-blind, peer-reviewed, international journal in the humanities published on an open-access basis by Cambridge University Press. It acts as a platform for high-quality scholarly publications with emphasis on transdisciplinary and cross-cultural orientations, and seeks to bring together scholars from different cultures, horizons, and disciplines in the humanities and social sciences. It welcomes submissions of high academic standards expressing new ideas and latest developments in the field as part of its mission to foster the capacity of the humanities to respond to emerging cultural challenges.

International Federation of Philosophical Societies (FISP)

Established in 1948, FISP is the highest non-governmental world organization for philosophy. Its main objectives are: to contribute to the development of professional relations between philosophers of all countries, freely and with mutual respect; to foster contacts between institutions, societies and publications dedicated to philosophy; to collect documentation useful for the development of philosophical studies; to sponsor every five years a World Congress of Philosophy; to promote philosophical education; to prepare publications of global interest and to contribute to the impact of philosophical knowledge on global problems. FISP members are philosophical societies, associations, and similar institutions at national, regional and international levels. FISP is a member of the International Council for Philosophy and Human Sciences, the non-governmental organization that constitutes the link between international humanities federations and UNESCO.
