Lending to the Borrower from Hell

Debt, Taxes, and Default in the Age of Philip II
Mauricio Drelichman & Hans-Joachim Voth

“Assembling a truly remarkable database of the national accounts of sixteenth-century Castile, Lending to the Borrower from Hell takes a hard quantitative look at the fiscal position of Philip II of Spain, the world’s first serial defaulter. This accessible and engaging book uses clever and comprehensive methods to make novel findings and turn conventional wisdom on its head. It will have a significant impact on economic history and far beyond.”
—Mark Dincecco, University of Michigan

Power to the People

Energy in Europe over the Last Five Centuries
Astrid Kander, Paolo Malanima & Paul Warde

“... extensive and detailed quantitative information—much of which is new or not widely available—with readable explanations of the technical innovations that drove economic performance. It shows how energy use has long been central to Europe’s economic growth, but that its role has been neither simple nor uniform.”
—William M. Cavert, University of Cambridge

Cities of Commerce

The Institutional Foundations of International Trade in the Low Countries, 1250–1650
Oscar Gelderblom

“This richly detailed book offers an important and critical reexamination of the commercial revolution in Northern Europe. Combining key insights from law and institutional economics with a sharp historical narrative, Gelderblom produces a striking new understanding of how formal and informal institutions propelled the European economy forward.”
—Jean-Laurent Rosenthal, California Institute of Technology
