All men by nature desire knowledge.

Aristotle

Everything is what it is and not another thing.

Butler

Metaphysics is the finding of bad reasons for what we believe upon instinct, but to find these reasons is no less an instinct.

Bradley

I think, therefore I am.

Descartes

The god whose oracle is in Delphi neither utters nor hides his meaning, but indicates it by a sign.

Heraclitus

You can't step into the same river twice.

Heraclitus

If we take in our hand any volume; of divinity or school metaphysics, for instance; let us ask, Does it contain any abstract reasoning concerning quantity or number? No. Does it contain any experimental reasoning concerning matter of fact and existence? No. Commit it then to the flames: for it can contain nothing but sophistry and illusion.

Hume

There is only one categorical imperative. It is: Act only according to that maxim by which you can at the same time will that it should become a universal law.

Kant

This is the best of all possible worlds.

Leibniz

The heart has its reasons.

Pascal
