HODDER AND STOUGHTON

announce for publication on October 24 the new book by Professor T. F. Torrance M.B.E., D.D., D.Th.

WHEN CHRIST COMES AND COMES AGAIN

Professor Torrance, the distinguished Scottish theologian, has presented in a simple, stimulating book, the urgent message of the church between the two Advents of Christ. This is evangelism that is more concerned with presenting Christ than with arousing human decisions, in the belief that the compelling power of the Gospel itself may make its appeal directly, unhindered by the artificial representation of the popular evangelist. This is a book from the heart of the faith for all those who seek to understand and know the Gospel, as well as all those engaged in Tell Scotland campaigns and similar Christian enterprises. 12/6 net

The first book to be published in the Priest's Library is a book on preaching by a well-known preacher. Canon Ireson's insight into the problems of preachers and also into the minds of the congregation is remarkable.

'This is partly a work of New Testament exegesis, partly an elaboration of an ecumenical theology . . . a book to be read for the detail of the argument.'

AN IMPORTANT NEW REFERENCE BOOK

The Oxford Dictionary of the Christian Church

Edited by F. L. CROSS

Lady Margaret Professor of Divinity in the University of Oxford and Canon of Christ Church

This comprehensive one-volume work will take its place among the Oxford reference books beside the Companions—to English Literature, to Music, etc.—and the Oxford Classical Dictionary.

Its aim is to provide factual information on every aspect of Christianity, especially in its historical development. It contains an alphabetical sequence of well over 6,000 entries or articles ranging from a few lines to about 2,500 words in length, and, appended to the relevant articles, nearly 4,500 concise but important bibliographies.

Biography (Fathers, Saints, Popes, reformers, writers, etc.) naturally accounts for many entries, but others include Christian bodies (local churches, denominations, orders, etc.) doctrine, liturgy, canon law, institutions and customs, asceticism and devotion, places with special Christian associations, councils, documents, and important individual writings (e.g. Cerne, Book of; Scottish Confession).

Biblical subjects are covered briefly (owing to the existence of other reference books in that field); all post-Biblical periods, and all Christian traditions, Eastern and Western, Catholic and Protestant, European and extra-European, are included, with, however, most stress on what the modern Western reader is most likely to require.

The comprehensiveness, balance, and scholarly authority of this volume, together with the bibliographical information included, make it of unique value not only to the scholar but to the educated reader generally both in English-speaking countries and throughout the world.

A detailed prospectus is available.
