Writing the Past, Inscribing the Future

History as Prophecy in Colonial Java
Nancy K. Florida

"[This book] could only have been written by someone who has not only the most technically precise knowledge of the Javanese language and the history of its social uses, but also one acutely aware of the raging debates around the critical study of non-western histories. Nancy Florida succeeds on all counts."
—Vincente Rafael, University of California

Neither Cargo nor Cult

Ritual Politics and the Colonial Imagination in Fiji
Martha Kaplan

"Inherently multidisciplinary, Neither Cargo nor Cult is terrific. Linked with both general theoretical issues and the rich anthropological literature on Fijian societies, it consistently breaks new ground, charting new directions on the relationship between history and culture, and raising effectively perspectives not usually considered on the Fijian ethnographic record. There is nothing quite like it . . ."—Donald Brenneis, Pitzer College

Cherishing Men from Afar

Qing Guest Ritual and the Macartney Embassy of 1793
James L. Hevia

"James Hevia persuasively suggests a whole new way of viewing not just the Macartney embassy but the entire subject of Sino-Western interaction from the eighteenth-century to the present. Cherishing Men from Afar deserves to be read by the widest spectrum of historians."—Paul A. Cohen, Harvard University

Misers, Shrews, and Polygamists

Sexuality and Male-Female Relations in Eighteenth-Century Chinese Fiction
Keith McMahon

"Misers, Shrews, and Polygamists is both scholarly and entertaining. It offers an original and sometimes irreverent analysis of some well-known and other relatively unknown works. It contributes to the revision of former narratives about women in China, at the same time as it confirms the dominant discourse of female self-sacrifice and expendability."—Harriet Evans, Times Literary Supplement

Asia/Pacific as Space of Cultural Production

Rob Wilson and Arif Dirlik, editors

"By daring to feature works by and critiques of the writing of some of the Pacific's most influential imagemakers and scholars, [this book] challenges Euro-American tendencies to view the Pacific Basin as void of indigenous literary talent and intellectual acumen."
—Vilsoni Hereniko, University of Hawaii

Global/Local

Cultural Production and the Transnational Imaginary
Rob Wilson and Wimal Dissanayake, editors

Mapping a "new world space" that is simultaneously more globalized and localized than before, this groundbreaking collection of essays examines the dynamic between the movement of capital, images, and technologies without regard to national borders and the tendency toward fragmentation of the world into increasingly contentious enclaves of difference, ethnicity, and resistance.

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

Modern Asian Studies is concerned with the history, geography, politics, sociology, literature, economics and social anthropology of South Asia, South-East Asia, China and Japan. Contributions should be based on original research or field-work.

All articles (text, notes and references) must be clearly typed in double spacing throughout, including footnotes, on one side only of the paper—preferably A4. Two copies should be submitted. Spelling, dates, references and footnote numbers should be checked for accuracy. The use of diacritical marks, italics and capital letters should be kept to a minimum. References repeated in the footnotes should be by author and short title; or the Harvard system of citation may be used.

The title of the article and the author's name and affiliation should be typed on a separate page at the beginning of the article.

Tables should be clearly laid out and numbered consecutively. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted. All figures and totals should be checked for accuracy.

Maps and figures should be clearly legible in every detail. The spelling of place names should be consistent with that used in the text.

Every table, map and figure should have a title and at least one reference in the text to indicate its location.

When an article has been accepted for publication, the author is strongly encouraged to send a copy of the final version on computer disk (Apple Macintosh or IBM compatible PC) together with the hard copy typescript, giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word, Word or Word Perfect). However, the publisher reserves the right to typeset material by conventional means if an author's disk proves unsatisfactory.

First proofs only will be sent to the author who will be expected to return them to the Editor within three days. Excessive alterations and additions may be charged to the author.

Each author will receive twenty-five free offprints of his or her article and a copy of the part of the journal in which it appears.

Submission of an article will be taken to imply that it has not been previously published and that it is not on offer to any other publisher. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to Cambridge University Press. The Editor welcomes expression of all shades of opinion, but responsibility for them rests with their authors.

All correspondence should be addressed to Dr Gordon Johnson, Wolfson College, Cambridge CB3 9BB, England.
