“An important and successful attempt to create an ethics for our times...

...at once relevant and humane, learned yet accessible to the ordinary reader. THE MORAL CHOICE deserves the attention of anyone interested in human values in contemporary society.”

— Victor Ferkiss, Professor, Georgetown University.

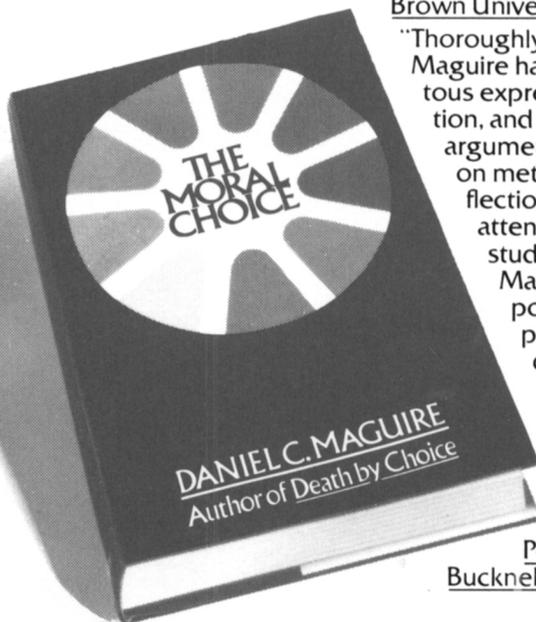

“Witty, human, erudite, down-to-earth, provocative, illuminating... I fervently hope he will be heard amid the smoke and din of the battle going on right now in Christian ethics and Catholic moral theology.” — John Giles Milhaven, Professor of Religious Studies,

Brown University.

“Thoroughly captivating. Maguire has a knack for felicitous expression, apt illustration, and persuasive argument. The book’s focus on method in ethical reflection deserves careful attention by scholars, students, and laymen. Maguire’s constructive position is sufficiently provocative and direct to stimulate creative discussion within all these circles.”

— Douglas Sturm, Professor of Religion and Political Science,

Bucknell University.
