In and Out of the Mind

Greek Images of the Tragic Self
Ruth Padel

The representations of mind in Greek tragedy are central to Western views of inwardness. Tragedy speaks of inwardness as woundable, dark, invaded by destructive passions. In this wide-ranging work Ruth Padel relates ancient tragedy to the biology and daemonology of the time, exploring Greek conceptions of the human interior and the ways in which Greek tragic literature shaped how we speak about our inner selves today.

"[Ruth Padel] has made what seems to me one of the most important contributions to the understanding of early Greek thought, and therefore to the origins of later Greek thought, that have appeared during the last fifty years"

Homer's Ancient Readers

The Hermeneutics of Greek Epic's Earliest Exegetes
Edited by Robert Lamberton and John J. Keaney

Although the influence of Homer on Western literature has long commanded critical attention, little has been written on how various generations of readers have found meaning in his texts. These seven essays explore the ways in which the Iliad and the Odyssey have been read from the time of Homer through the Renaissance. The contributors clarify the position of the Iliad and the Odyssey in the intellectual world of antiquity while offering historical insight into the nature of reading.

Samothrace

Volume 7: The Rotunda of Arsinoe

James R. McCredie, Georges Roux, Stuart M. Shaw, and John Kurtich

The Sanctuary of the Great Gods on the island of Samothrace was a renowned center of religious life in the northern Aegean from the seventh century B.C. until the fourth century after Christ. From the beginning of Macedonian supremacy, Philip II and his successors embellished the Sanctuary with great buildings of innovative design for both pious and political ends. Volume 7 of this series focuses on the magnificent marble Rotunda dedicated by Queen Arsinoe II for cult purposes early in the third century B.C.

The Edges of the Earth in Ancient Thought

Geography, Exploration, and Fiction

James S. Romm

For the Greeks and Romans the earth's furthest perimeter was a realm radically different from what they perceived as central and human. The alien qualities of these "edges of the earth" became the basis of a literary tradition that endured throughout antiquity and into the Renaissance. Here James Romm surveys this tradition, revealing that the Greeks, and to a somewhat lesser extent the Romans, saw geography not as a branch of physical science but as an important literary genre.

The Glory of Hera

Greek Mythology and the Greek Family

Philip E. Slater

In this classic work on narcissism and family relationships in fifth-century Athenian society, Philip Slater argues that the personalities and social behavior of the gods were neurotic, and that their neurotic conditions must have mirrored the family life of the people who perpetuated their myths. The author traces the issue of narcissism to mother-son relationships, focusing primarily on the literary representation of Hera and the male gods and showing how it related to devalued women raising boys in an ambitious society dominated by men.

Nothing to Do with Dionysos?

Athenian Drama in Its Social Context

Edited by John J. Winkler and Froma I. Zeitlin

These critically diverse and innovative essays are aimed at restoring the social context of ancient Greek drama. The collection considers how individual plays and groups of dramas pertained to the concerns of the body politic and how these issues were presented in the convention of the stage and as centerpieces of civic ceremonies.

"[A] valuable volume. . . . [The essays] are generally not only adventurous and various, but . . . thought-provoking advances."

Theophrastus of Eresus

Sources for his life, writings, thought and influence

*Edited and translated by William W. Fortenbaugh, Pamela M. Huby,
Robert W. Sharples (Greek and Latin) and Dimitri Gutas (Arabic)*

1. Life, writings, various reports, logic, physics, metaphysics, theology, mathematics.
2. Psychology, human physiology, living creatures, botany, ethics, religion, politics, rhetoric and poetics, music, miscellanea

These two volumes represent the first fruits of an international project to produce a new collection - text, translation and commentary - of the fragments and testimonia relating to Theophrastus (c. 370-288/5 B.C.), Aristotle's pupil and successor as head of the Lyceum. The need for a new collection was apparent: the standard collection, by Wimmer, is already 120 years old, whereas we now have far better texts of many of the ancient authors in which fragments and testimonia of Theophrastus occur.

Whilst classicists have devoted the past hundred years to bringing into the light the work of the major post-Aristotelian schools, the contribution of Theophrastus has remained obscure.

This first stage of the project presents the texts, critical apparatus and English translation of the fragments and testimonia. It contains a long methodological introduction, an index of Theophrastean texts and concordances with other collections (Scheider, Wimmer and the several recent partial editions).

Essays on Aristotle's Poetics

Edited by Amelie O. Rorty

Aimed at deepening our understanding of the Poetics, this collection places Aristotle's analysis of tragedy in its larger philosophical context. In these twenty-one essays, philosophers and classicists explore the corpus of Aristotle's work in order to link the Poetics to the rest of his views on psychology and on history, ethics, and politics. The essays address such topics as catharsis, pity and fear, pleasure, character and the unity of action, and the modality of dramatic action.

Tragic Pleasures

Aristotle on Plot and Emotion

Elizabeth Belfiore

Elizabeth Belfiore offers a striking new interpretation of Aristotle's Poetics by situating the work within the Aristotelian corpus and in the context of Greek culture in general. In Aristotle's Rhetoric, the Politics, and the ethical, psychological, logical, physical, and biological works, Belfiore finds extremely important but largely neglected sources for understanding the elliptical statements in the Poetics.

While exploring catharsis, Tragic Pleasures analyzes the closely related question of how the Poetics treats the issue of plot structure. In fact, Belfiore's wide-ranging work eventually discusses every central concept in the Poetics, including imitation, pity and fear, necessity and probability, character, and kinship relations.

Athenian Economy and Society

A Banking Perspective

Edward E. Cohen

In this ground-breaking analysis of the world's first private banks, Edward Cohen convincingly demonstrates the existence and functioning of a market economy in ancient Athens while revising our understanding of the society itself. Challenging the view in which bankers are merely pawnbrokers and money-changers, Cohen reveals that fourth-century Athenian bankers pursued sophisticated transactions. He further explores how women and slaves played important roles in these family businesses—thereby gaining legal rights entirely unexpected in a society supposedly dominated by an elite of male citizens. Cohen's analysis offers great insight into daily Athenian life and cultural organization.

Aristophanes and the Intertextual Parabasis

Thomas K. Hubbard

Reading closely each of Aristophanes' comedies, Hubbard here demonstrates that the parabasis—the choral interlude—provides a critical link between the identities of the poet, chorus, and protagonist, and between the play and its audience. Cornell Studies in Classical Philology. $39.55

The Fall of the Athenian Empire

Donald Kagan

"There is no comparable work in English."—History. "No less than, say, the Napoleonic invasion of Russia or the Japanese strike at Pearl Harbor, the Athenian expedition against Sparta's allies in Sicily seems to incarnate the malignant genius and ironies of war itself. . . . Kagan's patient scrutiny of the diplomatic and domestic background of this fatal thrust is masterly."—George Steiner, New Yorker. $15.35

The Poetics of Imitation

Anacreon and the Anacreontic Tradition

PATRICIA A. ROSENMEYER

Once thought to be the work of the archaic Greek poet Anacreon, the collection of so-called anacreontic poems were considered unworthy of attention when revealed to be late Hellenistic and early Roman imitations by anonymous writers.

This book, the first full-length treatment of the corpus, explores the complex poetics of imitation which inspired anacreontic composition for so many centuries in antiquity.

Euripides • The Bacchae & Aristophanes • The Frogs

A new translation in poetry by Francis Blessington, Northeastern University (Boston, Mass.)

Professor Blessington's translation puts these two plays of Dionysos into powerful, contemporary poetry in their own right while maintaining a close fidelity to the original works. The dialogues are direct in meaning and flexible in verse; the choruses formal, contemporary, and song-like, in a wide variety of meters that give the feel of the originals. Both plays have been successfully tested on the stage and in the classroom and will make essential reading for a wide variety of courses in drama, literature, and history.

Includes an Introduction, Notes on the forms of the plays, Principal Dates in the Lives of Euripides and Aristophanes, and a useful Bibliography.

Theophrastus of Eresus

Sources for his life, writings, thought and influence

*Edited and translated by William W. Fortenbaugh, Pamela M. Huby,
Robert W. Sharples (Greek and Latin) and Dimitri Gutas (Arabic)*

1. Life, writings, various reports, logic, physics, metaphysics, theology, mathematics.

2. Psychology, human physiology, living creatures, botany, ethics, religion, politics, rhetoric and poetics, music, miscellanea

These two volumes represent the first fruits of an international project to produce a new collection - text, translation and commentary - of the fragments and testimonia relating to Theophrastus (c. 370-288/5 B.C.), Aristotle's pupil and successor as head of the Lyceum.

The need for a new collection was apparent: the standard collection, by Wimmer, is already 120 years old, whereas we now have far better texts of many of the ancient authors in which fragments and testimonia of Theophrastus occur.

Whilst classicists have devoted the past hundred years to bringing into the light the work of the major post-Aristotelian schools, the contribution of Theophrastus has remained obscure.

This first stage of the project presents the texts, critical apparatus and English translation of the fragments and testimonia. It contains a long methodological introduction, an index of Theophrastean texts and concordances with other collections (Scheider, Wimmer and the several recent partial editions).

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

1. One copy of an article will suffice. It will usually be returned if the contributor so requests on submitting it, but as the editors may wish to annotate it and furthermore cannot take responsibility for any loss, contributors should retain another copy.

2. Articles should be typed in double spacing on A4 paper and on one side of the paper only. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively and typed on separate sheets. Greek quotations need not be typed, but every letter must be clear and legible; especial care should be taken over accents and breathings.

3. Quotations in English, Latin, French, etc., should be put in single inverted commas, e.g.

... the phrase 'dux femina facti' has ...

A quotation within a quoted passage has double inverted commas. Single words or self-contained phrases (such as fait accompli) may be underlined to indicate italics. Material inserted within a quotation is placed in square brackets:

'[The translator]... must ever be casting his eyes upwards from the copy to the original.'

4. References should normally be given in the footnotes, in the following form:

BOOKS

R. Syme, The Roman Revolution (Oxford, 1939), pp. 78–9 or op. cit., pp. 78–9.

E. Norden, *Die antike Kunstprosa*⁵ i.164–81

or op. cit. i.164–81.

F. Jacoby, FGrHist 328 F 4.

Authors' initials should be stated, at least at their first mention. Abbreviations should not be assigned to books unless they are generally familiar (e.g. *OCD*² omitting full points).

ARTICLES

R. P. Winnington-Ingram, 'The Danaid Trilogy', JHS 81 (1961), 141–52

or R. P. Winnington-Ingram, JHS 81 (1961), 141–52.

Both year and volume number should be given.

The Classical Association

The main aims of the Classical Association are to promote and sustain interest in classical studies, to maintain their rightful position in universities and schools, and to give scholars and teachers opportunities of meeting and discussing their problems. It organizes an annual conference, lasting four or five days, in a university centre, and sponsors twenty-nine branches, most of which hold Greek and Latin Reading Competitions for Scholars. Its activities are fully reported in its annual Proceedings, issued free to all members.

The present membership of the Association is approximately 4,400. Membership is open both to individuals and to institutions at an annual subscription of £3.00 (life composition for individual members, £63.00). Members may obtain the Classical Review and Classical Quarterly at reduced prices (Review, £16.00; Quarterly, £17.00; combined subscription, £28.00). Greece & Rome may also be obtained through the Association for an annual subscription of £11.00. Application for membership and subscriptions for the journals (which should normally be received by 31 January in each year) should be addressed to the Hon. Treasurer, Richard Wallace, B.A., M.A., Department of Classics, University of Keele, Keele, Staffs. ST5 5BG.

The Association can also supply copies of the Index to the First Series of the Classical Review (price £1.50 for members, £1.75 for non-members, post free), of the last issues of The Year's Work in Classical Studies, covering the years 1945–7 (price £1.00 each volume, post free) and of Greece & Rome Studies, Virgil (paper price for members £7.00). These publications and details of the various occasional publications of the Association are obtainable from the Hon. Treasurer. Inquiries should be sent to either of the Hon. Secretaries (Dr. J. Percival, Department of Classics, University College Cardiff, P.O. Box 78, Cardiff CF1 1XL and Miss H. M. Jones, 18 Valley Close, Pinner, Middlesex).
